'Scioto' Sinking Recalled

Wellsville Woman, 93, Is One Of 3 Survivors

By ROBERT POPP

The story of the sinking of the excursion steamer, Scioto, has become part of the misty legends of the Upper Ohio Valley, but it still lives vividly in the memory of Mrs. Augusta Catherine Todd, who soon will be 94.

Mrs. Todd, a resident of College St. for many years, now makes her home in the Greystone Nursing Home at 1015 Riverside Ave., Wellsville. As a child of 6, she survived one of the worst steamboat disasters in Ohio River history, along with her mother, father, brother and sister.

It was on Tuesday, July 4, 1882, that the Scioto went to the bottom of the Ohio off Mingo Junction after a collision with another excursion steamer, the John Lomas. Seventy-five persons were lost, most of them residents of East Liverpool and Wellsville, but more than 300 were saved after making their way to the top deck of the Scioto, which protruded above the surface.

Bright, alert and cheerful, Mrs. Todd says: "I have a lot of ancient history in me!" as she recounts her memories of the disaster—vivid flashes of incidents from that time nearly 87 years ago.

HER MOTHER. Mrs. Mary Nagel Garner, and her father, Thomas Garner, survived the disaster, along with their other two children, Ida and George

Contemporary accounts, often conflicting in details, say the Scioto was upbound after a holiday excursion to Moundsville and the Lomas was downbound, headed for Martins Ferry from Brown's Island—also with a crowd of excursionists aboard.

The two boats collided and the Scioto sank within three minutes at the foot of Mingo Island. The Lomas landed her passengers on the nearby shore and then returned to the site and rescued most of the survivors of the Scioto.

"My mother and father and we three children had a stateroom," Mrs. Todd recalls. "My father had taken me to get a drink of water just before the collision. Then the boats hit and the Scioto started to sink. My father took me to the top deck and told me to stay there while he looked for my mother and the other two children.

LIVING HISTORY. Mrs. Augusta Catherine Todd, 93, one of the three known living survivors of a steamboat disaster almost 87 years ago, recalls her experiences for Mrs. Margaret Mick, proprietor of the Greystone Nursing Home on Riverside Ave., Wellsville. Mrs. Todd holds a volume of Columbiana County history telling the story of the famous river tragedy.

"I THINK my mother and the other two may have already been on the top deck at that time, but he could not see them in the terrible confusion. My mother and my brother and sister were in the stateroom when the collision occurred.

"Somebody broke a transom in the ceiling of the stateroom to help them onto the deck above. A man reached through the opening to help my mother.

Cannon Booms Salute

Nation Says Goodbye To Great Chief

Buried Next To His Long-Dead Son; Wife Thanks U.S.

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The body of Dwight David Eisenhower was laid to rest today at the end of the long trail that had carried him to the pinnacle of American military and political power.

The tomb of the 34th president of the United States was a vault —next to that of a long-dead son —beneath the floor of a tiny chapel near the Eisenhower Library in the quiet farm town of his youth.

Cannon boomed a 21-gun salute and riflemen loosed three volleys as the final rites for the general came to a close.

A bugler sounded Taps, the soldier's farewell.

As the honor guard handed the folded stars and stripes that had covered the five-star general's plain, GI coffin, to his widow, the strains of the West Point alma mater were heard by the hundreds massed in silence on the grounds of the Eisenhower Center.

Thus, with full military honors, the nation said goodbye to the man who had commanded a mighty Allied war machine to victory over Nazi Germany in World War II, then led the nation as president through eight years of peace.

The train bearing the body and the former president's family finally pulled into this town of 8,000 around dawn, after a long journey from Washington and a three-day state funeral.

A military honor guard watched over the coffin in its aged baggage car until the moment arrived for the beginning of the final tribute.

It was then transferred to a hearse for the 45-minute procession through the streets of Eisenhower's boyhood home town.

Ohio House Receives Measure

Tax Plans In School Bill Given Little Enthusiasm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tax proposals contained in Gov. James A. Rhodes' omnibus education bill received little enthusiasm from Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, admitting that his colleagues were uneasy about the possibility of enacting new taxes, predicted that the bill, introduced in the House Tuesday, would "undergo some substantial revision."

"The people aren't going to be enthusiastic about any new tax," the Perrysburg Republican said, adding that it's a matter of determining whether the program is worth the cost.

"We will have to weigh the tax aspect against the program aspect," Kurfess said.

Democratic leaders praised the administration for its "willingness to broaden the school tax base . . ." but said the administration appears to be buck-passing by proposing a "permissive" county income tax.

The bill calls for a 1 to 2 per cent county income tax, with 75 per cent of it earmarked for education, and a 1.25 per cent vendor's excise tax.

While the bill calls the county income tax "permissive," counties failing to enact it would not be eligible for state foundation money.

The bill also requires districts to levy at least 20 mills of property taxes, instead of the current 17.5 mills, to qualify for foundation money.

The legislation seeks to equalize per-pupil cost of education between districts. Each school district would receive a share of the county income tax in proportion to the number of its students.

Parochial schools also would receive a share of the tax money, with use of the funds limited to tuition aid, teacher salaries, books and purchasing services.

Under the bill, present county boards of education would be replaced by councils of education. The councils would have the authority to approve all school construction and programming in school districts in their counties and would distribute all federal, state and county funds.

The bill also would require that vocational education programs be operated in comprehensive high schools if the school district has enough pupils to support them.

To equalize distribution of funds on the state level, the bill provides that the state foundation formula be changed to reduce or eliminate assistance to wealthy districts. The foundation formula would guarantee a base cost per pupil in every district of the state.

Shortly after the bill was introduced, the Ohio Education Association announced it was in general agreement with the aims of Rhodes' school financing plan, but said it would seek a mandatory county income tax.

"We believe this bill can become the vehicle to help meet the great unmet needs facing public schools in our state," said OEA President Louis Koenig.

Nixon Aides Say It's To Trim Costs

B52 Flight Cuts 'Linked' To Talks As De-Escalatian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats speculated today that a projected cut in B52 flights against targets in South Vietnam and Laos might be presented by the United States in the Paris peace talks as a de-escalation of the war.

Nixon administration officials say privately, as Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird emphasized publicly Tuesday, that the reason for the planned reduction is not diplomatic but financial. Laird said his department had to cut military costs.

The rate of sorties for the B52's has been running at 1,800 a month. Under the budget proposed for fiscal year 1970 which begins next July 1, the rate would be cut back to 1,600 a month. This could mean simply that fewer planes would be involved in any particular raid. It would not necessarily mean fewer targets would be hit.

Nevertheless, persons familiar with the Paris peace talks said the significant diplomatic aspects of the reduction is that it continues the de-escalation which began a year ago when President Johnson limited the bombing of North Vietnam. This was followed by a lull in offensive operations on the enemy side last summer and fall and by some North Vietnamese troop removals from the South. This finally produced the end of bombing of the North Nov. 1.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, had recommended that the B52 operations be continued at a high level and Laird had said two weeks ago he thought money should be provided for that purpose through June 1970.

As recently as March 19 Laird quoted Abrams as saying he considered the B52 to be one of his "most important weapons."

Administration officials insistance that the switch in Laird's stand was due entirely to a need to cut costs does not rule out the possibility the cut may be used at some point for negotiating purposes in Paris.

Wellsville Citizens Press Council On Police Issue

Concern over the lack of full police protection in Wellsville due to a 9-day seige of "blue flu" among officers was expressed to Wellsville Council Tuesday night.

Only Police Chief John Hephner and Patrolman James Boyle remained on duty today as other officers continued to report off ill. Police have asked for a new schedule of pay increases.

Charles Donaldson, a businessman, told Council last night the merchants of the city are concerned about the situation and declared Council should issue a statement "on where it stands."

Councilman Nunzio Lombardozzi reported the city officials and the police "are not in agreement on a proposed pay boost," but added a public statement will be made soon.

THE REV. Robert Schondelmayer of the First Christian Church said the Ministerial Association also is concerned for the safety of the community.

He outlined three recommendations approved by the association:

1. — Council insure that the police receive "just" wages.

2. — The city receive "just" services for such wages.

3. — The community be provided maximum protection during the negotiations period.

In other action, Council agreed to meet with representatives of the Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council 18, AFL - CIO, concerning union membership for Wellsville

Pope Warns 'Rebellion' Perils Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today the very existence of the Roman Catholic Church is threatened by the "restless, critical, unruly and demolishing rebellion" of priests and laymen.

The pontiff said the rebellion was against the Church's canon rule, its tradition and its authority.

He also assailed pelates who have quit the Church and said their "scandal" crucified the Church.

The Pope's statements on revolt and defection in the Church came during his weekly general audience devoted to the sufferings of Christ during Holy Week.

Many pilgrims and tourists gathering in Rome for Easter Week ceremonies were among the crowd of 8,000 at the audience in St. Peter's Basilica.

Theft Takes Lot Of Brass

Investigating an East End factory theft, police are looking for culprits with a lot of brass, both literally and figuratively.

The Patterson Industries Division of Banner Industries told the department Tuesday afternoon 40 to 60 brass valve gates weighing approximately 60 pounds each were taken from the plant some time in the preceding two weeks.

The total weight of the material figures out to 2,400 to 3,600 pounds. The company said the valve gates are worth approximately $700 to $1,000.

Doctors Give New Hope To Ailing Child

Physicians at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh have given a new lease on life to little Paul McCraw of Mulberry St. by successfully inserting a vein in his right arm a new plastic "shunt" that will allow him to resume blood - cleansing treatments on an artificial kidney machine.

"I am so happy; I feel this is an answer to our prayers and the prayers of all the other people concerned about Paul," the 9-year-old's mother, Mrs. Erma McCraw, said today as she told of the successful surgery for installation of the new "shunt."

The shunt is a short, small diameter plastic tube sewn permanently into the vein to allow him to be attached to the kidney machine twice weekly.

His life was believed ebbing fast last weekend because the "shunt" was removed from a vein in his left arm as an aftermath of a blood infection. At that time, the physicians told Mrs. McCraw that they would be unable to install a "shunt" in the other arm. As a result,

'Rain Will Fall–And Fall,' Copeland Says In Dry Spell

From today's weather, it appears that he spoke with the knowledge that comes with years of record-keeping.

Copeland's remarks came in his monthly weather report.

Up until March 23, he said, there were 51 days (beginning Feb. 1) during which less than one-inch of rain was recorded. The average rainfall for March is 3.26 inches and last month showed only 1.39.

An average snowfall for the month is 4.4 inches, so fickle March delivered 4½ inches, however. An overall look, snowwise, during the "winter months" revealed: November, 3 inches; December, 5½ inches; January, 2 inches; February, 5 inches, which, added to March's accumulation, amounted to 20 inches.

Temperatures for March were a little below the average (37.8 degrees) with an overall reading of 34 degrees. The high was 73 degrees on March 20 and the low 7 degrees on March 11.

The coldest temperature recorded all winter was the minus 6 on Dec. 10, though there were zero-degree readings two nights that month, four nights in January and one in February. Copeland noted that usually there are 20 nights during the winter that a zero temperature is attained. Overall, he said the temperatures were "about normal" this winter.

During March there were 12 clear, 10 cloudy and nine partly-cloudy days, with 50 per cent sunshine, 10 per cent higher than normal.

Action Taken Against Boys In Theft Here

A 12-year-old East Liverpool boy admitted Tuesday in Juvenile court at Lisbon that he broke into Heimie's Newsstand on Washington St. Sunday night and took money from a cash register and safe.

Police said all but $3.50 of the $351 taken was recovered.

After the burglary, the boy went to the home of a companion, 14, here and together they took a taxi to the home of the older boy's father in Wellsville.

The younger gave the older a $20 bill to pay the taxi fare, the only money they spent. They hid the money under the porch at the Wellsville residence.

Judge Louis Tobin placed the 12-year-old in the custody of the Welfare Department and ordered him to pay the store owner for damage to the door and to pay back the $3.50 he spent.

Arrangements are being made to place the older boy in Apple Creek State Hospital.

$102,000 Loss Set In Collapse Of Span

CLARION, Pa. (AP) — A highway official says damage from the collapse of part of a Clarion River bridge is about $102,000.

A bridge span collapsed Monday after a truck struck it, police said. The truck trailer, carrying 24 tons of steel according to police, also tumbled into the river.

Searchers dragged the river for the second day Tuesday, but did not find the driver, identified by the Aetna Freight Lines of Warren, Ohio, as Paul E. Jamriska of Pittsburgh.

FTC Urged To Take Action On Gas Station Giveaways

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission, under attack as a do-nothing agency, has been called on to finally take action on gas station games—the giveaways denounced by critics as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to unprotected consumers.

The commission, ending six weeks of hearings on the matter today, was asked on one hand to ban the games entirely. On the other were claims that the FTC doesn't have the right to take any action involving the games. In between were calls for the agency to try regulating the games before considering a total ban.

Before the hearings began, an FTC staff report denounced the games as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to consumers who were said to have only a slight chance, if any, to win a prize. The staff report charged the cost of the games, also used by food stores, are passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Seven leading producers of the retail games pleaded today with the commissioners to try regulating them before issuing an outright ban.

The Humble Oil Co., however, denied Tuesday that the commission even has the authority to regulate—much less ban—the games.

Of all the major oil companies, only Atlantic Richfield urged the FTC to prohibit the promotions, although representatives of retail gasoline dealers urged it last month to outlaw them completely.

The retailers said they were forced to use the games by the national oil companies as part of their franchises.

An Atlantic Richfield spokesman said the games had become so widely used that one company's promotions are offset by another's and continued use will only stir further public disfavor.

But the company contended that one company cannot abandon the games unilaterally without being placed at a competitive disadvantage and federal action is essential.

Complicating the matter have been charges by some consumer advocates, such as Ralph Nadar, that the FTC has done nothing to protect the buying citizen.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A recount was expected for Monday's voting on a $1.1 million school bond issue at suburban St. Bernard.

Nugent Ends Duty In Viet, Flying Home

Airman 1. C. Patrick J. Nugent, married to Johnson's daughter Luci, completed his year of Vietnam duty and took a plane for Bergstrom Air Force Base in Texas. He will be discharged there.

He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross while loadmaster of a C123 loaded with troops on Jan. 2.

An Air Force spokesman said the twin-engine transport had 55 soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division aboard when it came under mortar attack. But Nugent and the other crew members accomplished their mission "without battle damage or crew injury," the citation said.

Johnson's other son-in-law, Marine Maj. Charles Robb, is scheduled to leave Vietnam later this month. Robb, served about six months as a company commander and now has a staff job at the headquarters of the 1st Marine Division.

Lake Erie Versus Lake Baykal

State officials from Gov. Rhodes down, along with county officials and municipal officers whose areas of jurisdiction lie along the shores of Lake Erie, are concerned about the pollution of the lake.

But they are not the only ones interested in the condition of the lake. The Russians are too.

For one of the world's 14 gigantic lakes is Russia's Lake Baykal. Although it occupies a remote area just north of Mongolia, it is said to be the world's largest deposit of fresh water because of its great depth.

YET POLLUTION has begun to effect it, due to the effects of forest cutting followed by agricultural run-off and pulp-mill effluents.

The Soviet Union has been watching Lake Erie and the rising concern over its pollution. Consequently the Russian government has taken elaborate precautionary measures to make certain that Lake Baykal never becomes polluted to the same degree.

In Ohio, some industries have made efforts to reduce or eliminate their contributions to the pollution problem. Others have done little or nothing at all, probably in the hope that public monies ultimately will be used to clean up the lake.

In the Soviet Union it is different. The government has set up a rigid system of controls around the edge of Lake Baykal which prevents both municipalities and industries from dumping into the lake. They have even established a buffer zone in which industry may not develop if that industry is the least pollution threat.

Government scientists are charged with the strict duty of analyzing the contents of the water weekly and they have installed monitoring systems on every waste-discharging installation that affects the lakeshore.

The Russians have copied and imitated many American inventions, techniques and processes. But in the case of pollution they are not copying us, they are moving ahead.

WHILE WE FIDDLE, Lake Erie dies.

Because we did not intelligently anticipate what would happen and take measures to prevent it, pollution has become a crisis.

Perhaps we need to copy the Russians in this instance, at least as far as the other Great Lakes are concerned and the remaining bodies of fresh water throughout the nation.

Suitable Memorial

Veterans and civic groups of Wellsville have risen to the responsibility of establishing a fitting tribute to a true military hero, Marine Pfc. Melvin Newlin who died in Vietnam in a courageous feat which earned for him the Congressional Medal of Honor.

A chapel at the community's cemetery is planned in memory of the 18-year-old Wellsville youth, and a fund-raising dinner is slated for May.

Assistance in this project would be a worthy endeavor for any county or area organization whose basic objectives include recognition and support of the patriotic ideals on which this nation is founded. Pfc. Newlin's death was the highest example of a citizen's duty to country, and deserves a suitable memorial.

An Excellent Precedent

He told the House of Commons the same thing he told the American press: No problems were resolved, but in President Nixon he found "a warm and understanding friend of Canada, a man with whom I shall be able to speak on behalf of Canadians in a frank yet genial fashion."

THE PRIME MINISTER was careful to express his feeling of value in his two-day visit to Washington without giving the impression that any sort of miracles had been pulled off:

'It is reassuring to know that we have at this early date established the contacts and fortified the channels of communications so necessary to the effective conduct of our relations."

Appropriately, Mr. Trudeau was the first head of government to visit the United States since Mr. Nixon took office. Major governmental decisions in each country has an application in the other.

This is why the Canadians are deeply concerned with Mr. Nixon's ABM program.

Mr. Trudeau stated his country's feelings on the ABM to Mr. Nixon and was surprised that the statement was accepted with respect and the talks still were able to move forward on a cordial basis.

IF THE PRESENT level of relations can be maintained, Mr. Nixon has been lucky in finding an ally that has the integrity to voice a contrary opinion while respecting national sovereignty in decision-making.

Lifting The Curtain

Czechoslovakia, beginning to feel the impact of sharply reduced tourism brought about by travel restrictions imposed following the Soviet-led invasion of the nation, is taking steps to relax the curbs on tourists.

The minister of foreign trade said this week that "conditions are being created for better mutual tourism." Entrance formalities have been revised and new consulate services will be established in Austria, Italy and perhaps even West Germany.

Since imposition of the restrictions, frequent long delays in obtaining visas have sharply reduced the number of tourists entering Czechoslovakia and consequently an important source of valuable hard currency has been cut off.

But in recent weeks Czech newspapers, which have not been totally suppressed by the Russians, and some public officials have called for an easing of the restrictions to increase the hard-currency income.

The iron curtain around Czechoslovakia again has been lifted a little.

A Sensible Amendment

Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-Canton, dropped a sensible piece of legislation in the General Assembly hopper last week that we hope isn't overlooked by Ohio lawmakers.

Rep. Levitt has proposed that a constitutional amendment be placed on the November ballot that would do away with the election of short-term state officials to offices where appointments have been made to fill unexpired terms.

The constitution presently prescribes that vacancies in offices of auditor, treasurer, secretary of state and attorney general be filled by governor appointments until the first general election that occurs more than 30 days after the vacancy.

When a vacancy occurs in any of the four offices, a short-term office holder must be elected to serve the unexpired term and a long-term office holder elected to take over at the beginning of the new term.

The most recent case in point occurred in 1966 when Archer E. Reilly was elected short-term auditor and Roger Cloud elected to the long term.

Unless the constitution is changed by a vote of the people, a short-term and long-term attorney general will have to be elected in the November general election in 1970.

Under present constitution guidelines, Gov. Rhodes appointee to the attorney general's office, Paul W. Brown, will have to leave office on Election Day 1970. The newly elected short-term official will serve until January 1971 when the newly elected long-term official takes over.

Sound confusing? That is exactly why Rep. Levitt has proposed the constitutional amendment to do away with electing short-term officials.

Plants In Danger

Motor vehicle exhaust, that insidious poison which permeates the atmosphere around our heavily traveled streets and highways, may cause a pollution problem for plants in the future.

A pathologist at Pennsylvania State University anticipates a major problem may confront plant life by the year 2000 due to the increase in exhaust pollutants.

F. A. Wood, the pathologist, explains that sunlight triggers a chemical reaction among exhaust mixtures and creates pollutants called photochemicals. These pollutants in the air are expected to increase threefold by the end of the century.

Much concern is being expressed as to the polluted air humans breathe. It would seem wise, at the same time, to be concerned about the pollutant threat to our plant life.

Man already has greatly disturbed the ecology of our land. Is it necessary to allow automobiles to kill all plant life near our highways? Or should something be done about it?

Boo-Boo In Army's Tank

Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., has pried an "incredible story" of a "billion-dollar boo boo" from an Army officer and classified documents.

The case involves development of a new tank which is problem-ridden. Rep. Stratton charges the Army rushed the tank into mass production and combat to avoid a financial cutback by the budget bureau or the secretary of defense.

The congressman got Lt. Col. Stan Sheridan to admit in testimony before a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee that the tank was cleared for production to avoid budget complications despite test-revealed problems.

The vehicle, designed for reconnaisance, can be heard three miles away.

The missile it carries cannot be fired while the tank is in motion.

Under extremely dusty conditions, the air filter requires cleaning or replacement every 1½ hours.

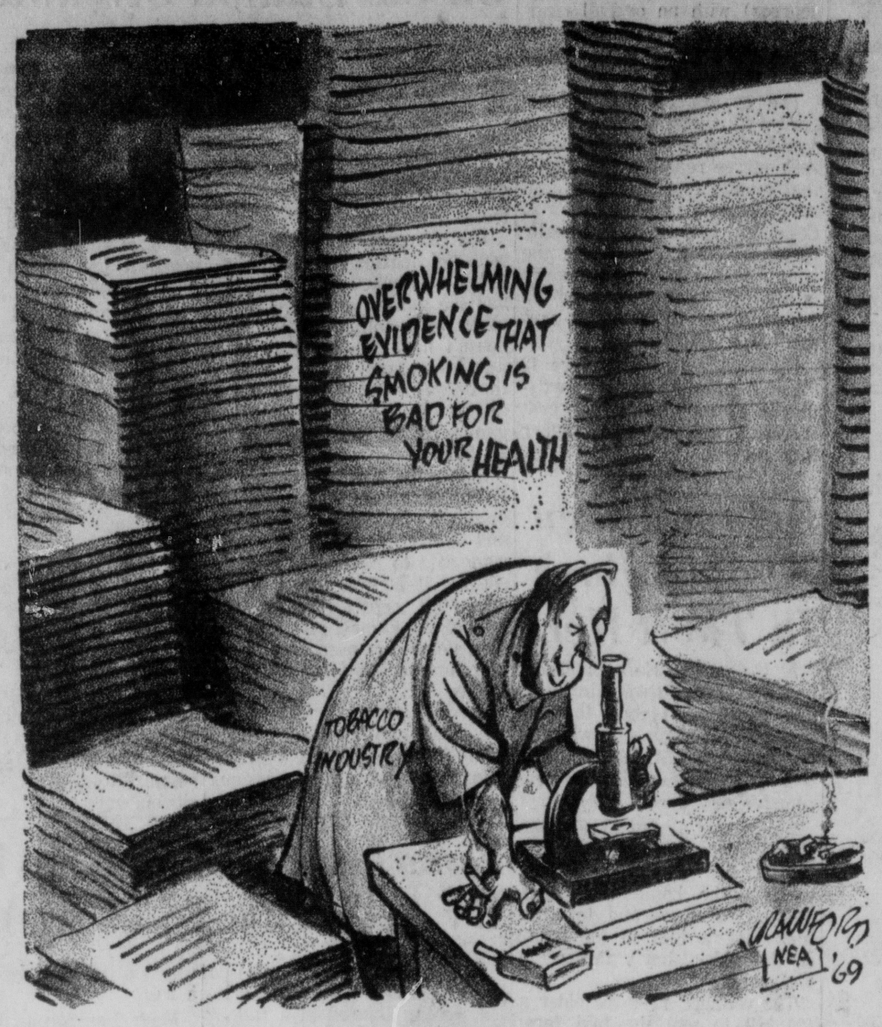
Rounds of ammunition can be fired prematurely and the breech is adversely affected by rough handling, oil or moisture.

Air intake grilles and radiator clog frequently when the vehicle is operating in the jungle or heavy underbrush.

Whether the Army decision to go ahead with production of the tank for combat use was made because of fear of a budget cut or whether the Army just thought the new tank was a good investment, it obviously was a case of bad judgment. The result being a "billion-dollar boo boo."

Is there any doubt in anyone's mind why President Nixon and his budget advisers are checking the Defense Department's books as they look for ways to cut federal spending?

'I Don't See A Thing!'



VICTOR RIESEL

The Kennedy-Lindsay Show

NEW YORK — For the first time, the Kennedy maestros find it difficult to put the show on the road. Perhaps it's because it's a one-man show — and Ted Kennedy is a young man not in a hurry.

He's willing to travel and listen. The other week he shuttled between Washington, New York and Los Angeles in a few days, while working on an itinerary for Alaska. But that stretches it thin, even for such a young and big fellow, charisma or no charisma.

Victor Riesel

So the Kennedy show must open big in New York. That means defeating the urbane and handsome 6-foot-4 Mayor John V. Lindsay in the citywide election this fall.

This would give the Ted Kennedy-Steve Smith-Ted Sorensen-Arthur Goldberg high command its first big political kill. Defeating the big city's swinging mayor would give the Kennedy strategists their own first major victory since 1960. It would unify the party. It would keep Sen. McCarthy on the poetry reading circuit.

But until the weekend of March 22, politics was not looking up brightly for the Kennedy camp, and the young senator, though a frequent New York visitor, was a most neutral neutral as candidates (almost 20 of them) crawled over each other in search of the Democratic mayoralty nomination.

INSIDERS BELIEVED that only one Democrat, globally famous labor mediator Ted Kheel, could defeat John Lindsay — but "Teddy" told intimates he'd sooner book a seat as fourth passenger on a moonshot than run in this swamp.

Over the March 22 weekend, Mayor Lindsay gave his enemies the break they needed. He went out to an upstate union convention and made a speech. It isn't what he said, it's how he said it, where he said it, to whom he said it and whom he praised. That did it.

Wittingly or not — and His Honor lacks no wit — Mr. Lindsay in effect challenged the powerful AFL-CIO political establishment.

His convention hosts were the leaders of something called District 65 of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWDSU). The "District" is a tough, militant, far left-of-center miniscule part of the labor movement. It has been led for years by a turbulent, once-upon-a-time street corner orator, Dave Livingston, who, in defiance of the government, launched the left-wing "Bring the Boys Home" movement during his GI days in the Pacific theatre back in 1945.

For some time now, it has refused to pay its dues to its national affiliate. Mr. Livingston has been meeting with Teamsters and auto union leaders for a working arrangement with the kiwi Alliance for Labor Action. He and his fellow leaders have been blasting such AFL-CIO leaders as President George Meany and their own national union chief, Max Greenberg. The tongue lashings have not been gentle. The insults have been stinging. The Livingston crowd is expert at this. And they have withheld their dues. So the moment of decision came — and the decision, fully concurred with by Mr. Meany — was to oust District 65, along with its vituperation and old left-wing policies.

THIS WAS THE moment some of Mayor Lindsay's aides chose to advise him to be the District 65's star convention speaker. He went. They cheered him and jeered George Meany's name and philosophy. Then the mayor swore in 150 newly elected union officials.

The steam rising from AFL-CIO headquarters in New York and Washington looked like a candid shot of Venus.

Mayor Lindsay's political fat was in the riproaring fire. Smoke signals were shooting up from labor headquarters.

By coincidence, a few days earlier Ted Kheel's friend, the former Mayor Robert Wagner, had returned from Spain and ensconced himself in that political hostelry, the Pierre. Telephone calls had been pouring in on the easy going "Bob," the people's friend. They started when Lou Stulberg, leader of the state's biggest union, the International Ladies' Garment Workers, had called him transatlantic at the embassy residence in Madrid. So had some Kennedy people.

NOW THE LABOR PEOPLE began zeroing in. The politically powerful friend and ally of George Meany, Harry Van Arsdale, leader of the 1.2 million-member Central Labor Council, lunched with "Bob." So did others.

They came away with the impression he is a candidate for the mayoralty. He wants to buck John V. Lindsay.

Immediately the coalition sprang up. Labor leaders pledged hundreds of thousands of dollars. They told him he'd unify the party. The old front is reassembling — the Kennedys, the liberals, the labor leaders and their Committee on Political Education, the old traditional machine, the alliance which elected John Kennedy and which shattered along the way.

And though Mayor Lindsay is in the Republican Party, he's the nearest thing to the new politics, the swingers, the "youthers," as some call them down at the Hall.

It'll be fascinating to see who gets what show on the road first. History rides this race — that is, if it is run by "Hizzoner" the Mayor and "Hizzoner" the former Mayor.

DAVID LAWRENCE

A Lesson From Ike

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the death of a statesman provides an occasion to point up the qualities of leadership which won him public esteem despite the supposed need to keep constantly in mind certain considerations of politics.

Dwight David Eisenhower was foremost among the presidents of this century who shunned the deviousness of politics. He did what came naturally and applied common sense and honesty. He was misled at times by advisers, but he made important decisions on the basis of what he thought was right and was not concerned whether it would be politically palatable.

EULOGIES TEND to be less critical of a public servant at the time when he dies than are the comments made during or shortly after his term in office. This writer, therefore, presents here today an excerpt from his editorial in "U.S. News & World Report" of Jan. 23, 1961, when Dwight Eisenhower was just leaving the White House:

'Whether in domestic or in foreign policy, Mr. Eisenhower has tried to do what he thought would be best for all the people. He has been a true leader — a faithful interpreter of the public will. He would be the first to admit that sometimes inadequate advice or his own misjudgment led to errors. But more often the reverses he countered were due to circumstances beyond the control of our own government.

"When all is said and done, the verdict must be one of signal praise for the humble man who did his duty— rising above politics and above the intrigues and manipulations of the partisans. He didn't, of course, satisfy the impatient or the hysterical — the militant in our midst or the appeasers. He didn't altogether satisfy the 'liberals' or the 'conservatives.' In making his decisions, he considered only what was best for America — and then applied his God-given talents of common sense, honesty and sincerity. Dwight David Eisenhower has fully earned the tribute written in the scriptures: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'."

There's a lesson in Mr. Eisenhower's life which, it may be hoped, will in the future influence men in positions of leadership in our country. Maybe his attitude was due to long training on the military side, where he felt the enormous responsibility for the lives of millions of American soldiers, while pursuing goals that were deemed essential to the security of the tens of millions back home. His integrity, however, was not suddenly acquired — it was inherent in his life and character.

Many politicians, many newsmen, many businessmen, many labor leaders and people from all walks of life had a chance to know how Dwight Eisenhower operated. He leaned on special advisers, and sometimes was regretful that he didn't get the right sort of advice. But those who stood at his side came to realize that he always wanted honest answers — free from a personal prejudice or a vested interest.

As a military man with supreme command in Europe during World War II, Gen. Eisenhower made friends among the leaders of other governments with which we were allied. His manner convinced them that he was trying to do the right thing for them as well as his own government.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S administration was beset with economic troubles, and there were disappointments in foreign policy due to the Communist intrigues in Asia and Western Europe. But his personal popularity remained high long after he left public office. The American people "liked Ike." They had respect for his sincerity of effort, and they had no question about his continuing devotion to the public interest.

Sitting at the side of President Eisenhower for eight years was Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He now has an opportunity to apply the lessons learned then in the conduct of domestic and foreign policy. If he will do what is best for the American people, regardless of whether it is politically popular at the moment, he will be doing his duty and will not endanger his chances of winning a second term. The kind of courage and independence which Eisenhower exhibited could help Nixon and other presidents win re-election.

Democrats' Claim—GOP Disagrees

Inflation Curb Bid Seen Leading To Jobless Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of the Senate-House Economic Committee say administration efforts to curb inflation could boost unemployment by up to half a million workers.

Not so, say Republican members of the committee. They say gradual but firm restraints on the economy need not have such an effect on a work force made up increasingly of people in stable service jobs.

And, they add, manpower and training programs can help cushion the impact of an economic downturn.

These views were included in separate reports filed Tuesday by Republican and Democratic members of the joint committee after lengthy hearings into the state of the nation's economy.

Generally, they agreed on what was wrong, but not on what to do about it.

The Democrats said the country still needs wage-price guidelines—which the Republicans said didn't work.

The new Nixon administration scuttled the guidelines, the Democrats wrote, and "at the same time it proposes an anti-inflationary mix of monetary and fiscal policies sufficiently restrictive to raise unemployment . . . by between 300,000 and 500,000 workers."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, ranking Republican on the committee, told a news conference his party is not for "putting on the brakes so hard as to bring on a recession or worse."

No increase in unemployment is acceptable Javits said, and an increase from the present 3.3 per cent to 5 per cent would mean real trouble.

Both reports spoke of continuing the 10 per cent income surtax, but both hedged a bit.

The Democrats said this was one of several measures that could be used alone or in combination to fight inflation. The others were a wholly unlikely $12-billion cut in spending or extensive tax reforms.

The Republicans said the surtax should be continued, but the President should be given authority to reduce it if conditions changed.

The Republicans repeated their advocacy of tax incentives for private business to take on some of the problems of cities and minorities.

The Democrats said "such tax incentives open additional loopholes" and added "we urge that the new administration not retreat from the direct attack on poverty begun five years ago."

Republicans said Congress might have to enact once again a ceiling on government spending.

Democrats urged President Nixon to investigate defense spending because of "the evidence of widespread waste, mismanagement and inefficiency." They called for better accounting methods for government contractors.

Sets Series Of Meetings

U.S. Mediator To Seek 'Peace' At Penn State U.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — One of the nation's best known labor mediators tries to find out today whether his techniques will work in college campus disputes.

Theodore W. Kheel of New York, a lawyer who has settled major strikes in the railroad, maritime and airline industries, scheduled a series of meetings with student groups, faculty members and the administration of Pennsylvania State University.

He said his only purpose was to find out whether he could bring them all together to talk over their grievances—"It's not my plan to get into any particular problem."

Kaufman said he thought Penn State was ideal for experimenting with a new approach to the tensions that have swept American campuses.

Unrest at Penn State, which has an enrollment of about 25,000, has focused on greater student participation in university affairs and increased black enrollment, typical complaints at many colleges.

"I think the possibility of a dialogue has existed all along," said Thomas Richdale, president of the Students for a Democratic Society. "That's all that we have wanted."

Richdale said students at a recent sit-in, "wanted someone from the administration to come out and talk to them. Instead, they sent police."

"The main problem on campus is that there is no real communication between the students and the administration," one university official said.

William F. "Rick" Collins, head of the Douglass Society, which claims to represent all of the university's several hundred Negro students, doubted that mediation would be useful.

"We're going to the meeting to give Mr. Kheel information," he said. "But we don't have anything to mediate. Our demands are uncompromisable."

Kheel said he wasn't sure what would happen next if the groups were willing to sit down at a conference table. "We're moving down an uncharted course. I consider this very experimental," he said.

Archery generally is conceded to be the oldest sport known to man.

senhower and the hearse as it wound its way through town toward the chapel.

Military units in full dress led the procession in its measured steps to the rumble of muffled drums and military flourishes.

A brief prayer service was held on the steps of the Eisenhower Library. Family and dignitaries sat near the flag-shrouded coffin.

Only the family and very close friends were admitted for the final moments of the nation's tribute in the tiny chapel, some 100-yards away.

The words of the burial service, however, were carried through loudspeakers to the crowds outside. Across the street was the simple white frame house where the Abilene hero had spent his childhood before heading for West Point and the military career that launched him to greatness.

The next thing Mrs. Todd remembers is being on shore on the Ohio side. Presumably she and her family were among the survivors taken off the Scioto by the Lomas.

THEN SHE remembers vividly the next incident. She was being carried across a wheat field by a Steubenville man whose name the family never learned. And she remembers arriving at the railroad station in Mingo Junction, where a fire was built in the stove to help the survivors dry their clothing. She remembers both she and her sister were wearing calico dresses.

East Liverpool's railroad stationmaster, who learned of the disaster on the company telegraph, sent a special train to Mingo to help return survivors.

Mrs. Todd is the widow of Harry G. Todd. A sister, Mrs. Wallace Needham, lives in Vero Beach, Fla., and a brother, Ed, resides in Beaver.

She has two sons, Paul Todd, a Wellsville councilman, and Allen Todd, in Texas.

Mrs. Todd believes there are at least three survivors of the Scioto disaster including herself. She corresponds infrequently with one of them, Mrs. George Wilson of 143 Fair St. N.E., New Philadelphia, who is 93. Mrs. Todd said she has heard that another Scioto survivor resides in New Cumberland, but she cannot recall the name.

Mrs. Todd was just short of 7 years old at the time of the sinking. She will be 94 next July 28.

MRS. TODD'S hearing and sight still are remarkably good for a person of her age. She brightens visibly and talks with animation with the conversation turns to things of the long ago, like the Scioto disaster.

She says her health has been good, and adds: "I have had a full, happy life."

The sinking of the Scioto led to investigations and recriminations and so many conflicting stories were told about the disaster that the absolute truth probably was obscured. At any rate, even the memory of that holiday cruise is vanishing into the mists of time.

It was a sensation in all the river towns in the area.

The weekly East Liverpool Potters Gazette, published July 6, carried more than two full columns in its account of the collision. D. B. Martin was listed as the editor and proprietor.

In the flamboyant headlines of the day, which told most of the story in big type, the Potters Gazette said: "The Disaster to the Scioto — Collided with the John Loomis — (sic) And Sunk Near Mingo — Many Missing And Are — Supposed To Be Drowned — Dread Ending of a Day of Pleasure."

Boiling away all the adjectives and the hyperbole, the facts that emerge are:

THE SCIOTO left the East Liverpool wharf about 6:30 a.m. July 4, carrying about 200 passengers on a widely - advertised excursion to Moundsville, where a visit to the penitentiary was promised. Arriving in Wellsville about 7:30, it took on 300 more passengers. Some of the East Liverpool excursionists left the boat, fearing it was overcrowded.

"Everything went smoothly on the return trip with the exception of some quarreling among a few of the passengers who had imbibed a little too freely," the Gazette commented. The trip upriver started about 3 p.m.

The Gazette's account said the collision apparently occurred about 8:30, as the watches on some of the bodies recovered later were stopped at that time.

The two captains agreed that the Scioto sank in three minutes in 15 feet of water, 250 feet from shore. Rescue efforts went on for several days, but eventually all the bodies were recovered. Two thousand people lined the banks to watch the rescue operation and to seek to identify missing relatives.

The Scioto was raised shortly after the disaster, given an overhauling and returned to service. The Gazette said the sidewheeler was built in Portsmouth in 1875, was 150 feet long and had a beam of 22 feet, 6 inches.

New Cumberland Maps Recreation Area Plans

NEW CUMBERLAND — A recreation area, which in the future may include a swimming pool, was discussed during a special meeting of New Cumberland Council Tuesday night.

Representatives from the fire department, Boy Scouts and Junior Woman's and Lions Clubs attended, along with three councilmen and Mayor Arthur Watson.

Watson reported on a meeting last Saturday morning with Dr. Vernon Wyland, superintendent of schools, and the Hancock County board of education. He said the board will assist in developing a play area below the New Cumberland Junior High School. The site is on board - owned property.

The board will begin by fencing the area and blacktopping and equipping two basketball courts. The schools will insure and maintain the area from September to May each year, Watson said.

Clean-up of the site is in progress. Trees will be pruned and the city will build a shelter and fireplaces. Some picnic tables and benches which have been in storage will be set up.

Representatives of the two clubs said their groups may be able to purchase some playground equipment for the recreation area and the scout and fire department representatives reported they would assist with labor involved.

Being considered is Little League baseball at night, with the possibility of softball and a Pony League in the future.

The city expects the preliminary work, including the basketball courts, to be finished by mid-May. Watson said the board of education is developing its property at all school sites in the county.

Hancock Commissioners Begin Election Contest

Hancock County commissioners continued in session late this morning, conducting a recount of 19 precincts in a long - disputed sheriff's contest. The action was the result of a court ruling which tied up the proceedings for over a month.

Commissioners began the recount about 4:00 Tuesday afternoon, stopped at 5 for supper, and resumed at 6:30 continuing until nearly 10:30 last night. At that time only one precinct had been completed, and as one employe observed today, "all they did was fight."

At 10 a.m. today commissioners were beginning to work on the second precinct.

The contest was ordered last week by the West Virginia Supreme Court which ruled that Lou Smoleski, Democratic candidate for the sheriff's job, must be allowed to contest the election which, after much dispute, had placed Republican Ralph Patrick in office.

Patrick had maintained that the three - month limitation on election contests had long since expired, but the high court held that Patrick was not certified until Feb. 10 and so the election was not complete until then.

Patrick, Smoleski and their attorneys were on hand for the contest along with Prosecutor Edward Zagula and Assistant Robert Altomare.

Commissioners ruled last night that there would be no change in the official count of Precinct One.

The commissioners are examining ballots in 19 of the 39 Hancock County precincts.

Smoleski and his attorney, Frank Pietranton objected to the counting of the ballots on the grounds that the election officials in Precinct One, Grant District, illegally acted in various capacities contrary to their appointment.

The court issued subpoenas to three election officials in that precinct to appear today at 7 p.m.

During the examination of Precinct One ballots Atty. Frank Cuomo, Patrick's counsel, noted Pietranton was examining both sides of ballots. He maintained the Supreme Court records show that only the signatures on the back of the ballots are to be examined.

Atty. Richard Barnes, another of Patrick's lawyers contended Pietranton was using the contest as another recount and by law cannot act in that manner.

Cuomo objected to Pietranton's challenge of all signatures since no objection was raised during the official recount of ballots.

Prosecutor Zagula said he agreed to Patrick's objections. Commissioner Edward Nogay moved that Smoleski's attorneys cease to examine all signatures. Shortly thereafter, Pietranton became ill, and the court recessed briefly. He left the proceedings after the examination of ballots in Precinct One was completed.

Atty. W. Dale Greene of Charleston, one of Smoleski's lawyers asked commissioners to give him the opportunity to look at all poll books before proceeding with the examination of specific ballots in the precinct. Commissioners, however, overruled the move. Court members ruled that each precinct will be examined individually.

Greene also asked that all ballots, poll slips and tally sheets be photo copied. Cuomo objected stating that Smoleski's lawyers were on a "fishing expedition" and were supposed to enter into the contest prepared with evidence. Greene's motion was overruled by court members.

Altomare was appointed yesterday by commissioners as a second assistant prosecuting attorney.

The motion came from Edward Nogay, Butler commissioner. Joseph Manypenny, Clay district reprsentative, voted against the move however, citing the fact that Hancock does not need a second assistant. The motion passed with Court President William C. Graham voting with Nogay.

Atty. John L. Stevenson is the other assistant.

Driver Avoids Injury As Slag Truck Upsets

The driver of a dump truck which overturned on Route 68 near Midland at 10:30 this morning was uninjured, although his 18-ton load of slag was spilled over the embankment onto the Penn Central railroad tracks.

Phillip Wall, 34, of Beaver Falls said a car attempted to pass as he drove beneath the underpass of the Shippingport Bridge, forcing both vehicles to stop for a car coming off the bridge ramp. Wall said when he applied the brakes, the truck seeing the 20-foot embankment, he swerved to the left and overturned.

A passer-by shoveled gravel off the tracks so railroad traffic wouldn't be blocked. Industry Patrolman, Roy Hohenshell said traffic was not interrupted.

they said, he would be unable to continue treatments on the kidney machine, and his life probably would end within a week unless he received a kidney transplant in the meantime.

Before giving the mother the bad news, surgeons had tried unsuccessfully to install the "shunt" in the right arm. The size of an average 3-year-old child, the boy has "very small" veins, the mother explained.

"But the doctors at Children's Hospital wouldn't give up," Mrs. McCraw said. "One of them spent a whole day on the telephone, calling other hospitals and medical supply houses until they finally located a smaller shunt, one that seemed it might be the proper size for Paul's arm.

"They took him to surgery and installed he shunt. Now both his arms are bandaged heavily, the left one after the removal of the other shunt and the right one after the two operations, including the one in which they installed the new shunt' successfully."

Paul's blood pressure had risen dangerously and his abdomen was swollen as a result of all the wastes retained in his body. The condition was relieved yesterday when he received a new treatment on the artificial kidney machine at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Oakland. He is due for another treatment Thursday and it is expected to bring further improvement in his condition.

Mrs. McCraw said the doctors told her the new "shunt" will be able to remain in his arm so long as it is not affected by the blood infection.

His current hospital stay began in early December. He was allowed to come home earlier this year — returning twice weekly for dialysis — until the blood infection developed about March 10. When he was taken back to the hospital because of a high fever, the infection was discovered.

Mrs. McCraw said the nurses at Children's Hospital said Paul was "feeling fine" this morning and his spirits have risen because he has started to receive mail again — cards from well-wishers in the tri - state area. The hospital's address is 125 DeSoto St., Pittsburgh 15213.

Lew Campbell, director of the labor district, said the city employes have signed cards for membership in the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes Union.

HE REQUESTED a meeting with Council or a representative Council committee to discuss recognition of the union and exclusive bargaining arrangements for negotiating wages, hours of work, fringe benefits, payroll deduction of dues and other matters.

Council agreed to meet with the representatives on one of two dates proposed, with the stipulation Mayor William Daugherty attend.

An ordinance increasing the quarterly rates for refuse collection was passed on third and final reading, with all seven Councilman voting in favor. The city rates will be increased from $4.50 to $6, with those outside the city limits paying $7.40. The out-of-city rate had been $5.40.

Prior to the passage of the ordinance, Mrs. R. O. Lewis of 1607 Main St. spoke from the audience, questioning the raising of rubbish rates for those paying for it while some do not have the collection. She contended that everyone should be compelled to have the refuse collection and a raise would not be necessary.

Councilman Glenn Mathess informed Mrs. Lewis the city does not have an ordinance forcing people to sign for the refuse collection. Wayne Rose, Council president, added it is illegal to put refuse in with some one else's.

Councilman Paul Todd stated there are a certain number of residents served and the increase has to be divided equally to meet the added expense of the contract with East Liverpool for use of its dump, which, Mathess said, would amount to between $6,000 and $9,000 a year.

WITH THE exception of a "no" vote by Russell Keefer, Council voted to send to the State Liquor Department without objection an application from Anne Rivelle for a D-2 permit to sell beer and wine on the premises at 1303 Main St.

Prior to the vote, Mrs. Lewis, who resides in the vicinity where the permit is sought, raised an objection, saying there are already three establishments selling liquor in that block. She asked Council to object to granting the permit.

Jack Call, chairman of the water and sewage committee, reported that the ordinance proposing water rate increase is being delayed until a meeting can be held with the other Councilmen.

Judge Says Draft Law Hits Athiests', Agnostics' Rights

BOSTON (AP) — A federal judge says the 1967 draft law violates the constitutional rights of athiests and agnostics by allowing conscientious objector status for religious reasons only.

"It is difficult to imagine any grounds for this statutory discrimination except religious discrimination," said U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr.—and that, he held, is counter to the First Amendment.

Judge Wyzanski's ruling came in the case of John H. Sisson, 22, of Lincoln, Mass., recently convicted of violating the Selective Service Act by refusing induction into the armed forces. Sisson said he regarded the Vietnam war as "illegal and immoral."

Sisson came before the court for sentencing, but instead Wyzanski stayed sentence pending a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court on the question raised.

"Sisson is not in a formal sense a religious conscientious objector," the judge said. "His claim may seem less weighty than that of one who embraces a creed which recognizes a Supreme Being, and which has as part of its training and discipline opposition to war in any form."

However, the judge said, "When the state through its laws seeks to override reasonable moral commitments, it makes a dangerously uncharacteristic choice."

In a 1966 decision the U.S. Supreme Court said the draft law provisios on conscientious objectors should be interpreted broadly and not necessarily confined to those with orthodox religious beliefs.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Stanislaw R. J. Suchecki, said he thought the Wyzanski ruling "builds beyond" the Supreme Court decision.

"Basically, it extends the 1966 ruling to cover those who object to bearing arms, whether their reasons be religious or not," Suchecki said.

Clothes, Home Asked For Fire-Hit Family

Capt. Richard Bosh, commander of the local Citadel, said the organization has been "caught short," and clothing is needed for Albert Dailey, his wife Jo Ann and their six children, all under 10 years old.

The family, which lives at 1094 High St., was routed about 11:45 a.m.

Dailey said when one of the children screamed, everyone ran from the one-story frame dwelling and as the last child emerged from the home, "the living room exploded".

The husband and wife who ran from the house without coats or shoes were able to save nothing but the clothes they wore. Dailey lost a crutch he uses for walking, but Bosh later retrieved it from the charred ruins of the home.

Bosh said his group and the area Red Cross chapter are seeking a permanent home for the family. Bosh said he will house them for a time until a dwelling can be located. He asked residents to phone him with information concerning housing.

Dailey was hurt Jan. 9 in an accident at the Homer Laughlin China Co. at Newell. A general laborer for the No. 6 Plant he was working in the slip house that day. A nurse at the No. 8 Plant dispensary said Dailey was working on a movable ramp at the time, slipped and fell about seven feet, landing with his feet on a concrete floor. The bones of both feet were broken. Dailey continues to wear a cast on the left foot and leg, although the right limb is nearly healed.

The family currently receives about $43 weekly from workmen's compensation payments. He also receives food stamps from the county welfare department.

The house was owned by William Tullis of Monaca St., who also is seeking a new home for the family.

Following an investigation Tuesday afternoon, Chief Alfred Van Dyne said damage would run about $3,000. He said the fire apparently resulted from old electric wiring in the ceiling. Firemen first thought the cause was from a coal stove in one of the rooms of the one-story house.

Van Dyne said there was no insurance on the structure or furnishings.

The chief also joined in the appeal for clothing for the family and said articles may be left at any of the city's fire stations.

Citizens Committee Maps Levy Support Campaign

Subcommittees were named and final plans for a campaign in support of two proposed renewals of East Liverpool school levies during a meeting of a citizens' committee Tuesday night at the East Liverpool High School library.

East Liverpool School Dist[illegible] voters will ballot May 6 on renewal of an 11-mill operating levy and a 1-mill levy for repair and maintenance.

Leo Lawrence, co - chairman of the committee and chairman of the public information subcommittee, conducted the meeting. Thirty - five attended.

Aiding Lawrence with public information are Dick Frnkel of WOHI and Mrs. Lucille Huston of The Review. Other subcommittee chairmen working with public information are: Ben Weber, posters; Harry McConville, testimonials; Frankel and Mrs. Huston, general advertising; Frankel, Jaycees' Home Show; Robert Harris, "flyers;" Orin Smith and Charles Thomas, town hall meeting, Frankel and Thomas Rodfong, information center, and J. E. Curry, Post 4 essay contest.

Lawrence, Curry and James Lowe are co - chairmen of the citizeens' committee. Lowe, chairman of finance, will be assisted by Frank C. Dawson as subcommittee chairman. A letter is being prepared seeking donations. The goal is $1,500.

Curry will head the speakers' bureau, aided by Mrs. Nessie Dunlop. A schedule is being made of club or organization meetings, and a speaker will be available for each.

Details of the poster contest will be announced Tuesday at parent - teacher association meetings. Plans also are being made for student participation.

Dawson said he had been approached with the idea that the 1-mill renewal being asked for was a new levy.

Supt. Paul Blair explained that the wording on the 1-mill renewal by law could not read repair and maintenance as it had in the past, but that the money would definitely be used for this purpose and it was a renewal. It will not cost taxpayers more than they are now paying, Blair emphasized.

The public information committee will meet again April 9 at the Social Security office.

Enrollments Being Accepted For Hancock Adult Classes

Those interested may enroll now for adult basic education classes in Hancock County.

The classes, for those who have not completed high school, are held in Weirton twice a week.

Robert J. Burns, coordinator of pupil services in Hancock County schools, explained they are not limited to residents of the county, but are ready to serve anyone in the tri - state area.

Burns said the classes run from September to June, but explained prospective students may enroll any time.

Two three-hour classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday nights each week at Weir Junior High School. Instructors are Charles Ralston, school speech therapist, and Richard Taylor, a teacher at the school.

Burns pointed out that the classes are conducted on an individual basis and that a student does not take the GED test until he and his instructor agree the pupil is prepared. The test, if passed, will grant the student a certificate of equivilency, nearly the same as a high school diploma.

Burns explained there is no charge to anyone taking the courses.

He said persons interested in the classes should write to Pupil Services, 3061 Main St., Weirton.

Sirhan Becomes Apologetic After Display Of Ill Temper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Subdued and apologetic after a new display of ill temper, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan listened abstractedly to testimony that he did indeed have the mental capacity to plot Robert F. Kennedy's murder.

The young Jordanian cursed and had to be led from the courtroom Tuesday when a witness, psychiatrist Seymour Pollack, suggested he was a liar. But during discussion of the point most crucial to his case—whether he could maturely and meaningfully plot the murder—Sirhan swiveled in his chair and let his gaze roam the room idly.

Pollack directly contradicted previous psychiatric testimony when he said, "I believe Sirhan went to the Ambassador Hotel wih the conscious intent of killing Sen. Kennedy."

Defense psychiatrists had said Sirhan killed Kennedy in a trance.

"It is my opinion Sirhan killed Kennedy because he hated him for what he stood for," said Pollack. "He saw himself as the defender of the Arab cause."

Q. You didn't find any suggestion of a break with reality?

A. Not at any time.

Sirhan 25, highly partisan to the Arab cause in the Middle East turmoil, became "convinced that Sen. Kennedy was an opportunist, exploiting the political scene by becoming subservient to American Jews in order to get their votes," Pollack said. "He focused on Kennedy as a leader to be destroyed."

The gray-haired professor from the University of Southern California added, "In my opinion, his mental capacity was not impaired to the extent that Sirhan had diminished capacity to harbor malice aforethought."

Diminished capacity is the basis of Sirhan's dfense. Such a finding by the jury could result in a verdict less than first degree murder, which carries mandatory penalties of life in prison or death.

"My clinical picture of Sirhan is that of a much more logical reasoning person who recognizes his legal predicament," Pollack said. He said Sirhan's claims of amnesia about the shooting, "even if genuine," were not related to mental disturbances.

It was at the suggestion of fake amnesia that Sirhan raised his first courtroom fuss in more than a month.

"Your honor, sir . . . " Sirhan said suddenly. Guards, who sit an arms length away, pushed him down in his seat.

"You settle down or I'll do what I told you I'd do,", said Judge Herbert V. Walker sternly. The 69-year-old judge, dean of the city's Criminal Court bench, had threatened some time ago to have a gag and shackles put on Sirhan for any more outbursts.

After a 15-minute recess Sirhan was led back in. One of his lawyers, Russell E. Parsons, relayed an apology saying Sirhan was thrown "completely off balance," by the implication that "he had told a falsehood."

The club prsented the general Federation of Woman's Clubs award for broadcasters to Charles F. Arnott, a Newell resident. It honored Arnott for "his attitude or responsibility and service to the community." Mrs. Denver Beckner, president, made the presentation. Four Errors Lose Game

Stuart's Grand Slam Not Enough For Angels

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The blast sent the Angels ahead 8-7, but Stuart's new teammates committed four errors in the bottom of the sixth, handing the Pilots seven unearned runs and a 14-9 victory.

Elsewhere, St. Louis edged Detroit 5-4 in 10 innings, Boston blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Montreal beat Cincinnati 5-0, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 3-0, Philadelphia slugged Minnesota 11-5, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 8-5, the New York Mets drubbed Pittsburgh 7-3, Atlanta topped the Chicago White Sox 7-5 and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 6-5.

Los Angeles downed Houston 7-3 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Stuart, a non-roster California candidate who played in Japan the past two years after earning the Dr. Strangeglove tag during turbulent stints with Pittsburgh, Boston, the Phils and the Dodgers, cleared the bases with his third spring homer.

But the Pilots quickly regained the edge on a walk, the four errors and singles by Jim Gosger, Jerry McNertney, Gus Gil, Mike Hegan and Tommy Davis.

Seattle has won five in a row and is 5-0 against the Angels.

Detroit's Ron Woods dropped Tim McCarver's fly ball for a two-base error in the 10th and Steve Huntz' two-out single delivered the winning run for the Cardinals. Jim Price's eighth inning homer had pulled the Tigers even.

Ray Culp allowed just two hits for eight innings and Sparky Lyle pitched a hitless ninth, leading the Red Sox past the Yankees.

Montreal shut out the Reds behind Jim Grant, who scattered eight hits through eight innings, and Carroll Sembera.

Billy Williams slammed a three-run homer and Ron Santo connected with one on in the Cubs' triumph over San Diego.

Tommie Agee lashed a homer, double and single for the Mets, who cuffed Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale for five runs in the first two innings.

Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly, Wes Parker's two-run single and Paul Popovich's RBI single broke up the Dodgers-Astros duel in the 10th after an error by Doug Rader opened the gates.

The Pirates have scheduled some special days this season. April 27 is T-Shirt day, when youngsters 14 and under get T-Shirts when accompanied by a paying adult. June 14 will be Bill Mazeroski day, when the veteran second baseman will be honored. June 30 will be the 60th anniversary of Forbes Field, the oldest park in the major leagues. Pirate ticket offices at Forbes Field in downtown Pittsburgh are now open.

The Pirates open on the road at St. Louis April 8. The home opener is against the Phillies April 11. Pittsburgh has a 38-30 record in openers over the years.

The Indians likewise will open on the road at Detroit April 8, and begin at home on the 11th, with Boston the opposition.

Another special event is scheduled at Forbes Field Aug. 30, but it doesn't involve the Pirates. The Steelers, which started in the NFL by playing at Forbes Field, have scheduled an exhibition there with the Cincinnati Bengals. The Steelers played in Forbes Field from 1933 to 1963, when they moved permanently to Pitt Stadium, and wanted to play one last game in Forbes Field before the shift to the new Three Rivers Stadium in 1970.

CHARLIE POWELL, writing in the Canton Repository about the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic, pointed out that Marlington's 6-11 Luke Witte was better than either 6-11 Mark Wehrle of California or 7-1 Tom Payne of Kentucky. Not hard to believe, based on Friday's performances of the U.S. giants.

Caldwell's Lake Opens Saturday

76ers Surprise Celtics; Rocket Rally Tops Hawks

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers and San Diego Rockets got off the floor in the National Basketball Association playoffs Tuesday night, leaving the Baltimore Bullets, with the best regular season record, facing the possibility of becoming the first team to be eliminated from the post-season competition.

The 76ers, down three games to none, stayed alive by edging Boston 119-116 on the Celtics' court. The Rockets, losers of two games in Atlanta, returned home and rallied to bat the Hawks 104-97.

The other two series resume tonight. Baltimore is at New York and the Eastern champions must win to stave off the humiliation of a four-game sweep by the Knicks. Los Angeles, trailing 2-1, plays at San Francisco.

Archie Clark, Hal Greer and Darrall Imhoff led Philadelphia to its must victory with 29, 23 and 22 points, respectively. John Havlicek had 28 for the Celts.

Greer, whose lack of scoring has hurt the 76ers in the playoffs, hit a long jumper to break a 109-all tie with 2:18 left. Maty Guokas sank a free throw and Greer made two foul shots and another basket.

"I don't consider this a good shooting game," said Greer, who hit on eight of 15 shots. "A lot of those shots I missed I usually make."

The 76ers' backcourt ace said the Celtics stopped him in the first three games "by getting between me and the ball. They were still doing it but we just played well against it."

San Diego's John Block scored 10 of his 15 points in the final period as the rockets battled from behind. They trailed by 17 in the first half but sliced Atlanta's lead to three after three quartrs.

Baltimor Coach Gene Shue thought his team played well against the Knicks on Sunday despite dropping a 119-116 decision when New York rallied in the final six minutes.

"We had a chance to win," Shue said. "If we can play that well again Wednesday night, I'll take our chances."

The Los Angeles-San Francisco clash is a pivotal one and both coaches know it.

"We can rest on one game," said LA's Bill van Breda Kolff.

Backfield Grid Talent Abundant At OSU

By HAL PARIS
Associated Pess Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—No college football team in the nation can boast as many talented offensive backs that Ohio State will carry on its roster this fall.

The national champion Buckeyes are loaded with versatile performers, seven of whom return from the 1968 squad that posted an unblemished 10 - 0 campaign, including a Jan. 1 Rose Bowl victory over Southern California.

Coach Woody Hayes, who looked at his grid heroes Tuesday in the first day of spring drills, may have a unique problem.

Picking a starting backfield could be the most ticklish chore Hayes has faced in a 19-year reign.

Competition for starting roles should be fierce with a quartet of outstanding freshmen bidding for varsity berths. How to get the most effective use of this surplus material could become a kingsize headache—a problem thay any coach would like to face.

Otis, who led the club in scoring with 96 points on 16 touchdowns, also topped the ground gainers with 884 yards net in 189 carries for a 4.7 average.

Kern gained 499 yards in 119 cracks; Zelina rushed 329 in only 38 for an eye-catching 8.7 average; Brungard piled up 261 in 61 thrusts; Hayden 194 in 46 chances; Maciejowski 192 in 43 tries; Brockington 181 in 43 and Gillian 111 in 13 attempts.

These backs were responsible for almost all the 2,758 yards the Buckeyes netted with a powerful ground attack. Still, Kern and Maciejowski found time to balance the running game with 1,283 yards passing on 91 completions in 158 attempts.

There is talk of switching Huff to an offensive tackle spot with Brockington moving in behind Otis. For added depth, Woody can count on frosh stars Tom Campana of Kent Roosevelt; Ken Luttner from Medina Highland; Harry Howard of Cincinnati Princeton and Jimmy Lee Harris of Dayton Roth.

Campana likely is to be used as a kick return specialist; Howard as a defensive back; Luttner, as a defensive end and Harris as a split end or flanker.

Miami Clinches Tie For Second In ABA

By The Associated Press

With the division championships locked up by Indiana and Oakland, the rest of the American Basketball Association teams are spending the last few days of the season settling the other spots.

Tuesday night, Denver wrapped up third place in the Western Division by edging Kentucky 94-90. The Colonels' defeat enabled Miami to clinch at least a tie for second place in the East with a 137-119 rout of Los Angeles.

In other games, New Orleans polished off Dallas 112-96 and Oakland slaughtered New York 169-122.

Larry Jones' 34 points paced Denver's victory over Kentucky. Gene Moore led the Colonels with 28 but Kentucky's high-scoring guards had their troubles—Louie Dampier shooting 0-for-14 and Darel Carrier 3-for-12.

Los Angeles also had cold hands against Miami, falling behind 68-48. At one stretch, the Stars went more than seven minutes without a basket.

Maurice McHartley scored 36 points for the Floridians, 17 in the final period. Larry Miller canned 31 for the Stars.

The New Orleans-Dallas contest was a preview of the first-round playoffs, which open Saturday night. It was the 13th straight triumph for the Bucs, second-place finishers in the West. They were sparked by James Jones' 26 points.

Oakland, which faces Denver in the first round of the playoffs, warmed up by blasting New York with a team record 169 points and tied the ABA standard with 90 first-half points.

Gary Bradds led the point parade with 28. Willie Somerset had 23 for the hapless Nets, who suffered their 13th consecutive setback.

Wittenberg's Edwards Steps Down As Coach

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—William M. "Bill" Edwards, who built Wittenberg University into a small college football power, announced his retirement today from active coaching after 14 successive winning seasons.

The 63-year-old coach, whose career spans 37 years on the high school, collegiate and professional levels, will continue to serve as athletic director at his alma mater.

One of his immediate tasks will be to select a successor. Dave Maurer, Edwards' chief assistant for 14 years, likely is to win the head football coaching assignment.

In 24 years as a collegiate head coach, Edwards has compiled a brilliant 168-45-8 record. He coached at Western Reserve from 1935-1940; Vanderbilt from 1949-52; and Wittenberg from 1955-1968.

Edwards' 37 years of coaching also includes high school positions at Springfield and Fostoria in Ohio; college assistant jobs at Western Reserve and the University of North Carolina and pro duties as head coach of the Detroit Lions in 1941 and tackle coach of the Cleveland Browns in 1947 and 1948.

In announcing his retirement as a head coach, Edwards said: "I've never been much of a retiring person and I'm not ready to just sit by the fireside. All this means is that now I can be an athletic director and a teacher.

"Regardless of where I have coached, my philosophy of Football has always been the same. The name of the game is winning. If a coach doesn't believe in this and dedicate himself to victory, he isn't being fair to his players or to himself."

Since returning to Wittenberg where he won All-Ohio and All-American recognition as a center in 1929 and 1930, Edwards has never experienced a losing season.

Included in his 98-20-4 record at Wittenberg are three unbeaten seasons—1962, 1963 and 1964—and five years with only one loss. The 1962 and 1964 teams were named the nation's best small college team by the Washington Touchdown Club.

The American Football Coaches Association named Edwards the Coach of the Year in 1962 and 1963. A native of Massillon, Edwards also was chosen Ohio Coach of the Year in 1957 and 1962.

NHL Playoffs Scheduled

By HAL BOCK

Eight National Hockey League teams embark tonight on the long road that will lead one of them to the Stanley Cup, hockey's most cherished trophy.

Montreal, champion of the East Division, begins defense of the Cup at home against the New York Rangers, who finished third. Boston hosts Toronto in the other East opener.

In the West Division, St. Louis, which won the title by 19 points, is at home against Philadelphia and Oakland hosts Los Angeles.

All series are-best-of-7.

Claude Ruel, who coached Montreal to its 20th title in his first season behind the bench, believes the series between the Canadiens and Rangers will turn on goaltending.

"It will be a skating series," said Ruel, whose club, like New York, thrives on rink-length dashes. "But the difference could be in the goal tending."

Ed Giacomin, an ironman who played 70 of 76 regular season games and was runner-up in the Vezina Trophy race behind St. Louis, will be in the nets for New York. Ruel has split the Canadien goaltending between veteran Gump Worsley, who played 30 games, and young Rogatien Vachon, who played 36. Worsley was the likely choice to open the series.

The second game of the series will be played Thursday and when the teams move to New York for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday, the Canadiens will be up against an 18-game Ranger unbeaten streak at home.

With 15 victories and three ties since Jan. 2, the Rangers tied a culb record for home ice success. The mark was set in 1939-40, the last time New York won the Stanley Cup.

The home ice could play a major role in the Boston-Toronto series too. The Maple Leafs have not won a game in Boston all season and the Bruins haven't won in Toronto since Nov. 27, 1965.

Harry Sinden, who coached the Bruins to a second place finish, their highest in a decade, said Boston's inability to win in Toronto won't hurt his club.

"We don't worry about it," said Sinden, "because if worse comes to worse, we don't have to win there. We can take four games here, in Boston."

Punch Imlach, Toronto's coach, admitted the Bruins had the edge. "Only once in the last 20 years has a fourth place team come on to win the Stanley Cup," said Punch, whose Leafs finished fourth.

In the West, Philadelphia, which lost only two of its last 15 games in the drive for a playoff berth, hopes to keep the momentum going against the St. Louis Blues.

Keith Allen, coach of the Flyers, said he didn't mind facing the West champion Blues in the opening round. "They're the best team we'll have to face in our division, so why not face them now? If we get by them, we should win the division playoffs," said Allen.

The Blues boast the best goaltending in the NHL in Vezina Trophy winners Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall but their defense will be without 44-year-old Doug Harvey, who suffered a slight head injury in an auto accident Sunday. Jim Roberts will replace Harvey, who is expected to miss at least two games.

Oakland, the Cinderella team that moved from a last place finish in 1967-68 to second place this season, figures to have its hands full with Los Angeles. It wasn't until the last two games of the regular season that the Seals managed to beat the Kings.

"We have to work hard all the time against L.A.," said Fred Glover, freshman coach of the Seals. "They're a skating team all the time and keep moving. If we work hard it's no problem, but it has got to be for 60 minutes."

Cardinals Favorites To Win Flag Again

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP) — Take it from the man who foots the bill of a record $950,000 payroll, the St. Louis Cardinals are expected to win a third straight National League pennant this year.

Gussie Busch, rich brewer who owns the Cardinals, made it crystal clear to the hired hands in an unusual clubhouse meeting with the players.

Busch warned that some fans are saying "our players are getting fat" and money-crazy. He chewed out those who reportedly ignore the fans, refuse to sign autographs and fail to show up for appointments.

"Last year a lot of people were saying that you were an accident," he said, "and that you couldn't repeat again. Many are saying the same things this year. Only you can prove whether they are right or wrong .... Let's show the world that we are the real champions."

Busch's session with the players was only one of a number of unusual events in a camp that usually is quiet. The trade that sent Orlando Cepeda to Atlanta for Joe Torre surprised many. The holdouts, following the boycott in the pension dispute, resulted in a late start for key personnel.

To top it off Manager Red Schoendienst spent a couple of days in the hospital with abdominal pains.

Bing Devine, general manager, started making changes before the last out in the losing World Series with Detroit. He brought in Vada Pinson from Cincinnati to take over right field from Roger Maris, who retired, and engineered two deals to get Dave Giusti, first from Houston and later from San Diego after he had been lost in the expansion draft.

The trade for Torre was a surprise although Cepeda had dropped off to .248 last season after hitting .325 and winning the Most Valuable Player award in 1967. Torre, primarily a catcher and an All-Star at that, played first base at times for the Braves and will become the Cards' regular.

However, Torre may see plenty of work as a catcher if Tim McCarver's .253 slump of 1968 continues. Joe Hague, a rookie first baseman, comes up with fine minor league credentials as a slugger.

The infield lineup is set at the other positions with Julian Javier, who has been troubled by a back condition, at second, Dal Maxvill at short and Mike Shannon at third.

The outfield probably is the fastest, and possibly the best, in baseball, Lou Brock in left, Curt Flood in center and Pinson in right are formidable. Pinson has been hitting at a .500 clip during the spring games. Jim Hicks, who hit .366 at Tulsa, may stick as an extra despite his age, 29, and past failures with the Chicago White Sox.

Schoendienst's main problem has been to come up with the proper reserves. Steve Huntz, up from Tulsa, may make it as insurance for Maxvill since Dick Schofield was traded to Boston for relief pitcher Gary Waslewski. Phil Gagliano and Jerry Buchek, back from the Mets, also are fighting for extra jobs. Now Bob Johnson has been added.

Bob Gibson is the big man of the pitching staff off his 22-9 season and fabulous record 1.12 ERA. Gibson, who held out and reportedly received $125,000, got a late start but will be ready.

Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton and Ray Washburn are the other proven starters. Giusti, an 11-game winner for the Astros, was bombed in his early starts for the Cards. He is battling with rookie Mike Torrez for the No. 5 job.

Officer Hurt By LBJ Car Awarded $15,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland policeman who said he was injured by the open door of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's car in Cleveland in 1964 was awarded $15,000 in damages Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green ruled that the mishap accelerated a chronic back disorder suffered by Patrolman Joseph A. Mazzarella, 48.

Mazzarella was helping to control crowds at a downtown intersection during a Johnson campaign visit in October, 1964, when he was allegedly struck by the open door of the presidential vehicle.

Welfare Workers Press Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — State welfare workers, back on the job in Allegheny County after a 20-day boycott, have voted to march on the state capital April 15 to press demands for increased salary and fringe benefits.

The action was spurred by leaders claims that state officials have gone back on promises to meet some demands. Only about 50 of 400 workers at a meeting Tuesday night voted against the march.

"We're going to bury their integrity that they have killed," said John McIlvaine, attorney for the United Welfare Workers union.

About 500 workers went back to work last week after union leaders met in Harrisburg with state officials.

Lawrence Collura, president of the newly-formed union, said he recommended the return-to-work after Dr. Thomas W. Georges, state welfare secretary, telephoned him and promised to write a letter agreeing to some demands outlined at the Harrisburg meeting. Collura said the letter never arrived.

John McCarrell, of the United Auto Workers, told the welfare workers Georges is being used as a "patsy" by the administration.

Convention Center Slated In Pittsburgh

Mayor Joseph M. Barr said Tuesday the Penn Central railroad has offered to give the city a five - acre track of land to get the project started.

Auto Wreckers File Appeal In Fencing Action

LISBON — The Northeastern Ohio Auto Wreckers Association is appealing a reversal in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court to protect a member, A. & N. Auto Wrecking at Routes 7 and 14 east of Columbiana, from application of the junkyard fencing law.

The association appealed Tuesday to the Seventh District Court of Appals from Judge Raymond S. Buzzard's March 12 order dismissing its case against the sheriff, county auditor and prosecuting attorney.

The case was filed in November 1964. Judge Buzzard granted NOAWA's motion for a temporary injunction restraining the county officials from applying the new law until its constitutionality was decided.

After the Ohio Supreme Court last Dec. 31 upheld the constitutionally of the law, Prosecuting Atty J. Warren Bettis filed a motion for removal of the restraining order and Judge Buzzard dissolved it and dismissed the case.

With the notice of appeal yesterday, the appellant's counsel also filed an Appellate Court entry dated April 1 granting a stay of execution of the Common Pleas Court order pending final determination of the case.

The entry stops the sheriff's inspection of junkyards which began after the injunction was removed.

Day Care Center Planned For Wellsville Residents

Plans have been made to establish a Day Care Center in Wellsville, tentatively on May 10.

A committee to set up the program and obtain a place was appointed during a meeting of the Board of United Church Women at the First United Methodist Church in Wellsville.

Mrs. Betty Wilson, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Pulliam, Mrs. Almetta Fieldings, Mrs. Syvella Travers and Mrs. Gloria Kennedy.

The Day Care Center, predominately for low - income families, will be federally supported. It would be open from 8:30 to 4 p.m., with the cost approximately $2.50 a child per week depending upon operating expenses.

Any child between 4 and 7 will be eligible to be enrolled, but they must have had all "shots" for the prevention of communicable diseases, Mrs. Wilson said. Milk will be provided by the center and the child must bring a sack lunch.

The services of Mrs. Norma Scott, a registered nurse at the Community Resource Center in East Liverpool, will be available for two and a half days a week. Volunteers are needed to help at the center. Anyone interested in serving may call Mrs. H. F. Banfield. Mothers interested in enrolling their children also are to call Mrs. Banfield as soon as possible.

Some supplies, including refrigeration, have been donated, but others are needed.

23 Bodies Are Recovered In Mexican Mine Blast

BARROTERAN, Mexico (AP) — Rescue workers braved cave-ins, 100-degree heat and poison gas as they dug deep today in a soft-coal mine in which officials said between 151 and 155 Mexican miners were buried by an explosion two days ago.

Before dawn 23 bodies had been recovered. Mine officials said another 128 to 132 men were still trapped 450 feet underground. It was generally believed all were dead.

Seven experts of the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Washington are to reach this small mining town later today to advise Mexican authorities on faster removal of the dead and restoration of the shattered mine.

Juan Heitz, managing director of the Altos Hornos de Mexico S.A. mining concern that owns the diggings, said hours of checking assignment sheets still left the whreabouts of four men in doubt. This produced the uncertainty about the number of victims.

Heitz spoke of them all as "bodies" but emphasized: "We are changing nothing in our efforts. We are not stopping for a minute, even though there is no life, until every man is out."

The disaster was described by Gomez Sada, secretary of mining, as the worst in Mexico's mining history.

When methane gas exploded and set off a two-hour fire in the underground tunnels Monday afternoon, most of Barroteran's 8,000 population converged on the mine entrances. Troops had to hold them back.

By Tuesday grim resignation had set in.

"No one would be able to live through those explosions and gas," said Fortunato Salinas, one of the oldest miners here. "This is the worst of them all."

Asked what might have caused the blast, Heitz said: "It seems now that the equipment was functioning perfectly. That could mean human error, but this is only a supposition."

There are five interlaced mines at Barroteran, 75 miles south of the Texas border town of Eagle Pass. All are at the foot of Santa Rosa Mountain in the Sierra Madre range. The No. 2 and 3 mines, connected by 2,000-foot tunnels, were worst hit.

Officials said all the bodies recovered so far were badly scorched, bruised and broken, but it had not been determined whether the men died of suffocation or were crushed by cave-ins.

About 150 miners were working around the clock to clear the rock and rubble in the No. 2 and 3 mines. Every hour they were rotated in groups of 20.

ANN LANDERS

Back In Living Room!

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every morning over my second cup of coffee. My husband reads it over his first cup. I'm sure your answer would clear the air in our house.

Is it perfectly all right for a boy, age 15, to bring his 14-year-old girl friend home after school and take her immediately to the bedroom and close the door — not to be seen or heard from until dinner time, three hours later.

After dinner they go right back to the bedroom and close the door again. I say if it's studying that keeps them so busily occupied, they can do that in the den or the sun parlor.

My husband says to keep quiet and not give them any ideas. What do you say? — ROCHESTER.

Dear Roch: I doubt that anyone could give those two any ideas they don't already have.

And now I'll answer your question by asking one — of your husband. If you had a 14-year-old daughter, Sir, would you approve of her being closeted with a 15-year-old boy — in his bedroom, with the door closed for three hours?

I strongly suspect somebody is getting a few vicarious kicks imagining what goes on behind that closed door. Get those kids out of the bedroom and into the living room at once.

Is It Necessary?

Dear Ann: Several months ago a preacher's wife stated the case for her hard-working husband. May a doctor's wife have equal time?

The doctor is on call 24 hours a day for emergencies. The dictionary defines an emergency as "sudden need for immediate action." This means the individual needs help at once in order to live.

Some people think one call won't bother him because "it will only take a few minutes to answer a question or order a prescription." They don't realize the doctor may have received 10 other such calls during the evening.

So next time you reach for the phone to call your doctor at home, ask yourself, "Is this call necessary?" Remember the poor fellow already has worked 12 hours that day and he gets tired like everyone else.

Remember, too that we ALL need him — and this means his wife and children. So let's not kill the wonderful guy. — A.B.A.

Dear A.B.A.: It takes a special kind of woman to be married to a doctor and your letter indicates that you qualify.

Ignorance No Bliss

Dear Ann: Please see what you can do to make it a law that before people marry they have to sign a sworn statement that they understand their legal rights.

I supported a slob through college. After three children he decided I wasn't intellectual enough for him. Like a fool I gave him a divorce because I thought I had to. He remarried within 13 months then decided the children needed both a father and a mother. He succeeded in getting the two boys away from me.

All this happened 10 years ago because I was ignorant. Is there some way other ignorant women can be protected? — SMART TOO LATE.

Dear Too Late: Yes. An ignorant woman should have a smart lawyer.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Yorty Forced Into Runoff Election At Los Angeles

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro who apparently drew heavy support from white voters, has forced incumbent Samuel W. Yorty into a runoff election for mayor.

Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Republican senator from Arizona, launched his own political career in nearby San Fernando Valley in Tuesday's elections by easily winning the GOP nomination for a seat in Congress.

Goldwater, a stockbroker, will face Democrat John Van DeKamp, a former Justice Department lawyer, in a runoff April 29 for the seat vacated by Ed Reinecke, who became California lieutenant governor.

With about 65 per cent of the precincts counted, Goldwater had more than twice as many votes as his Democratic opponent in the 15-man race.

Wisconsin State Assemblyman David R. Obey defeated Republican State Sen. Walter John Chilsen in the battle for the seat left by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris cheered the victory in what he called "the very region of the country which elected Richard Nixon president last November." He said it's the first time a Democrat has won the seat in the 7th District.

Virtually complete returns gave the Democrat about a 2,000-vote edge.

In a city with an estimated 15 per cent Negro population, he had almost 42 per cent of the vote with half the precincts in. Yorty had 26 per cent and the other candidates were far behind.

Bradley had the backing of Democratic party leaders in the nonpartisan election, and Yorty was in his familiar role as a party maverick.

County OK's Blacktop Plans For Highways

LISBON — Columbiana County Commissioners Tuesday approved the 1969 liquid bituminous program laid out by County Engineer Bert A. Dawson Jr. for county and township roads.

He estimates 1,054,649 gallons of liquid asphalt will be used on 221.10 miles of road. He will advertise for bids to be opened late this month or early in May.

The commissioners yesterday purchased for the county engineer a $6,401 line striper from J. J. Turner Co., Cleveland, and a $4,567 portable compressor from Dearing Air Compressor & Pump Co., Youngstown.

Dawson said a standard allowance of $125 a mile for each township has been granted from the engineer's funds for the combined bituminous and chloride programs.

Townships, villages and parks will furnish $53,138 toward the total estimated cost of $197,754 for bituminous material, leaving $144,616 as the county's share.

The county will also furnish 5,730 cubic yards of aggregate. Political subdivisions are to furnish and stockpile approximately 28,698 cubic yards of aggregate for their projects.

Villages — Summitville, $563; Hanoverton, $304; Lisbon, $277; Leetonia, $1,665; New Waterford, $629; Rogers, $592; Salineville, $2,011. East Palestine City Park—$352.

Money, Whisky Stolen At Store

Intruders broke into the Pennsylvania state liquor store in the Big Beaver Borough Shopping Center some time between 9 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday and made off with an undetermined amount of cash and 140 cases of whisky.

Pennsylvania state police at Chippewa said entrance was gained through the roof. A safe was then burned open and the money taken. Authorities later recovered 128 cases of the stolen whisky in a truck parked near by.

More Leave For Induction

LISBON — Five East Liverpool residents were among 18 from Columbiana County who left Lisbon this morning for induction in the armed forces at Cleveland.

Also boarding the three special buses at the VFW post in response to the April call of Selective Service Board 16 were 71 youths for pre-induction physical examinations.

Mrs. Elane Griffith, executive secretary of Board 16, said induction notices were mailed to 30 youths. Two transferred to other boards and 10 enlisted.

The prospective inductees follow by communities:

East Liverpool — Gary M. Barnett, 1844 Lisbon St.; Robert L. Tarbuck, 1239 Oakwood Ave.; Michael S. Hicks, 925 Orchard Grove Ave.; Andrew J. Hall, Park Way, Ext., and Kenneth A. Obney, Dome St.

Wellsville — William E. Reed, 1003 Main St. Salineville — Wilbur W. Griffith, 5 W. Main St. Lisbon — Richard H. Lewis, 303 Sherman St. Columbiana — Joe R. Scott, RD 2. East Palestine —Robert B. Wirks, RD 1.

Car Knocked 90 Feet After Crash Impact

A 23-year-old woman escaped injury although her auto was knocked 90 feet when struck from the rear by a truck this morning at 7:21 on Pennsylvania Ave. at Martin St.

The halted 1963 model sports car operated by Darlene F. Aguire of 1503 Pennsylvania Ave. was hit by a 1967 model two-door van driven by Harold R. Leggett, 54, of West Point, police said.

Miss Aguire's auto was termed a total loss by Patrolman Orin C. Smith, the investigating officer. The rear was smashed and the rear window was shattered.

The young woman said she halted her westbound car to make a left turn into Martin St. Leggett was westbound about 25 miles an hour, he told officers.

Leggett was cited on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance. Pleading guilty, he was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Queried by the court, Leggett said he was hauling a truck load of plants for Riverview Orchids of Anderson Blvd. The accident report showed the truck is owned by the U-Haul Co. of Pompano Beach, Fla., and was rented from a local agency. The crash damaged the left front fender, bumper and grill of the truck.

Applegate Quits County Road Job In Work Dispute

Lawrence C. Applegate of 1119 St. George St. has announced his resignation effective Monday from the Columbiana County Highway Department, citing "harassment" by County Engineer Bert Dawson Jr. and Supt. Eiler Hinchcliffe.

Applegate, former city auditor, had been serving as assistant superintendent for the highway department.

Dawson today denied any harassment, saying Applegate had resigned March 16 but had two weeks vacation coming to him.

Applegate, 62, said he was first advised there was no work for him when he returned to his job after Dawson succeeded County Engineer John Ursu in January. He said he continued to report for work, and later was assigned "menial chores" such as painting stone walls, hauling refuse and scraping floors.

Later he said, he was asked to sign a paper that his work as "highway maintenance foreman" was unsatisfactory, and he was designated as assistant superintendent of highways, but he still had to cut brush, carry bridge planks and dig post holes.

Dawson said Applegate continued to receive pay at an assistant engineer's rate and was not asked to do more or less than others in the department.

"Applegate's main duty under the former administration was supervising the blacktop program. The department doesn't do this work in during cold weather," Dawson stated.

Courthouse To Close On Friday Afternoon

LISBON — The Columbiana County commissioners announced Tuesday that the Courthouse will be closed Friday afternoon and Saturday this week.

The community Good Friday service will be held from noon to 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church.

Driver's Hearing Set On Tuesday

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today set a hearing Tuesday at 9 a.m. for James R. Hager, 27, of 1854 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., who pleaded innocent on a charge of crashing a stop sign at State St. and the River Rd.

Hager was cited at 2:31 this morning by Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon.

Meanwhile, Roy F. Cline, 28, of Martha St. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of crashing a traffic light at 1:13 a.m. today at Mulberry St. and Pennsylvania Ave. He also was cited by Dillon.

The court decreed a fine of $10 and costs for William R. Moore, 19, of Wellsville RD 1, who pleaded guilty to a charge of crashing a stop sign on the Campground Rd. He was cited Tuesday at 9:35 p.m. by Constable Thomas Edgell of Liverpool Township.

2 Are Treated At Osteopathic

Miss Catherine Sue Slager, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slager of 425 May St., suffered a fractured finger in the fall.

Daniel Stockdale Jr. of the Y. & O. Rd. was treated for a laceration of the scalp suffered when a chain block struck him as he lifted a motor onto a truck.

Will Present Talk

LISBON — Jay Carter of W. Lincoln Way will present an illustrated talk on sail planes during the Mid - County Republican Club meeting at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in GOP headquarters on E. Lincoln Way. Mrs. Velma Cope of Lisbon, president, will be in charge.

Committee Receives Award From Chester Kiwanis Club

The public relations and finance committee received a monthly award for outstanding service Tuesday night during a meeting of the Chester Kiwanis Club at City hall.

The club began making the award with last night's meeting to one of its committees doing for most outstanding work and reporting.

Boyd pointed out that for two months the club has had 100 per cent reporting from committees.

The education and attendance committee reported two members attended the officers' conference held by the state Kiwanis governor at Wheeling for First District clubs. The committee also is contacting members absent from the previous meeting with the aim, "first place in the first district."

Pillo urged members to support the forthcoming Pottery Festival in East Liverpool.

Since Chester, Newell, Wellsville and East Liverpool, he said, all are part of the tri-state pottery district and are visited by those attending the annual event, it is a part of the club's community service activities to be represented.

Pillo said the final result of such cooperation "could be a more widely known community, a more active business area and a better place in which to live."

He concluded, "The pottery festival is to all of us a tri-state community project." He also urged a "good neighbor" policy within the area.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Cheese Worries Solved

DEAR HELOISE: Can you freeze cheese? Check on that for us, will you? Sure would appreciate it.

BACHELOR ROW.

Heloise

Sirs, here's the best information I can find after contacting two cheese manufacturers:

Most aged cheeses may be kept in your deep freezer IF the temperature in the freezer is zero degrees or lower.

They do not recommend freezing over one pound at a time though, and tell us that it should be tightly wrapped in foil. They also recommend that it not be stored over six months.

When you take it out of your freezer to use, do so three or four days ahead of time and just leave it on your refrigerator shelf so that it may thaw slowly.

And here's some more little tidbits that you might be interested in:

They say that if any mold should form when you keep cheese on your refrigerator shelf, either scrape or whack it off a bit and throw it away.

Don't ever waste it if it's dry and hard, just grate it on your grater and use it for such things as casseroles and spaghetti.

Now I've eaten cheese many years and though they say you cannot freeze all kinds of cheeses. . .I have!

Some of them, especially Roquefort, will crumble when frozen, but this I like for many different reasons.

Did you ever try to crumble fresh Roquefort to dump in a good lettuce and tomato salad? Or that sour cream dressing you make? It's far easier to crumble after it's frozen and while still partially frozen.

So enjoy your frozen cheese, my friends! Bet you have some wonderful recipes!

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: In regard to "NERVOUS WRECK" who was bothered with too much company in her kitchen, let me tell you my solution.

When dinner is over I produce a couple of aprons and offer the following:

"One of you wash, one wipe and the other stack things on the table, so I can put them in their rightful places later."

Then I pour myself a cup of coffee and go into the living room and find an easy chair!

MEANY.

DEAR HELOISE: I use nylon net as "end papers" when setting my hair.

I cut the net the width of my curlers and two inches in length.

If I set my hair wet, the net will also get damp and is easy to wrap around the ends. If I roll it while dry, I wet the net just a little.

The net is light enough so it won't weigh the hair down and is so airy and thin that it dries in minutes.

N.J.B.

You're a wonderful pal to clue us in on that dilly.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To apply paste wax to my kitchen floor, I simply put a "glob" of the wax inside a folded down (double thickness) nylon stocking (one with runs, of course) and just rub it on. Works great!

R.H.

DEAR HELOISE: This is for anyone who wears pierced earrings.

If you happen to lose the little screw back as I did, make a replacement from a plastic coffee-can lid. Cut a small circle of plastic about the size of a pencil and punch a tiny hole in it so it will fit the back of the earring.

MRS. M. SYLVESTER.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently read the hint about putting on those button-down-the-back blouses. It's good, but this is the way I do mine and it works better for me:

I just lay the blouse down and button the three middle buttons, then slip it over my head. I have no problem then buttoning the top and bottom ones. Real easy.

The swastika, symbol of the Nazi party during World War II, was originally symbolic of the sun in the nature religions of the ancient Near East. Similar designs appear in the remains of ancient Mexican and Peruvian civilizations, and it was widely used by North American Indians as well.

The DOCTOR Says

Take High Blood Pressure Seriously

Dr. Brandstadt

Q—My nephew, 22, has a blood pressure of 166/100. He takes this very lightly, saying that the idea that the normal blood pressure is 100 plus your age has been exploded. What do you think?

A—A systolic pressure of 100 plus your age is no longer regarded as normal — 100 plus half your age gives a closer approach but even that may be too high. A pressure of 166/100 is high for a person of any age and a lower reading of 100 is a definite sign of potential trouble. The sooner your nephew gets his head out of the sand and seeks aid in bringing his pressure down the better.

Q—What are the dangers of lowering the blood pressure too fast?

A—It is advisable to allow three or four weeks to bring a very high blood pressure down to normal. Bringing the pressure down too fast may cause lightheadedness or fainting.

Q—Is an altitude of 5,280 feet above sea level beneficial for a person who has high blood pressure?

A—When a person who is living near sea level moves to a high altitude, his blood pressure goes up for a day or two, then gradually returns to its former level. In the long run, altitude would niether help nor aggravate your high blood pressure.

Q.—Our doctor is treating my husband for high blood pressure. He says an occasional cocktail will not affect the pressure. What do you think?

A—Your doctor is right. If a cocktail helps your husband to relax, it may even help to lower his blood pressure.

Q—Are eggs, milk, bacon, mayonnaise and butter harmful for persons with high blood pressure?

A—No, but foods high in cholesterol may cause hardening of the arteries and this is one cause of high blood pressure.

Q—Will Epsom salts lower the blood pressure?

A—Epsom salts are not recommended for this purpose. There are several drugs that will lower your blood pressure without upsetting your digestive tract.

Q—I take Butisol for hypertension. Does this drug have any bad side effects?

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstandt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

A.—First use an ice cube on the gum to harden it, then pick out as much of it as possible. Then apply egg white or peanut butter, which will soften the gum. Wipe the hair between the fingers, using a facial tissue or a clean cloth.

Q. — How can I improvise some inexpensive metal legs for work tables or picnic tables?

A. — An ordinary pipe threaded at one end and a standard pipe flange can be called to the rescue for this purpose. Screw the flange to the underside of the able top, then twist the threaded end of the pipe into the flange. To protect finished floors, rubber crutch tips can be slipped over the bottom end of the pipe.

Q. — How can I remove old bloodstains from handkerchiefs?

A. — You can usually soak thes stains out in a solution of two tablespoons of ammonia to a quart of cold water.

Q. — What can I do about light scorch stains on linens?

A. — Sometimes the rubbing of a cut onion over these stains will solve the problem, following this with a soaking in cold water, then laundering.

Q. — Please suggest a recipe for an "unusual" kind of dessert.

A. — Try this: Put a spoonful of heated, prepared mincemeat on top of vanilla or coffee ice cream. Top this with a cube of sugar which has been dipped into lemon or rum extract, light a match to it, and you have a flaming dessert.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

Berry Benefits From 'Rube Tube'

Since last Jan. 16, when "Mayberry RFD" went on hiatus (a generic term meaning unpaid vacation and regarded generally among television people like an annual visit of the bubonic plague), one of the busiest actors in town has been "Mayberry's" star, Ken Berry.

Cecil Smith

Ken has done the Carol Burnett Show, the Glen Campbell "Goodtime Hour"; he's flying to New York to do the Ed Sullivan Show, and he's just begun work as the star of a TV movie produced by Aaron Spelling and Danny Thomas for ABC's forthcoming 90-minute Movie of the Week.

-:-

THE MOVIE is a World War II comedy called "Wake Me When the War Is Over" and Eva Gabor and Werner Klemperer are among those involved. I asked Ken what he was trying to do, "change your image?"

"No," said Ken, "there's not much image to change. When Andy Griffith called me in to do 'Mayberry,' I told him I was no good with accents, I couldn't do country talk the way Jim Nabors or George Lindsey or Andy himself does.

"Andy said the show has never gone in for accents, that everybody talks the way he talks naturally. I play it very straight."

When Don Knotts left the show some years ago, the word was it was doomed. But it went on stronger than ever. When Nabors departed, again there was shaking of heads. But again, it prospered. And when Andy Griffith himself bowed out after eight seasons, there was a real tolling of bells.

However, with Ken Berry, ably abetted by Arlene Golonka as Millie, Paul Hartman as Emmett, Lindsey as Goober and the indefatigable Frances Bavier as Aunt Bee, "Mayberry" has sailed through this season consistently near the top of the popularity polls.

THIS IS ONE of a number of series concentrating on yokel or country humor ("Gomer Pyle," "Green Acres," "Beverly Hillbillies," "Petticoat Junction") that consistently holds such lofty spots on the rating polls that TV is being referred to as the rube tube.

Ken feels the popularity of such shows may represent an escape from the problems of ghettos and hippies and moral-racial upheaval of the cities toward a more innocent small-town world.

There may be something in this. When the back-alley gossip of "Coronation Street" ruled British TV, it was felt this showed nostalgia for the old ways of English life rather than the modern supermarket-suburbia existence.

Here where the move from rural to urban life in the last 30 years has been one of the greatest migrations in history, this again may represent nostalgia for the old ways.

THE TROUBLE with this theory, Ken says, is that rating polls show such programs are more popular among rural than city dwellers.

Whatever the theory, Ken is delighted that the "rube tube" has so enhanced his career. The one-time song-and-dance man, whose routines with his wife, Jackie Joseph, were highlights of a long series of "Billy Barnes Revues" in Hollywood, has known periods when you scratched for work and didn't have it thrust upon you as it is today.

Jackie is currently hostess of a morning movie on a Hollywood ABC outlet. They have two children, John, 4, and Terry, 3. Most of their friends are out of the old Barnes revues, including Billy, now a "Laugh-In" writer.

KEN BECAME nationally know as the bumbling lieutenant of "F Troop," which, despite much board slapstick, was a sophisticated comedy in which some barbed satire in Art Julian's scripts underlay the horseplay. "Mayberry" is much more relaxed and gentler in manner.

Ken likes the routine of picture-making — on the set in the morning and home with his wife and children at night — rather than nightly dates with the state.

One thing bothers him — TV seasons grow shorter and shorter. This season, 26 episodes of "Mayberry", next season, there reportedly will be only 24. The hiatus grows longer.

"The way things are going," Ken said, "you may have to do two series a year to make out."

The oldest "field sport" of which there is any record is falconry, which is estimated to have been practiced in China approximately 4,000 years ago.

Drivers Of Cars To Bear Brunt Of Pike Toll Boost

HARRISBURG (AP) — Automobile drivers will bear the brunt of a $13 million toll increase which goes into effect on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sept. 1.

The increase, formally authorized Tuesday, will average 75 per cent for cars and 15 per cent for trucks and buses, which are assessed according to weight.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission unanimously approved the new schedule of tolls and defended the sharper rise for private vehicles as opposed to commercial types.

The commission noted that currently the heavier vehicles account for 53 per cent of the turnpike's annual $56 million in revenue and only 13 per cent of traffic volume.

The toll increase is the first in the history of the turnpike, whose first 160-mile section between Carlisle and Irwin was opened 29 years ago.

Five More Ohioans Viet War Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Ohio servicemen are among the latest Vietnam War casualties, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

They were Army Spec. 4 Dennis R. Richards of Marion, Army Spec. 4 Robert V. Shrack Jr. of New Burlington, Marine Lance Cpl. Dennis G. Johnson of Milford, Marine Lance Cpl. Samuel V. Ramsey Jr. of Canton, and Marine Pfc. Jerry Dishman of Akron.

Marine Cpl. Mark D. Marshall of South Euclid was listed as having died not as a result of hostile action.

State Workers Seek Pay Boost In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislative representative of the Pennsylvania State Employes Council, AFL-CIO, today asked the General Assembly for an immediate 10 per cent pay increase and three 10 per cent raises mandated by the legislature on an annual basis.

Otherwise, Reuben H. Miller told a House Appropriations Committee in a prepared statement, the only recourse could be a demonstration by state employes.

Miller said the overall increase was necessary to bring state salaries in line with those paid by private industry, the federal government and other industrial states as well as to keep pace with the cost of living.

He said Pennsylvania now ranks 30th among the states in salaries paid its employes. The last pay boost for state employes was 5 per cent in 1967.

"It's the 110,000state employes who carry out the mandates of this legislature," Miller said. "You, the members of the legislature, are our responsible employers."

Dayton Sports Arena Work Due To Resume

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Work is expected to be resumed soon on construction of the University of Dayton's new sports arena.

The project was halted Feb. 28 when the arena's steel framework collapsed, injuring several workmen.

Three of the planets were discovered in modern times — Uranus was discovered in 1781, Neptune was located by mathematics in 1846 and Pluto was discovered in 1930.

Tennessee's In Dilemma In Ray Case

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two prison cell letters from James Earl Ray and the death of the judge who received them have placed the state of Tennessee in an apparent legal dilemma.

The problem is whether the circumstances may force authorities to give the admitted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the trial by jury he has been quoted as saying he wants.

Faced by seemingly conflicting opinions from higher judicial authority, four judges of the Shelby County Criminal Court huddled with prosecution officials Tuesday. None of those at the meeting would say what, if any, conclusion was reached.

Judge W. Preston Battle, who accepted Ray's guity plea in Criminal Court March 10 and sentenced him to 99 years, disclosed nine days later that he had received a letter from Ray saying he intended to "file for a postconviction hearing."

Associates who searched his official effects said Tuesday they found a second letter which Ray asked the judge to treat "as a legal notice of an intent to ask for a reversal of the 99 year sentence."

Existence of the second letter written from the state penitentiary in Nashville, had not been made public by the judge. Its wording raised the question whether it was the valid equivalent of a motion for a new trial, or perhaps a writ of habeas corpus.

State Criminal Appeals Court Judge Charles Galbreath says a motion for a new trial filed within the 30-day review period is automatically granted when the judge who presided over the case dies before acting on it.

But Chief Justice Hamilton Burnett of the Tennessee Supreme Court said Ray's letters' even if construed as motions, do not automatically guarantee a new trial.

The justice said any petition filed by Ray would have to be ruled upon as a habeas corpus writ, in which a prisoner contends his rights were violated.

Rotarians Hear Historian Speak Of Canal Project

Clyde Gainey of Canal Fulton, guest speaker for the Rotary Club meeting at the Travelers Hotel Tuesday, told the members of a canal restoration between Canal Fulton and Massillon and about a boat the Rotary Club there is building.

Gainey described Lock 4, the only operative lock in existence on the Ohio - Erie Canal. He said it was Al Simpson of the Canton Repository who suggested a boat be built that would operate from Canal Fulton to as far as possible on the canal.

The boat is being constructed upside down, and will be turned over into the canal this summer for completion of the cabins. The men have been working on it for two years.

The boat will be 60 feet long, 14 feet wide and 12 feet high.

He told the East Liverpool Rotary members that if they want to restore the Sandy - Beaver canal and build a boat, his group would be glad to offer help. "It just takes a strong back, fellows who don't demand wages and some money to restore a canal," he told them.

County Commissioners James Boyd, Max Gard and Charles Gause, Prosecutting Attorney Warren Bettis, Vincent LaNeve and Robert Boyce were guests.

Jurors Quizzed In Evans' Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Cleveland Black Nationalist leader Fred "Ahmed" Evans was to resume today with a pool of prospective criminal court jurors scheduled for questioning.

A venire of 69 prospective jurors called for the trial was exhausted Tuesday in Common Pleas Court and a defense motion for declaration of a mistrial was overruled by Judge George J. McMonagle.

At the close of Tuesday's session, 10 jurors had been tentatively seated, leaving two jurors and three alternates to be selected.

Evans, 37, is charged with the shooting deaths of three Cleveland policemen and a civilian during an outbreak of racial violence the night of July 23 last year in Cleveland's Glenville area.

Plans were being made to call a fresh venire of 30 jurors to the court Thursday.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 2, the 92nd day of 1969. There are 273 days left in the year.

On this date in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson asked Congress to declare war on Germany.

In 1932, Charles A. Lindbergh turned $50,000 over to an unidentified man in a Bronx, N.Y. cemetery—in the hope his kidnaped son would be returned.

In 1945, American troops were pushing inland on Okinawa after the largest amphibious operation of the Pacific war.

Ten years ago — Communist China, which was crushing a revolt in Tibet, announced that the Dalai Lama had reached sanctuary in India.

Junior Editors Quiz on MICHELANGELO

QUESTION: Why is Michelangelo so famous?

* * * *

ANSWER: Unlike some artists of our time, who present broken up or highly distorted pictures of the human figure, the artists of the Italian Renaissance took delight in showing human beings in as majestic and beautiful a manner as possible. It is because Michelangelo achieved a power and glory in his figures greater than any other artist, that his name is world famous and will always remain so. He himself wrote: "Nor hath God deigned to show Himself elsewhere, More clearly then in human forms sublime, Which, since they image him, compel my love." This artist, both sculptor and painter, lived between 1475 and 1564. The figure shown is from Michelangelo's great fresco on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in Rome. Compare the hand — also from this fresco — to the branch of a tree below. All living things have rhythm. Michelangelo has expressed this life quality with tremendous force. This artist's favorite medium was sculpture. He seemed to enjoy overcoming the resistance of the hard stone. His great figures in marble, such as the David and the Moses, are among the most glorious triumphs of Italian art.

(Barbara Lantz of Cranford, N. J., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Like A 2-Career Life?

By HAL BOYLE

Would you like to live a two-career life? In another generation it may be commonplace.

One of anything no longer seems to satisfy us. In an age of abundance we crave at least two of everything—and sometimes more than two.

There was a time in American life, and not too long ago, when a family took pride in the fact that it had finally moved into a house with an indoor bathroom. Now if we don't have a bath for every bedroom we feel underprivileged because we are not keeping up with the Joneses, that mythical, live-it-up family that sets the standards of status.

It is the same way with automobiles, radios and television sets. Once we counted ourselves fortunate if we had one of these mechanical symbols of plenty.

Today these one time luxuries have become necessities, and many a family feels like it is living on Tobacco Road if it can afford but one of each of them.

A suburban wife whose husband drives his car to work thinks her existence unbearable if she doesn't have a runabout chariot for her own needs also. Two teen-agers in the same house find it impossible to listen to the same radio, and each would be sure his growth would be stunted if he had to watch the same television programs as his parents. Thus a minimum of two sets is imperative.

The same trend is taking place in homes. More and more families with a house or apartment in the city are finding it difficult to hold their heads up in the neighborhood if they don't also own a small place in the country.

Since the two-of-everything philosophy has spread so widely, how long will men stay happy having only one career in their lifetime? Why should a man labor at the same task, sinking ever deeper in its dull routine, from the age of 20 or 25 until he retires at 65?

Well, as a matter of fact, millions of Americans already are enjoying second careers or planning them.

Many government employes across the nation, ranging from bus drivers, firemen and cops to military personnel and FBI agents, can retire at half-pay after a stated period, usually 20 years, leaving them free to start fresh careers. A growing number of business firms are also offering inducements for early retirement.

Often those who have a chance at a second career do better than they did in the first one. Their lives are happier and more interesting. They regret only that they didn't make the change sooner.

One wonders, however, where this appetite for two or more of everything will end.

The first U.S. president to appear on television was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke on April 30, 1939, at the opening ceremonies of the New York World's Fair, the proceedings of which were telecast.

Bourbon whisky is the first American liquor to obtain recognition abroad as a unique product that can be made only in the U.S.

The average automobile travels 100 miles forward for every 100 feet that is backed up. Paradoxically, however, the number of accidents that occur while a car is in reverse almost equals the number going forward.

Strike At Hotels In Cincinnati Is In Second Day

CINCINNATI (AP) — A strike that has crippled four downtown hotels entered its second day today, forcing many guests to carry their own luggage and causing a shutdown of several dining rooms and lounges.

Demanding a 90-cent hourly pay raise over the next two years, 60 maintenance workers walked out at midnight Monday. Hours later, approximately 500 other hotel employes of various unions agreed to honor picket lines.

The strikers are members of either the Firemen and Oilers Local 49 or Operating Engineers Local 20.

Hotel management and non-union employes manned the desks and fired the boilers, one of the lifelines of the hotels.

Bellboys were noticeably absent from all the hotels except the Metropole where management said its boiler plant is mostly automated and requires only periodic checks and maintenance.

'Scioto' Sinking Recalled

By ROBERT POPP

The story of the sinking of the excursion steamer, Scioto, has become part of the misty legends of the Upper Ohio Valley, but it still lives vividly in the memory of Mrs. Augusta Catherine Todd, who soon will be 94.

Mrs. Todd, a resident of College St. for many years, now makes her home in the Greystone Nursing Home at 1015 Riverside Ave., Wellsville. As a child of 6, she survived one of the worst steamboat disasters in Ohio River history, along with her mother, father, brother and sister.

It was on Tuesday, July 4, 1882, that the Scioto went to the bottom of the Ohio off Mingo Junction after a collision with another excursion steamer, the John Lomas. Seventy-five persons were lost, most of them residents of East Liverpool and Wellsville, but more than 300 were saved after making their way to the top deck of the Scioto, which protruded above the surface.

Bright, alert and cheerful, Mrs. Todd says: "I have a lot of ancient history in me!" as she recounts her memories of the disaster—vivid flashes of incidents from that time nearly 87 years ago.

HER MOTHER. Mrs. Mary Nagel Garner, and her father, Thomas Garner, survived the disaster, along with their other two children, Ida and George

Contemporary accounts, often conflicting in details, say the Scioto was upbound after a holiday excursion to Moundsville and the Lomas was downbound, headed for Martins Ferry from Brown's Island—also with a crowd of excursionists aboard.

The two boats collided and the Scioto sank within three minutes at the foot of Mingo Island. The Lomas landed her passengers on the nearby shore and then returned to the site and rescued most of the survivors of the Scioto.

"My mother and father and we three children had a stateroom," Mrs. Todd recalls. "My father had taken me to get a drink of water just before the collision. Then the boats hit and the Scioto started to sink. My father took me to the top deck and told me to stay there while he looked for my mother and the other two children.

LIVING HISTORY. Mrs. Augusta Catherine Todd, 93, one of the three known living survivors of a steamboat disaster almost 87 years ago, recalls her experiences for Mrs. Margaret Mick, proprietor of the Greystone Nursing Home on Riverside Ave., Wellsville. Mrs. Todd holds a volume of Columbiana County history telling the story of the famous river tragedy.

"I THINK my mother and the other two may have already been on the top deck at that time, but he could not see them in the terrible confusion. My mother and my brother and sister were in the stateroom when the collision occurred.

"Somebody broke a transom in the ceiling of the stateroom to help them onto the deck above. A man reached through the opening to help my mother.

Cannon Booms Salute

Nation Says Goodbye To Great Chief

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The body of Dwight David Eisenhower was laid to rest today at the end of the long trail that had carried him to the pinnacle of American military and political power.

The tomb of the 34th president of the United States was a vault —next to that of a long-dead son —beneath the floor of a tiny chapel near the Eisenhower Library in the quiet farm town of his youth.

Cannon boomed a 21-gun salute and riflemen loosed three volleys as the final rites for the general came to a close.

A bugler sounded Taps, the soldier's farewell.

As the honor guard handed the folded stars and stripes that had covered the five-star general's plain, GI coffin, to his widow, the strains of the West Point alma mater were heard by the hundreds massed in silence on the grounds of the Eisenhower Center.

Thus, with full military honors, the nation said goodbye to the man who had commanded a mighty Allied war machine to victory over Nazi Germany in World War II, then led the nation as president through eight years of peace.

The train bearing the body and the former president's family finally pulled into this town of 8,000 around dawn, after a long journey from Washington and a three-day state funeral.

A military honor guard watched over the coffin in its aged baggage car until the moment arrived for the beginning of the final tribute.

It was then transferred to a hearse for the 45-minute procession through the streets of Eisenhower's boyhood home town.

Ohio House Receives Measure

Tax Plans In School Bill Given Little Enthusiasm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tax proposals contained in Gov. James A. Rhodes' omnibus education bill received little enthusiasm from Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, admitting that his colleagues were uneasy about the possibility of enacting new taxes, predicted that the bill, introduced in the House Tuesday, would "undergo some substantial revision."

"The people aren't going to be enthusiastic about any new tax," the Perrysburg Republican said, adding that it's a matter of determining whether the program is worth the cost.

"We will have to weigh the tax aspect against the program aspect," Kurfess said.

Democratic leaders praised the administration for its "willingness to broaden the school tax base . . ." but said the administration appears to be buck-passing by proposing a "permissive" county income tax.

The bill calls for a 1 to 2 per cent county income tax, with 75 per cent of it earmarked for education, and a 1.25 per cent vendor's excise tax.

While the bill calls the county income tax "permissive," counties failing to enact it would not be eligible for state foundation money.

The bill also requires districts to levy at least 20 mills of property taxes, instead of the current 17.5 mills, to qualify for foundation money.

The legislation seeks to equalize per-pupil cost of education between districts. Each school district would receive a share of the county income tax in proportion to the number of its students.

Parochial schools also would receive a share of the tax money, with use of the funds limited to tuition aid, teacher salaries, books and purchasing services.

Under the bill, present county boards of education would be replaced by councils of education. The councils would have the authority to approve all school construction and programming in school districts in their counties and would distribute all federal, state and county funds.

The bill also would require that vocational education programs be operated in comprehensive high schools if the school district has enough pupils to support them.

To equalize distribution of funds on the state level, the bill provides that the state foundation formula be changed to reduce or eliminate assistance to wealthy districts. The foundation formula would guarantee a base cost per pupil in every district of the state.

Shortly after the bill was introduced, the Ohio Education Association announced it was in general agreement with the aims of Rhodes' school financing plan, but said it would seek a mandatory county income tax.

"We believe this bill can become the vehicle to help meet the great unmet needs facing public schools in our state," said OEA President Louis Koenig.

Nixon Aides Say It's To Trim Costs

B52 Flight Cuts 'Linked' To Talks As De-Escalatian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats speculated today that a projected cut in B52 flights against targets in South Vietnam and Laos might be presented by the United States in the Paris peace talks as a de-escalation of the war.

Nixon administration officials say privately, as Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird emphasized publicly Tuesday, that the reason for the planned reduction is not diplomatic but financial. Laird said his department had to cut military costs.

The rate of sorties for the B52's has been running at 1,800 a month. Under the budget proposed for fiscal year 1970 which begins next July 1, the rate would be cut back to 1,600 a month. This could mean simply that fewer planes would be involved in any particular raid. It would not necessarily mean fewer targets would be hit.

Nevertheless, persons familiar with the Paris peace talks said the significant diplomatic aspects of the reduction is that it continues the de-escalation which began a year ago when President Johnson limited the bombing of North Vietnam. This was followed by a lull in offensive operations on the enemy side last summer and fall and by some North Vietnamese troop removals from the South. This finally produced the end of bombing of the North Nov. 1.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, had recommended that the B52 operations be continued at a high level and Laird had said two weeks ago he thought money should be provided for that purpose through June 1970.

As recently as March 19 Laird quoted Abrams as saying he considered the B52 to be one of his "most important weapons."

Administration officials insist ance that the switch in Laird's stand was due entirely to a need to cut costs does not rule out the possibility the cut may be used at some point for negotiating purposes in Paris.

Doctors Give New Hope To Ailing Child

Physicians at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh have given a new lease on life to little Paul McCraw of Mulberry St. by successfully inserting a vein in his right arm a new plastic "shunt" that will allow him to resume blood - cleansing treatments on an artificial kidney machine.

"I am so happy; I feel this is an answer to our prayers and the prayers of all the other people concerned about Paul," the 9-year-old's mother, Mrs. Erma McCraw, said today as she told of the successful surgery for installation of the new "shunt."

The shunt is a short, small diameter plastic tube sewn permanently into the vein to allow him to be attached to the kidney machine twice weekly.

His life was believed ebbing fast last weekend because the "shunt" was removed from a vein in his left arm as an aftermath of a blood infection. At that time, the physicians told Mrs. McCraw that they would be unable to install a "shunt" in the other arm. As a result,

Wellsville Citizens Press Council On Police Issue

Concern over the lack of full police protection in Wellsville due to a 9-day seige of "blue flu" among officers was expressed to Wellsville Council Tuesday night.

Only Police Chief John Hephner and Patrolman James Boyle remained on duty today as other officers continued to report off ill. Police have asked for a new schedule of pay increases.

Charles Donaldson, a businessman, told Council last night the merchants of the city are concerned about the situation and declared Council should issue a statement "on where it stands."

Councilman Nunzio Lombardozzi reported the city officials and the police "are not in agreement on a proposed pay boost," but added a public statement will be made soon.

THE REV. Robert Schondelmayer of the First Christian Church said the Ministerial Association also is concerned for the safety of the community.

He outlined three recommendations approved by the association:

1. — Council insure that the police receive "just" wages.

2. — The city receive "just" services for such wages.

3. — The community be provided maximum protection during the negotiations period.

In other action, Council agreed to meet with representatives of the Northeastern Ohio Public Employes District Council 18, AFL - CIO, concerning union membership for Wellsville

Pope Warns 'Rebellion' Perils Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today the very existence of the Roman Catholic Church is threatened by the "restless, critical, unruly and demolishing rebellion" of priests and laymen.

The pontiff said the rebellion was against the Church's canon rule, its tradition and its authority.

He also assailed pelates who have quit the Church and said their "scandal" crucified the Church.

The Pope's statements on revolt and defection in the Church came during his weekly general audience devoted to the sufferings of Christ during Holy Week.

Many pilgrims and tourists gathering in Rome for Easter Week ceremonies were among the crowd of 8,000 at the audience in St. Peter's Basilica.

Theft Takes Lot Of Brass

Investigating an East End factory theft, police are looking for culprits with a lot of brass, both literally and figuratively.

The Patterson Industries Division of Banner Industries told the department Tuesday afternoon 40 to 60 brass valve gates weighing approximately 60 pounds each were taken from the plant some time in the preceding two weeks.

The total weight of the material figures out to 2,400 to 3,600 pounds. The company said the valve gates are worth approximately $700 to $1,000.

'Rain Will Fall—And Fall,' Copeland Says In Dry Spell

From today's weather, it appears that he spoke with the knowledge that comes with years of record-keeping.

Copeland's remarks came in his monthly weather report.

Up until March 23, he said, there were 51 days (beginning Feb. 1) during which less than one-inch of rain was recorded. The average rainfall for March is 3.26 inches and last month showed only 1.39.

An average snowfall for the month is 4.4 inches, so fickle March delivered 4½ inches, however. An overall look, snow-wise, during the "winter months" revealed: November, 3 inches; December, 5½ inches; January, 2 inches; February, 5 inches, which, added to March's accumulation, amounted to 20 inches.

Temperatures for March were a little below the average (37.8 degrees) with an overall reading of 34 degrees. The high was 73 degrees on March 20 and the low 7 degrees on March 11.

The coldest temperature recorded all winter was the minus 6 on Dec. 10, though there were zero-degree readings two nights that month, four nights in January and one in February. Copeland noted that usually there are 20 nights during the winter that a zero temperature is attained. Overall, he said the temperatures were "about normal" this winter.

During March there were 12 clear, 10 cloudy and nine partly-cloudy days, with 50 per cent sunshine, 10 per cent higher than normal.

Action Taken Against Boys In Theft Here

A 12-year-old East Liverpool boy admitted Tuesday in Juvenile court at Lisbon that he broke into Heimie's Newsstand on Washington St. Sunday night and took money from a cash register and safe.

Police said all but $3.50 of the $351 taken was recovered.

After the burglary, the boy went to the home of a companion, 14, here and together they took a taxi to the home of the older boy's father in Wellsville.

The younger gave the older a $20 bill to pay the taxi fare, the only money they spent. They hid the money under the porch at the Wellsville residence.

Judge Louis Tobin placed the 12-year-old in the custody of the Welfare Department and ordered him to pay the store owner for damage to the door and to pay back the $3.50 he spent.

Arrangements are being made to place the older boy in Apple Creek State Hospital.

$102,000 Loss Set In Collapse Of Span

CLARION, Pa. (AP) — A highway official says damage from the collapse of part of a Clarion River bridge is about $102,000.

A bridge span collapsed Monday after a truck struck it, police said. The truck trailer, carrying 24 tons of steel according to police, also tumbled into the river.

Searchers dragged the river for the second day Tuesday, but did not find the driver, identified by the Aetna Freight Lines of Warren, Ohio, as Paul E. Jamriska of Pittsburgh.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission, under attack as a do-nothing agency, has been called on to finally take action on gas station games—the giveaways denounced by critics as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to unprotected consumers.

The commission, ending six weeks of hearings on the matter today, was asked on one hand to ban the games entirely. On the other were claims that the FTC doesn't have the right to take any action involving the games. In between were calls for the agency to try regulating the games before considering a total ban.

Before the hearings began, an FTC staff report denounced the games as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to consumers who were said to have only a slight chance, if any, to win a prize. The staff report charged the cost of the games, also used by food stores, are passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Seven leading producers of the retail games pleaded today with the commissioners to try regulating them before issuing an outright ban.

The Humble Oil Co., however, denied Tuesday that the commission even has the authority to regulate—much less ban—the games.

Of all the major oil companies, only Atlantic Richfield urged the FTC to prohibit the promotions, although representatives of retail gasoline dealers urged it last month to outlaw them completely.

The retailers said they were forced to use the games by the national oil companies as part of their franchises.

An Atlantic Richfield spokesman said the games had become so widely used that one company's promotions are offset by another's and continued use will only stir further public disfavor.

But the company contended that one company cannot abandon the games unilaterally without being placed at a competitive disadvantage and federal action is essential.

Complicating the matter have been charges by some consumer advocates, such as Ralph Nadar, that the FTC has done nothing to protect the buying citizen.

Recount Due Voting On School Bond Issue

Nugent Ends Duty In Viet, Flying Home

Airman 1. C. Patrick J. Nugent, married to Johnson's daughter Luci, completed his year of Vietnam duty and took a plane for Bergstrom Air Force Base in Texas. He will be discharged there.

He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross while loadmaster of a C123 loaded with troops on Jan. 2.

An Air Force spokesman said the twin-engine transport had 55 soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division aboard when it came under mortar attack. But Nugent and the other crew members accomplished their mission "without battle damage or crew injury," the citation said.

Johnson's other son-in-law, Marine Maj. Charles Robb, is scheduled to leave Vietnam later this month. Robb, served about six months as a company commander and now has a staff job at the headquarters of the 1st Marine Division.

Lake Erie Versus Lake Baykal

State officials from Gov. Rhodes down, along with county officials and municipal officers whose areas of jurisdiction lie along the shores of Lake Erie, are concerned about the pollution of the lake.

But they are not the only ones interested in the condition of the lake. The Russians are too.

For one of the world's 14 gigantic lakes is Russia's Lake Baykal. Although it occupies a remote area just north of Mongolia, it is said to be the world's largest deposit of fresh water because of its great depth.

YET POLLUTION has begun to effect it, due to the effects of forest cutting followed by agricultural run-off and pulp-mill effluents.

The Soviet Union has been watching Lake Erie and the rising concern over its pollution. Consequently the Russian government has taken elaborate precautionary measures to make certain that Lake Baykal never becomes polluted to the same degree.

In Ohio, some industries have made efforts to reduce or eliminate their contributions to the pollution problem. Others have done little or nothing at all, probably in the hope that public monies ultimately will be used to clean up the lake.

In the Soviet Union it is different. The government has set up a rigid system of controls around the edge of Lake Baykal which prevents both municipalities and industries from dumping into the lake. They have even established a buffer zone in which industry may not develop if that industry is the least pollution threat.

Government scientists are charged with the strict duty of analyzing the contents of the water weekly and they have installed monitoring systems on every waste-discharging installation that affects the lakeshore.

The Russians have copied and imitated many American inventions, techniques and processes. But in the case of pollution they are not copying us, they are moving ahead.

WHILE WE FIDDLE, Lake Erie dies.

Because we did not intelligently anticipate what would happen and take measures to prevent it, pollution has become a crisis.

Perhaps we need to copy the Russians in this instance, at least as far as the other Great Lakes are concerned and the remaining bodies of fresh water throughout the nation.

Suitable Memorial

Veterans and civic groups of Wellsville have risen to the responsibility of establishing a fitting tribute to a true military hero, Marine Pfc. Melvin Newlin who died in Vietnam in a courageous feat which earned for him the Congressional Medal of Honor.

A chapel at the community's cemetery is planned in memory of the 18-year-old Wellsville youth, and a fund-raising dinner is slated for May.

Assistance in this project would be a worthy endeavor for any county or area organization whose basic objectives include recognition and support of the patriotic ideals on which this nation is founded. Pfc. Newlin's death was the highest example of a citizen's duty to country, and deserves a suitable memorial.

An Excellent Precedent

He told the House of Commons the same thing he told the American press: No problems were resolved, but in President Nixon he found "a warm and understanding friend of Canada, a man with whom I shall be able to speak on behalf of Canadians in a frank yet genial fashion."

THE PRIME MINISTER was careful to express his feeling of value in his two-day visit to Washington without giving the impression that any sort of miracles had been pulled off:

'It is reassuring to know that we have at this early date established the contacts and fortified the channels of communications so necessary to the effective conduct of our relations."

Appropriately, Mr. Trudeau was the first head of government to visit the United States since Mr. Nixon took office. Major governmental decisions in each country has an application in the other.

This is why the Canadians are deeply concerned with Mr. Nixon's ABM program.

Mr. Trudeau stated his country's feelings on the ABM to Mr. Nixon and was surprised that the statement was accepted with respect and the talks still were able to move forward on a cordial basis.

IF THE PRESENT level of relations can be maintained, Mr. Nixon has been lucky in finding an ally that has the integrity to voice a contrary opinion while respecting national sovereignty in decision-making.

Lifting The Curtain

Czechoslovakia, beginning to feel the impact of sharply reduced tourism brought about by travel restrictions imposed following the Soviet-led invasion of the nation, is taking steps to relax the curbs on tourists.

The minister of foreign trade said this week that "conditions are being created for better mutual tourism." Entrance formalities have been revised and new consulate services will be established in Austria, Italy and perhaps even West Germany.

Since imposition of the restrictions, frequent long delays in obtaining visas have sharply reduced the number of tourists entering Czechoslovakia and consequently an important source of valuable hard currency has been cut off.

But in recent weeks Czech newspapers, which have not been totally suppressed by the Russians, and some public officials have called for an easing of the restrictions to increase the hard-currency income.

The iron curtain around Czechoslovakia again has been lifted a little.

A Sensible Amendment

Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-Canton, dropped a sensible piece of legislation in the General Assembly hopper last week that we hope isn't overlooked by Ohio lawmakers.

Rep. Levitt has proposed that a constitutional amendment be placed on the November ballot that would do away with the election of short-term state officials to offices where appointments have been made to fill unexpired terms.

The constitution presently prescribes that vacancies in offices of auditor, treasurer, secretary of state and attorney general be filled by governor appointments until the first general election that occurs more than 30 days after the vacancy.

When a vacancy occurs in any of the four offices, a short-term office holder must be elected to serve the unexpired term and a long-term office holder elected to take over at the beginning of the new term.

The most recent case in point occurred in 1966 when Archer E. Reilly was elected short-term auditor and Roger Cloud elected to the long term.

Unless the constitution is changed by a vote of the people, a short-term and long-term attorney general will have to be elected in the November general election in 1970.

Under present constitution guidelines, Gov. Rhodes appointee to the attorney general's office, Paul W. Brown, will have to leave office on Election Day 1970. The newly elected short-term official will serve until January 1971 when the newly elected long-term official takes over.

Sound confusing? That is exactly why Rep. Levitt has proposed the constitutional amendment to do away with electing short-term officials.

Plants In Danger

Motor vehicle exhaust, that insidious poison which permeates the atmosphere around our heavily traveled streets and highways, may cause a pollution problem for plants in the future.

A pathologist at Pennsylvania State University anticipates a major problem may confront plant life by the year 2000 due to the increase in exhaust pollutants.

F. A. Wood, the pathologist, explains that sunlight triggers a chemical reaction among exhaust mixtures and creates pollutants called photochemicals. These pollutants in the air are expected to increase threefold by the end of the century.

Much concern is being expressed as to the polluted air humans breathe. It would seem wise, at the same time, to be concerned about the pollutant threat to our plant life.

Man already has greatly disturbed the ecology of our land. Is it necessary to allow automobiles to kill all plant life near our highways? Or should something be done about it?

Boo-Boo In Army's Tank

Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., has pried an "incredible story" of a "billion-dollar boo boo" from an Army officer and classified documents.

The case involves development of a new tank which is problem-ridden. Rep. Stratton charges the Army rushed the tank into mass production and combat to avoid a financial cutback by the budget bureau or the secretary of defense.

The congressman got Lt. Col. Stan Sheridan to admit in testimony before a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee that the tank was cleared for production to avoid budget complications despite test-revealed problems.

The vehicle, designed for reconnaisance, can be heard three miles away.

The missile it carries cannot be fired while the tank is in motion.

Under extremely dusty conditions, the air filter requires cleaning or replacement every 1½ hours.

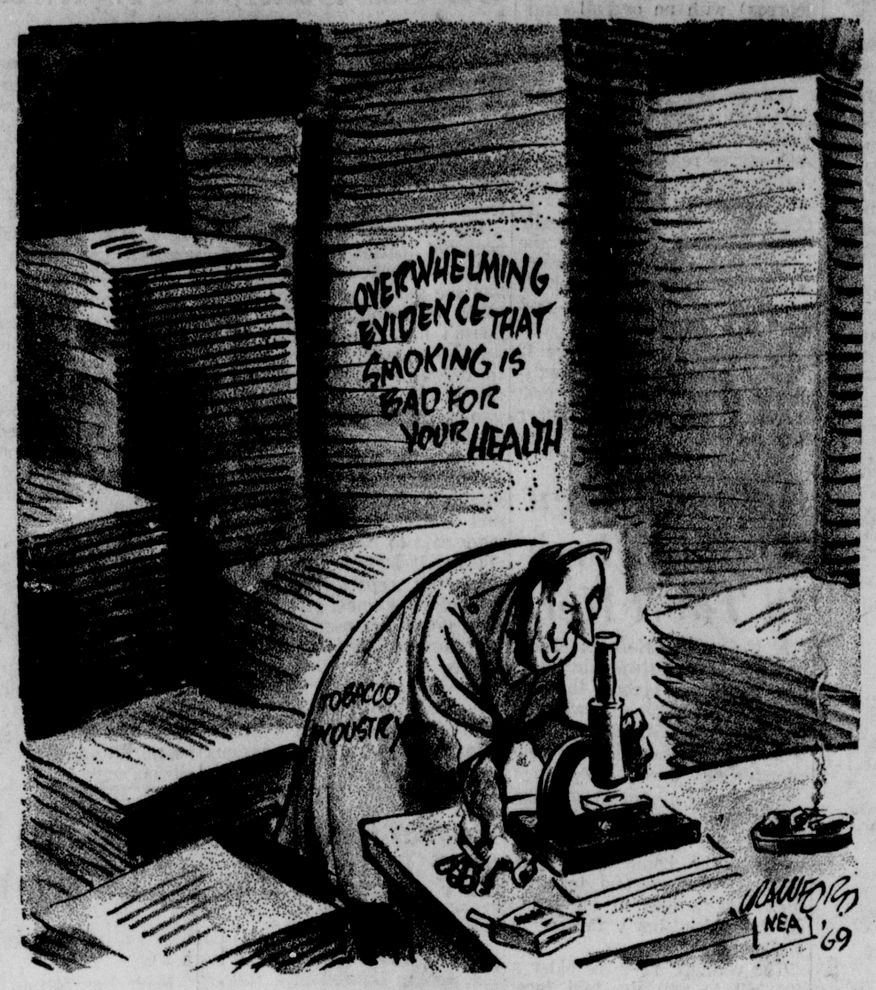
Rounds of ammunition can be fired prematurely and the breech is adversely affected by rough handling, oil or moisture.

Air intake grilles and radiator clog frequently when the vehicle is operating in the jungle or heavy underbrush.

Whether the Army decision to go ahead with production of the tank for combat use was made because of fear of a budget cut or whether the Army just thought the new tank was a good investment, it obviously was a case of bad judgment. The result being a "billion-dollar boo boo."

Is there any doubt in anyone's mind why President Nixon and his budget advisers are checking the Defense Department's books as they look for ways to cut federal spending?

'I Don't See A Thing!'



VICTOR RIESEL

The Kennedy-Lindsay Show

NEW YORK — For the first time, the Kennedy maestros find it difficult to put the show on the road. Perhaps it's because it's a one-man show — and Ted Kennedy is a young man not in a hurry.

Victor Riesel

He's willing to travel and listen. The other week he shuttled between Washington, New York and Los Angeles in a few days, while working on an itinerary for Alaska. But that stretches it thin, even for such a young and big fellow, charisma or no charisma.

So the Kennedy show must open big in New York. That means defeating the urbane and handsome 6-foot-4 Mayor John V. Lindsay in the citywide election this fall.

This would give the Ted Kennedy-Steve Smith-Ted Sorensen-Arthur Goldberg high command its first big political kill. Defeating the big city's swinging mayor would give the Kennedy strategists their own first major victory since 1960. It would unify the party. It would keep Sen. McCarthy on the poetry reading circuit.

But until the weekend of March 22, politics was not looking up brightly for the Kennedy camp, and the young senator, though a frequent New York visitor, was a most neutral neutral as candidates (almost 20 of them) crawled over each other in search of the Democratic mayoralty nomination.

INSIDERS BELIEVED that only one Democrat, globally famous labor mediator Ted Kheel, could defeat John Lindsay — but "Teddy" told intimates he'd sooner book a seat as fourth passenger on a moonshot than run in this swamp.

Over the March 22 weekend, Mayor Lindsay gave his enemies the break they needed. He went out to an upstate union convention and made a speech. It isn't what he said, it's how he said it, where he said it, to whom he said it and whom he praised. That did it.

Wittingly or not — and His Honor lacks no wit — Mr. Lindsay in effect challenged the powerful AFL-CIO political establishment.

His convention hosts were the leaders of something called District 65 of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWDSU). The "District" is a tough, militant, far left-of-center miniscule part of the labor movement. It has been led for years by a turbulent, once-upon-a-time street corner orator, Dave Livingston, who, in defiance of the government, launched the left-wing "Bring the Boys Home" movement during his GI days in the Pacific theatre back in 1945.

For some time now, it has refused to pay its dues to its national affiliate. Mr. Livingston has been meeting with Teamsters and auto union leaders for a working arrangement with the kiwi Alliance for Labor Action. He and his fellow leaders have been blasting such AFL-CIO leaders as President George Meany and their own national union chief, Max Greenberg. The tongue lashings have not been gentle. The insults have been stinging. The Livingston crowd is expert at this. And they have withheld their dues. So the moment of decision came — and the decision, fully concurred with by Mr. Meany — was to oust District 65, along with its vituperation and old left-wing policies.

THIS WAS THE moment some of Mayor Lindsay's aides chose to advise him to be the District 65's star convention speaker. He went. They cheered him and jeered George Meany's name and philosophy. Then the mayor swore in 150 newly elected union officials.

Mayor Lindsay's political fat was in the riproaring fire. Smoke signals were shooting up from labor headquarters.

By coincidence, a few days earlier Ted Kheel's friend, the former Mayor Robert Wagner, had returned from Spain and ensconced himself in that political hostelry, the Pierre. Telephone calls had been pouring in on the easy going "Bob," the people's friend. They started when Lou Stulberg, leader of the state's biggest union, the International Ladies' Garment Workers, had called him transatlantic at the embassy residence in Madrid. So had some Kennedy people.

NOW THE LABOR PEOPLE began zeroing in. The politically powerful friend and ally of George Meany, Harry Van Arsdale, leader of the 1.2 million-member Central Labor Council, lunched with "Bob." So did others.

They came away with the impression he is a candidate for the mayoralty. He wants to buck John V. Lindsay.

Immediately the coalition sprang up. Labor leaders pledged hundreds of thousands of dollars. They told him he'd unify the party. The old front is reassembling — the Kennedys, the liberals, the labor leaders and their Committee on Political Education, the old traditional machine, the alliance which elected John Kennedy and which shattered along the way.

And though Mayor Lindsay is in the Republican Party, he's the nearest thing to the new politics, the swingers, the "youthers," as some call them down at the Hall.

It'll be fascinating to see who gets what show on the road first. History rides this race — that is, if it is run by "Hizzoner" the Mayor and "Hizzoner" the former Mayor.

DAVID LAWRENCE

A Lesson From Ike

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the death of a statesman provides an occasion to point up the qualities of leadership which won him public esteem despite the supposed need to keep constantly in mind certain considerations of politics.

Dwight David Eisenhower was foremost among the presidents of this century who shunned the deviousness of politics. He did what came naturally and applied common sense and honesty. He was misled at times by advisers, but he made important decisions on the basis of what he thought was right and was not concerned whether it would be politically palatable.

EULOGIES TEND to be less critical of a public servant at the time when he dies than are the comments made during or shortly after his term in office. This writer, therefore, presents here today an excerpt from his editorial in "U.S. News & World Report" of Jan. 23, 1961, when Dwight Eisenhower was just leaving the White House:

'Whether in domestic or in foreign policy, Mr. Eisenhower has tried to do what he thought would be best for all the people. He has been a true leader — a faithful interpreter of the public will. He would be the first to admit that sometimes inadequate advice or his own misjudgment led to errors. But more often the reverses he countered were due to circumstances beyond the control of our own government.

"When all is said and done, the verdict must be one of signal praise for the humble man who did his duty— rising above politics and above the intrigues and manipulations of the partisans. He didn't, of course, satisfy the impatient or the hysterical — the militant in our midst or the appeasers. He didn't altogether satisfy the 'liberals' or the 'conservatives.' In making his decisions, he considered only what was best for America — and then applied his God-given talents of common sense, honesty and sincerity. Dwight David Eisenhower has fully earned the tribute written in the scriptures: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'."

There's a lesson in Mr. Eisenhower's life which, it may be hoped, will in the future influence men in positions of leadership in our country. Maybe his attitude was due to long training on the military side, where he felt the enormous responsibility for the lives of millions of American soldiers, while pursuing goals that were deemed essential to the security of the tens of millions back home. His integrity, however, was not suddenly acquired — it was inherent in his life and character.

Many politicians, many newsmen, many businessmen, many labor leaders and people from all walks of life had a chance to know how Dwight Eisenhower operated. He leaned on special advisers, and sometimes was regretful that he didn't get the right sort of advice. But those who stood at his side came to realize that he always wanted honest answers — free from a personal prejudice or a vested interest.

As a military man with supreme command in Europe during World War II, Gen. Eisenhower made friends among the leaders of other governments with which we were allied. His manner convinced them that he was trying to do the right thing for them as well as his own government.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S administration was beset with economic troubles, and there were disappointments in foreign policy due to the Communist intrigues in Asia and Western Europe. But his personal popularity remained high long after he left public office. The American people "liked Ike." They had respect for his sincerity of effort, and they had no question about his continuing devotion to the public interest.

Sitting at the side of President Eisenhower for eight years was Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He now has an opportunity to apply the lessons learned then in the conduct of domestic and foreign policy. If he will do what is best for the American people, regardless of whether it is politically popular at the moment, he will be doing his duty and will not endanger his chances of winning a second term. The kind of courage and independence which Eisenhower exhibited could help Nixon and other presidents win re-election.

Democrats' Claim—GOP Disagrees

Inflation Curb Bid Seen Leading To Jobless Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of the Senate-House Economic Committee say administration efforts to curb inflation could boost unemployment by up to half a million workers.

Not so, say Republican members of the committee. They say gradual but firm restraints on the economy need not have such an effect on a work force made up increasingly of people in stable service jobs.

And, they add, manpower and training programs can help cushion the impact of an economic downturn.

These views were included in separate reports filed Tuesday by Republican and Democratic members of the joint committee after lengthy hearings into the state of the nation's economy.

Generally, they agreed on what was wrong, but not on what to do about it.

The Democrats said the country still needs wage-price guidelines—which the Republicans said didn't work.

The new Nixon administration scuttled the guidelines, the Democrats wrote, and "at the same time it proposes an anti-inflationary mix of monetary and fiscal policies sufficiently restrictive to raise unemployment . . . by between 300,000 and 500,000 workers."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, ranking Republican on the committee, told a news conference his party is not for "putting on the brakes so hard as to bring on a recession or worse."

No increase in unemployment is acceptable Javits said, and an increase from the present 3.3 per cent to 5 per cent would mean real trouble.

Both reports spoke of continuing the 10 per cent income surtax, but both hedged a bit.

The Democrats said this was one of several measures that could be used alone or in combination to fight inflation. The others were a wholly unlikely $12-billion cut in spending or extensive tax reforms.

The Republicans said the surtax should be continued, but the President should be given authority to reduce it if conditions changed.

The Republicans repeated their advocacy of tax incentives for private business to take on some of the problems of cities and minorities.

The Democrats said "such tax incentives open additional loopholes" and added "we urge that the new administration not retreat from the direct attack on poverty begun five years ago."

Republicans said Congress might have to enact once again a ceiling on government spending.

Democrats urged President Nixon to investigate defense spending because of "the evidence of widespread waste, mismanagement and inefficiency." They called for better accounting methods for government contractors.

Sets Series Of Meetings

U.S. Mediator To Seek 'Peace' At Penn State U.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — One of the nation's best known labor mediators tries to find out today whether his techniques will work in college campus disputes.

Theodore W. Kheel of New York, a lawyer who has settled major strikes in the railroad, maritime and airline industries, scheduled a series of meetings with student groups, faculty members and the administration of Pennsylvania State University.

He said his only purpose was to find out whether he could bring them all together to talk over their grievances—"It's not my plan to get into any particular problem."

Kaufman said he thought Penn State was ideal for experimenting with a new approach to the tensions that have swept American campuses.

Unrest at Penn State, which has an enrollment of about 25,000, has focused on greater student participation in university affairs and increased black enrollment, typical complaints at many colleges.

"I think the possibility of a dialogue has existed all along," said Thomas Richdale, president of the Students for a Democratic Society. "That's all that we have wanted."

Richdale said students at a recent sit-in, "wanted someone from the administration to come out and talk to them. Instead, they sent police."

"The main problem on campus is that there is no real communication between the students and the administration," one university official said.

William F. "Rick" Collins, head of the Douglass Society, which claims to represent all of the university's several hundred Negro students, doubted that mediation would be useful.

"We're going to the meeting to give Mr. Kheel information," he said. "But we don't have anything to mediate. Our demands are uncompromisable."

Kheel said he wasn't sure what would happen next if the groups were willing to sit down at a conference table. "We're moving down an uncharted course. I consider this very experimental," he said.

Archery generally is conceded to be the oldest sport known to man.

senhower and the hearse as it wound its way through town toward the chapel.

Military units in full dress led the procession in its measured steps to the rumble of muffled drums and military flourishes.

A brief prayer service was held on the steps of the Eisenhower Library. Family and dignitaries sat near the flag-shrouded coffin.

Only the family and very close friends were admitted for the final moments of the nation's tribute in the tiny chapel, some 100-yards away.

The words of the burial service, however, were carried through loudspeakers to the crowds outside. Across the street was the simple white frame house where the Abilene hero had spent his childhood before heading for West Point and the military career that launched him to greatness.

Strike At Pittsburgh TV Station WIIC Ends

'Scioto'

He shouted to her: 'Let the children go and save yourself' but she told him to take the children out first.

"She stood with one foot on the doorknob and one foot on a berth to hand my brother and sister up through the transom. Then the man pulled her through the opening."

The next thing Mrs. Todd remembers is being on shore on the Ohio side. Presumably she and her family were among the survivors taken off the Scioto by the Lomas.

THEN SHE remembers vividly the next incident. She was being carried across a wheat field by a Steubenville man whose name the family never learned. And she remembers arriving at the railroad station in Mingo Junction, where a fire was built in the stove to help the survivors dry their clothing. She remembers both she and her sister were wearing calico dresses.

East Liverpool's railroad stationmaster, who learned of the disaster on the company telegraph, sent a special train to Mingo to help return survivors.

Mrs. Todd is the widow of Harry G. Todd. A sister, Mrs. Wallace Needham, lives in Vero Beach, Fla., and a brother, Ed, resides in Beaver.

She has two sons, Paul Todd, a Wellsville councilman, and Allen Todd, in Texas.

Mrs. Todd believes there are at least three survivors of the Scioto disaster including herself. She corresponds infrequently with one of them, Mrs. George Wilson of 143 Fair St. N.E., New Philadelphia, who is 93. Mrs. Todd said she has heard that another Scioto survivor resides in New Cumberland, but she cannot recall the name.

Mrs. Todd was just short of 7 years old at the time of the sinking. She will be 94 next July 28.

MRS. TODD'S hearing and sight still are remarkably good for a person of her age. She brightens visibly and talks with animation with the conversation turns to things of the long ago, like the Scioto disaster.

She says her health has been good, and adds: "I have had a full, happy life."

The sinking of the Scioto led to investigations and recriminations and so many conflicting stories were told about the disaster that the absolute truth probably was obscured. At any rate, even the memory of that holiday cruise is vanishing into the mists of time.

It was a sensation in all the river towns in the area.

The weekly East Liverpool Potters Gazette, published July 6, carried more than two full columns in its account of the collision. D. B. Martin was listed as the editor and proprietor.

In the flamboyant headlines of the day, which told most of the story in big type, the Potters Gazette said: "The Disaster to the Scioto — Collided with the John Loomis — (sic) And Sunk Near Mingo — Many Missing And Are — Supposed To Be Drowned — Dread Ending of a Day of Pleasure."

Boiling away all the adjectives and the hyperbole, the facts that emerge are:

THE SCIOTO left the East Liverpool wharf about 6:30 a.m. July 4, carrying about 200 passengers on a widely - advertised excursion to Moundsville, where a visit to the penitentiary was promised. Arriving in Wellsville about 7:30, it took on 300 more passengers. Some of the East Liverpool excursionists left the boat, fearing it was overcrowded.

"Everything went smoothly on the return trip with the exception of some quarreling among a few of the passengers who had imbibed a little too freely," the Gazette commented. The trip upriver started about 3 p.m.

The Gazette's account said the collision apparently occurred about 8:30, as the watches on some of the bodies recovered later were stopped at that time.

The two captains agreed that the Scioto sank in three minutes in 15 feet of water, 250 feet from shore. Rescue efforts went on for several days, but eventually all the bodies were recovered. Two thousand people lined the banks to watch the rescue operation and to seek to identify missing relatives.

The Scioto was raised shortly after the disaster, given an overhauling and returned to service. The Gazette said the sidewheeler was built in Portsmouth in 1875, was 150 feet long and had a beam of 22 feet, 6 inches.

New Cumberland Maps Recreation Area Plans

NEW CUMBERLAND — A recreation area, which in the future may include a swimming pool, was discussed during a special meeting of New Cumberland Council Tuesday night.

Representatives from the fire department, Boy Scouts and Junior Woman's and Lions Clubs attended, along with three councilmen and Mayor Arthur Watson.

Watson reported on a meeting last Saturday morning with Dr. Vernon Wyland, superintendent of schools, and the Hancock County board of education. He said the board will assist in developing a play area below the New Cumberland Junior High School. The site is on board - owned property.

The board will begin by fencing the area and blacktopping and equipping two basketball courts. The schools will insure and maintain the area from September to May each year, Watson said.

Clean-up of the site is in progress. Trees will be pruned and the city will build a shelter and fireplaces. Some picnic tables and benches which have been in storage will be set up.

Representatives of the two clubs said their groups may be able to purchase some playground equipment for the recreation area and the scout and fire department representatives reported they would assist with labor involved.

Being considered is Little League baseball at night, with the possibility of softball and a Pony League in the future.

The city expects the preliminary work, including the basketball courts, to be finished by mid-May. Watson said the board of education is developing its property at all school sites in the county.

Hancock Commissioners Begin Election Contest

Hancock County commissioners continued in session late this morning, conducting a recount of 19 precincts in a long - disputed sheriff's contest. The action was the result of a court ruling which tied up the proceedings for over a month.

Commissioners began the recount about 4:00 Tuesday afternoon, stopped at 5 for supper, and resumed at 6:30 continuing until nearly 10:30 last night. At that time only one precinct had been completed, and as one employe observed today, "all they did was fight."

At 10 a.m. today commissioners were beginning to work on the second precinct.

The contest was ordered last week by the West Virginia Supreme Court which ruled that Lou Smoleski, Democratic candidate for the sheriff's job, must be allowed to contest the election which, after much dispute, had placed Republican Ralph Patrick in office.

Patrick had maintained that the three - month limitation on election contests had long since expired, but the high court held that Patrick was not certified until Feb. 10 and so the election was not complete until then.

Patrick, Smoleski and their attorneys were on hand for the contest along with Prosecutor Edward Zagula and Assistant Robert Altomare.

Commissioners ruled last night that there would be no change in the official count of Precinct One.

The commissioners are examining ballots in 19 of the 39 Hancock County precincts.

Smoleski and his attorney, Frank Pietranton objected to the counting of the ballots on the grounds that the election officials in Precinct One, Grant District, illegally acted in various capacities contrary to their appointment.

The court issued subpoenas to three election officials in that precinct to appear today at 7 p.m.

During the examination of Precinct One ballots Atty. Frank Cuomo, Patrick's counsel, noted Pietranton was examining both sides of ballots. He maintained the Supreme Court records show that only the signatures on the back of the ballots are to be examined.

Atty. Richard Barnes, another of Patrick's lawyers contended Pietranton was using the contest as another recount and by law cannot act in that manner.

Cuomo objected to Pietranton's challenge of all signatures since no objection was raised during the official recount of ballots.

Prosecutor Zagula said he agreed to Patrick's objections. Commissioner Edward Nogay moved that Smoleski's attorneys cease to examine all signatures.

Shortly thereafter, Pietranton became ill, and the court recessed briefly. He left the proceedings after the examination of ballots in Precinct One was completed.

Atty. W. Dale Greene of Charleston, one of Smoleski's lawyers asked commissioners to give him the opportunity to look at all poll books before proceeding with the examination of specific ballots in the precinct. Commissioners, however, overruled the move. Court members ruled that each precinct will be examined individually.

Greene also asked that all ballots, poll slips and tally sheets be photo copied. Cuomo objected stating that Smoleski's lawyers were on a "fishing expedition" and were supposed to enter into the contest prepared with evidence. Greene's motion was overruled by court members.

Altomare was appointed yesterday by commissioners as a second assistant prosecuting attorney.

The motion came from Edward Nogay, Butler commissioner. Joseph Manypenny, Clay district reprsentative, voted against the move however, citing the fact that Hancock does not need a second assistant. The motion passed with Court President William C. Graham voting with Nogay.

Atty. John L. Stevenson is the other assistant.

Driver Avoids Injury As Slag Truck Upsets

The driver of a dump truck which overturned on Route 68 near Midland at 10:30 this morning was uninjured, although his 18-ton load of slag was spilled over the embankment onto the Penn Central railroad tracks.

Phillip Wall, 34, of Beaver Falls said a car attempted to pass as he drove beneath the underpass of the Shippingport Bridge, forcing both vehicles to stop for a car coming off the bridge ramp. Wall said when he applied the brakes, the truck seeing the 20-foot embankment, he swerved to the left and overturned.

A passer-by shoveled gravel off the tracks so railroad traffic wouldn't be blocked. Industry Patrolman, Roy Hohenshell said traffic was not interrupted.

Paul

they said, he would be unable to continue treatments on the kidney machine, and his life probably would end within a week unless he received a kidney transplant in the meantime.

Before giving the mother the bad news, surgeons had tried unsuccessfully to install the "shunt" in the right arm. The size of an average 3-year-old child, the boy has "very small" veins, the mother explained.

"But the doctors at Children's Hospital wouldn't give up," Mrs. McCraw said. "One of them spent a whole day on the telephone, calling other hospitals and medical supply houses until they finally located a smaller shunt, one that seemed it might be the proper size for Paul's arm.

"They took him to surgery and installed he shunt. Now both his arms are bandaged heavily, the left one after the removal of the other shunt and the right one after the two operations, including the one in which they installed the new shunt' successfully."

Paul's blood pressure had risen dangerously and his abdomen was swollen as a result of all the wastes retained in his body. The condition was relieved yesterday when he received a new treatment on the artificial kidney machine at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Oakland. He is due for another treatment Thursday and it is expected to bring further improvement in his condition.

Mrs. McCraw said the doctors told her the new "shunt" will be able to remain in his arm so long as it is not affected by the blood infection.

His current hospital stay began in early December. He was allowed to come home earlier this year — returning twice weekly for dialysis — until the blood infection developed about March 10. When he was taken back to the hospital because of a high fever, the infection was discovered.

Mrs. McCraw said the nurses at Children's Hospital said Paul was "feeling fine" this morning and his spirits have risen because he has started to receive mail again — cards from well-wishers in the tri - state area. The hospital's address is 125 DeSoto St., Pittsburgh 15213.

Lew Campbell, director of the labor district, said the city employes have signed cards for membership in the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes Union.

HE REQUESTED a meeting with Council or a representative Council committee to discuss recognition of the union and exclusive bargaining arrangements for negotiating wages, hours of work, fringe benefits, payroll deduction of dues and other matters.

Council agreed to meet with the representatives on one of two dates proposed, with the stipulation Mayor William Daugherty attend.

An ordinance increasing the quarterly rates for refuse collection was passed on third and final reading, with all seven Councilman voting in favor. The city rates will be increased from $4.50 to $6, with those outside the city limits paying $7.40. The out-of-city rate had been $5.40.

Prior to the passage of the ordinance, Mrs. R. O. Lewis of 1607 Main St. spoke from the audience, questioning the raising of rubbish rates for those paying for it while some do not have the collection. She contended that everyone should be compelled to have the refuse collection and a raise would not be necessary.

Councilman Glenn Mathess informed Mrs. Lewis the city does not have an ordinance forcing people to sign for the refuse collection. Wayne Rose, Council president, added it is illegal to put refuse in with some one else's.

Councilman Paul Todd stated there are a certain number of residents served and the increase has to be divided equally to meet the added expense of the contract with East Liverpool for use of its dump, which, Mathess said, would amount to between $6,000 and $9,000 a year.

WITH THE exception of a "no" vote by Russell Keefer, Council voted to send to the State Liquor Department without objection an application from Anne Rivelle for a D-2 permit to sell beer and wine on the premises at 1303 Main St.

Prior to the vote, Mrs. Lewis, who resides in the vicinity where the permit is sought, raised an objection, saying there are already three establishments selling liquor in that block. She asked Council to object to granting the permit.

Jack Call, chairman of the water and sewage committee, reported that the ordinance proposing water rate increase is being delayed until a meeting can be held with the other Councilmen.

Judge Says Draft Law Hits Athiests', Agnostics' Rights

BOSTON (AP) — A federal judge says the 1967 draft law violates the constitutional rights of athiests and agnostics by allowing conscientious objector status for religious reasons only.

"It is difficult to imagine any grounds for this statutory discrimination except religious discrimination," said U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr.—and that, he held, is counter to the First Amendment.

Judge Wyzanski's ruling came in the case of John H. Sisson, 22, of Lincoln, Mass., recently convicted of violating the Selective Service Act by refusing induction into the armed forces. Sisson said he regarded the Vietnam war as "illegal and immoral."

Sisson came before the court for sentencing, but instead Wyzanski stayed sentence pending a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court on the question raised.

"Sisson is not in a formal sense a religious conscientious objector," the judge said. "His claim may seem less weighty than that of one who embraces a creed which recognizes a Supreme Being, and which has as part of its training and discipline opposition to war in any form."

However, the judge said, "When the state through its laws seeks to override reasonable moral commitments, it makes a dangerously uncharacteristic choice."

In a 1966 decision the U.S. Supreme Court said the draft law provisios on conscientious objectors should be interpreted broadly and not necessarily confined to those with orthodox religious beliefs.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Stanislaw R. J. Suchecki, said he thought the Wyzanski ruling "builds beyond" the Supreme Court decision.

"Basically, it extends the 1966 ruling to cover those who object to bearing arms, whether their reasons be religious or not," Suchecki said.

Clothes, Home Asked For Fire-Hit Family

Capt. Richard Bosh, commander of the local Citadel, said the organization has been "caught short," and clothing is needed for Albert Dailey, his wife Jo Ann and their six children, all under 10 years old.

The family, which lives at 1094 High St., was routed about 11:45 a.m.

Dailey said when one of the children screamed, everyone ran from the one-story frame dwelling and as the last child emerged from the home, "the living room exploded".

The husband and wife who ran from the house without coats or shoes were able to save nothing but the clothes they wore. Dailey lost a crutch he uses for walking, but Bosh later retrieved it from the charred ruins of the home.

Bosh said his group and the area Red Cross chapter are seeking a permanent home for the family. Bosh said he will house them for a time until a dwelling can be located. He asked residents to phone him with information concerning housing.

Dailey was hurt Jan. 9 in an accident at the Homer Laughlin China Co. at Newell. A general laborer for the No. 6 Plant he was working in the slip house that day. A nurse at the No. 8 Plant dispensary said Dailey was working on a movable ramp at the time, slipped and fell about seven feet, landing with his feet on a concrete floor. The bones of both feet were broken. Dailey continues to wear a cast on the left foot and leg, although the right limb is nearly healed.

The family currently receives about $43 weekly from workmen's compensation payments. He also receives food stamps from the county welfare department.

The house was owned by William Tullis of Monaca St., who also is seeking a new home for the family.

Following an investigation Tuesday afternoon, Chief Alfred Van Dyne said damage would run about $3,000. He said the fire apparently resulted from old electric wiring in the ceiling. Firemen first thought the cause was from a coal stove in one of the rooms of the one-story house.

Van Dyne said there was no insurance on the structure or furnishings.

The chief also joined in the appeal for clothing for the family and said articles may be left at any of the city's fire stations.

Citizens Committee Maps Levy Support Campaign

Subcommittees were named and final plans for a campaign in support of two proposed renewals of East Liverpool school levies during a meeting of a citizens' committee Tuesday night at the East Liverpool High School library.

East Liverpool School District voters will ballot May 6 on renewal of an 11-mill operating levy and a 1-mill levy for repair and maintenance.

Leo Lawrence, co - chairman of the committee and chairman of the public information subcommittee, conducted the meeting. Thirty - five attended.

Aiding Lawrence with public information are Dick Frnkel of WOHI and Mrs. Lucille Huston of The Review. Other subcommittee chairmen working with public information are: Ben Weber, posters; Harry McConville, testimonials; Frankel and Mrs. Huston, general advertising; Frankel, Jaycees' Home Show; Robert Harris, "flyers;" Orin Smith and Charles Thomas, town hall meeting, Frankel and Thomas Rodfong, information center, and J. E. Curry, Post 4 essay contest.

Lawrence, Curry and James Lowe are co - chairmen of the citizeens' committee. Lowe, chairman of finance, will be assisted by Frank C. Dawson as subcommittee chairman. A letter is being prepared seeking donations. The goal is $1,500.

Curry will head the speakers' bureau, aided by Mrs. Nessie Dunlop. A schedule is being made of club or organization meetings, and a speaker will be available for each.

Details of the poster contest will be announced Tuesday at parent - teacher association meetings. Plans also are being made for student participation.

Dawson said he had been approached with the idea that the 1-mill renewal being asked for was a new levy.

Supt. Paul Blair explained that the wording on the 1-mill renewal by law could not read repair and maintenance as it had in the past, but that the money would definitely be used for this purpose and it was a renewal. It will not cost taxpayers more than they are now paying, Blair emphasized.

The public information committee will meet again April 9 at the Social Security office.

Those interested may enroll w for adult basic education sses in Hancock County.

The classes, for those who ve not completed high school, e held in Weirton twice a ek.

Robert J. Burns, coordinator pupil services in Hancock unty schools, explained they e not limited to residents of e county, but are ready to serve anyone in the tri - state area.

Burns said the classes run from September to June, but explained prospective students may enroll any time.

Two three-hour classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday nights each week at Weir Junior High School. Instructors are Charles Ralston, school speech therapist, and Richard Taylor, a teacher at the school.

Burns pointed out that the classes are conducted on an individual basis and that a student does not take the GED test until he and his instructor agree the pupil is prepared. The test, if passed, will grant the student a certificate of equivilency, nearly the same as a high school diploma.

Burns explained there is no charge to anyone taking the courses.

He said persons interested in the classes should write to Pupil Services, 3061 Main St., Weirton.

Sirhan Becomes Apologetic After Display Of Ill Temper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Subdued and apologetic after a new display of ill temper, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan listened abstractedly to testimony that he did indeed have the mental capacity to plot Robert F. Kennedy's murder.

The young Jordanian cursed and had to be led from the courtroom Tuesday when a witness, psychiatrist Seymour Pollack, suggested he was a liar. But during discussion of the point most crucial to his case—whether he could maturely and meaningfully plot the murder—Sirhan swiveled in his chair and let his gaze roam the room idly.

Pollack directly contradicted previous psychiatric testimony when he said, "I believe Sirhan went to the Ambassador Hotel wih the conscious intent of killing Sen. Kennedy."

Defense psychiatrists had said Sirhan killed Kennedy in a trance.

"It is my opinion Sirhan killed Kennedy because he hated him for what he stood for," said Pollack. "He saw himself as the defender of the Arab cause."

Q. You didn't find any suggestion of a break with reality?

A. Not at any time.

Sirhan 25, highly partisan to the Arab cause in the Middle East turmoil, became "convinced that Sen. Kennedy was an opportunist, exploiting the political scene by becoming subservient to American Jews in order to get their votes," Pollack said. "He focused on Kennedy as a leader to be destroyed."

The gray-haired professor from the University of Southern California added, "In my opinion, his mental capacity was not impaired to the extent that Sirhan had diminished capacity to harbor malice aforethought."

Diminished capacity is the basis of Sirhan's dfense. Such a finding by the jury could result in a verdict less than first degree murder, which carries mandatory penalties of life in prison or death.

"My clinical picture of Sirhan is that of a much more logical reasoning person who recognizes his legal predicament," Pollack said. He said Sirhan's claims of amnesia about the shooting, "even if genuine," were not related to mental disturbances.

It was at the suggestion of fake amnesia that Sirhan raised his first courtroom fuss in more than a month.

"Your honor, sir . . . " Sirhan said suddenly. Guards, who sit an arms length away, pushed him down in his seat.

"You settle down or I'll do what I told you I'd do,", said Judge Herbert V. Walker sternly. The 69-year-old judge, dean of the city's Criminal Court bench, had threatened some time ago to have a gag and shackles put on Sirhan for any more outbursts.

After a 15-minute recess Sirhan was led back in. One of his lawyers, Russell E. Parsons, relayed an apology saying Sirhan was thrown "completely off balance," by the implication that "he had told a falsehood."

Four Errors Lose Game

Stuart's Grand Slam Not Enough For Angels

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The blast sent the Angels ahead 8-7, but Stuart's new teammates committed four errors in the bottom of the sixth, handing the Pilots seven unearned runs and a 14-9 victory.

Elsewhere, St. Louis edged Detroit 5-4 in 10 innings, Boston blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Montreal beat Cincinnati 5-0, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 3-0, Philadelphia slugged Minnesota 11-5, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 8-5, the New York Mets drubbed Pittsburgh 7-3, Atlanta topped the Chicago White Sox 7-5 and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 6-5.

Los Angeles downed Houston 7-3 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Stuart, a non-roster California candidate who played in Japan the past two years after earning the Dr. Strangeglove tag during turbulent stints with Pittsburgh, Boston, the Phils and the Dodgers, cleared the bases with his third spring homer.

But the Pilots quickly regained the edge on a walk, the four errors and singles by Jim Gosger, Jerry McNertney, Gus Gil, Mike Hegan and Tommy Davis.

Seattle has won five in a row and is 5-0 against the Angels.

Detroit's Ron Woods dropped Tim McCarver's fly ball for a two-base error in the 10th and Steve Huntz' two-out single delivered the winning run for the Cardinals. Jim Price's eighth inning homer had pulled the Tigers even.

Ray Culp allowed just two hits for eight innings and Sparky Lyle pitched a hitless ninth, leading the Red Sox past the Yankees.

Montreal shut out the Reds behind Jim Grant, who scattered eight hits through eight innings, and Carroll Sembera.

Billy Williams slammed a three-run homer and Ron Santo connected with one on in the Cubs' triumph over San Diego.

Tommie Agee lashed a homer, double and single for the Mets, who cuffed Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale for five runs in the first two innings.

Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly, Wes Parker's two-run single and Paul Popovich's RBI single broke up the Dodgers-Astros duel in the 10th after an error by Doug Rader opened the gates.

The Pirates have scheduled some special days this season. April 27 is T-Shirt day, when youngsters 14 and under get T-Shirts when accompanied by a paying adult. June 14 will be Bill Mazeroski day, when the veteran second baseman will be honored. June 30 will be the 60th anniversary of Forbes Field, the oldest park in the major leagues. Pirate ticket offices at Forbes Field in downtown Pittsburgh are now open.

The Pirates open on the road at St. Louis April 8. The home opener is against the Phillies April 11. Pittsburgh has a 38-30 record in openers over the years.

The Indians likewise will open on the road, at Detroit April 8, and begin at home on the 11th, with Boston the opposition.

Another special event is scheduled at Forbes Field Aug. 30, but it doesn't involve the Pirates. The Steelers, which started in the NFL by playing at Forbes Field, have scheduled an exhibition there with the Cincinnati Bengals. The Steelers played in Forbes Field from 1933 to 1963, when they moved permanently to Pitt Stadium, and wanted to play one last game in Forbes Field before the shift to the new Three Rivers Stadium in 1970.

CHARLIE POWELL, writing in the Canton Repository about the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic, pointed out that Marlington's 6-11 Luke Witte was better than either 6-11 Mark Wehrle of California or 7-1 Tom Payne of Kentucky. Not hard to believe, based on Friday's performances of the U.S. giants.

Caldwell's Lake Opens Saturday

76ers Surprise Celtics; Rocket Rally Tops Hawks

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers and San Diego Rockets got off the floor in the National Basketball Association playoffs Tuesday night, leaving the Baltimore Bullets, with the best regular season record, facing the possibility of becoming the first team to be eliminated from the post-season competition.

The 76ers, down three games to none, stayed alive by edging Boston 119-116 on the Celtics' court. The Rockets, losers of two games in Atlanta, returned home and rallied to bat the Hawks 104-97.

The other two series resume tonight. Baltimore is at New York and the Eastern champions must win to stave off the humiliation of a four-game sweep by the Knicks. Los Angeles, trailing 2-1, plays at San Francisco.

Archie Clark, Hal Greer and Darrall Imhoff led Philadelphia to its must victory with 29, 23 and 22 points, respectively. John Havlicek had 28 for the Celts.

Greer, whose lack of scoring has hurt the 76ers in the playoffs, hit a long jumper to break a 109-all tie with 2:18 left. Maty Guokas sank a free throw and Greer made two foul shots and another basket.

"I don't consider this a good shooting game," said Greer, who hit on eight of 15 shots. "A lot of those shots I missed I usually make."

The 76ers' backcourt ace said the Celtics stopped him in the first three games "by getting between me and the ball. They were still doing it but we just played well against it."

San Diego's John Block scored 10 of his 15 points in the final period as the rockets battled from behind. They trailed by 17 in the first half but sliced Atlanta's lead to three after three quartrs.

Baltimor Coach Gene Shue thought his team played well against the Knicks on Sunday despite dropping a 119-116 decision when New York rallied in the final six minutes.

"We had a chance to win," Shue said. "If we can play that well again Wednesday night, I'll take our chances."

The Los Angeles-San Francisco clash is a pivotal one and both coaches know it.

"We can rest on one game," said LA's Bill van Breda Kolff.

Backfield Grid Talent Abundant At OSU

By HAL PARIS
Associated Pess Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—No college football team in the nation can boast as many talented offensive backs that Ohio State will carry on its roster this fall.

The national champion Buckeyes are loaded with versatile performers, seven of whom return from the 1968 squad that posted an unblemished 10 - 0 campaign, including a Jan. 1 Rose Bowl victory over Southern California.

Coach Woody Hayes, who looked at his grid heroes Tuesday in the first day of spring drills, may have a unique problem.

Picking a starting backfield could be the most ticklish chore Hayes has faced in a 19-year reign.

Competition for starting roles should be fierce with a quartet of outstanding freshmen bidding for varsity berths. How to get the most effective use of this surplus material could become a kingsize headache—a problem thay any coach would like to face.

Otis, who led the club in scoring with 96 points on 16 touchdowns, also topped the ground gainers with 884 yards net in 189 carries for a 4.7 average.

Kern gained 499 yards in 119 cracks; Zelina rushed 329 in only 38 for an eye-catching 8.7 average; Brungard piled up 261 in 61 thrusts; Hayden 194 in 46 chances; Maciejowski 192 in 43 tries; Brockington 181 in 43 and Gillian 111 in 13 attempts.

These backs were responsible for almost all the 2,758 yards the Buckeyes netted with a powerful ground attack. Still, Kern and Maciejowski found time to balance the running game with 1,283 yards passing on 91 completions in 158 attempts.

There is talk of switching Huff to an offensive tackle spot with Brockington moving in behind Otis. For added depth, Woody can count on frosh stars Tom Campana of Kent Roosevelt; Ken Luttner from Medina Highland; Harry Howard of Cincinnati Princeton and Jimmy Lee Harris of Dayton Roth.

Campana likely is to be used as a kick return specialist; Howard as a defensive back; Luttner, as a defensive end and Harris as a split end or flanker.

Miami Clinches Tie For Second In ABA

By The Associated Press

With the division championships locked up by Indiana and Oakland, the rest of the American Basketball Association teams are spending the last few days of the season settling the other spots.

Tuesday night, Denver wrapped up third place in the Western Division by edging Kentucky 94-90. The Colonels' defeat enabled Miami to clinch at least a tie for second place in the East with a 137-119 rout of Los Angeles.

Larry Jones' 34 points paced Denver's victory over Kentucky. Gene Moore led the Colonels with 28 but Kentucky's high-scoring guards had their troubles—Louie Dampier shooting 0-for-14 and Darel Carrier 3-for-12.

Los Angeles also had cold hands against Miami, falling behind 68-48. At one stretch, the Stars went more than seven minutes without a basket.

Maurice McHartley scored 36 points for the Floridians, 17 in the final period. Larry Miller canned 31 for the Stars.

The New Orleans-Dallas contest was a preview of the first-round playoffs, which open Saturday night. It was the 13th straight triumph for the Bucs, second-place finishers in the West. They were sparked by James Jones' 26 points.

Oakland, which faces Denver in the first round of the playoffs, warmed up by blasting New York with a team record 169 points and tied the ABA standard with 90 first-half points.

Wittenberg's Edwards Steps Down As Coach

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—William M. "Bill" Edwards, who built Wittenberg University into a small college football power, announced his retirement today from active coaching after 14 successive winning seasons.

The 63-year-old coach, whose career spans 37 years on the high school, collegiate and professional levels, will continue to serve as athletic director at his alma mater.

One of his immediate tasks will be to select a successor. Dave Maurer, Edwards' chief assistant for 14 years, likely is to win the head football coaching assignment.

In 24 years as a collegiate head coach, Edwards has compiled a brilliant 168-45-8 record. He coached at Western Reserve from 1935-1940; Vanderbilt from 1949-52; and Wittenberg from 1955-1968.

Edwards' 37 years of coaching also includes high school positions at Springfield and Fostoria in Ohio; college assistant jobs at Western Reserve and the University of North Carolina and pro duties as head coach of the Detroit Lions in 1941 and tackle coach of the Cleveland Browns in 1947 and 1948.

In announcing his retirement as a head coach, Edwards said: "I've never been much of a retiring person and I'm not ready to just sit by the fireside. All this means is that now I can be an athletic director and a teacher.

"Regardless of where I have coached, my philosophy of Football has always been the same. The name of the game is winning. If a coach doesn't believe in this and dedicate himself to victory, he isn't being fair to his players or to himself."

Since returning to Wittenberg where he won All-Ohio and All-American recognition as a center in 1929 and 1930, Edwards has never experienced a losing season.

Included in his 98-20-4 record at Wittenberg are three unbeaten seasons—1962, 1963 and 1964—and five years with only one loss. The 1962 and 1964 teams were named the nation's best small college team by the Washington Touchdown Club.

The American Football Coaches Association named Edwards the Coach of the Year in 1962 and 1963. A native of Massillon, Edwards also was chosen Ohio Coach of the Year in 1957 and 1962.

NHL Playoffs Scheduled

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eight National Hockey League teams embark tonight on the long road that will lead one of them to the Stanley Cup, hockey's most cherished trophy.

Montreal, champion of the East Division, begins defense of the Cup at home against the New York Rangers, who finished third. Boston hosts Toronto in the other East opener.

All series are best-of-7.

Claude Ruel, who coached Montreal to its 20th title in his first season behind the bench, believes the series between the Canadiens and Rangers will turn on goaltending.

"It will be a skating series," said Ruel, whose club, like New York, thrives on rink-length dashes. "But the difference could be in the goal tending."

Ed Giacomin, an ironman who played 70 of 76 regular season games and was runner-up in the Vezina Trophy race behind St. Louis, will be in the nets for New York. Ruel has split the Canadien goaltending between veteran Gump Worsley, who played 30 games, and young Rogatien Vachon, who played 36. Worsley was the likely choice to open the series.

The second game of the series will be played Thursday and when the teams move to New York for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday, the Canadiens will be up against an 18-game Ranger unbeaten streak at home.

With 15 victories and three ties since Jan. 2, the Rangers tied a culb record for home ice success. The mark was set in 1939-40, the last time New York won the Stanley Cup.

The home ice could play a major role in the Boston-Toronto series too. The Maple Leafs have not won a game in Boston all season and the Bruins haven't won in Toronto since Nov. 27, 1965.

Harry Sinden, who coached the Bruins to a second place finish, their highest in a decade, said Boston's inability to win in Toronto won't hurt his club.

"We don't worry about it," said Sinden, "because if worse comes to worse, we don't have to win there. We can take four games here, in Boston."

Punch Imlach, Toronto's coach, admitted the Bruins had the edge. "Only once in the last 20 years has a fourth place team come on to win the Stanley Cup," said Punch, whose Leafs finished fourth.

In the West, Philadelphia, which lost only two of its last 15 games in the drive for a playoff berth, hopes to keep the momentum going against the St. Louis Blues.

Keith Allen, coach of the Flyers, said he didn't mind facing the West champion Blues in the opening round. "They're the best team we'll have to face in our division, so why not face them now? If we get by them, we should win the division playoffs," said Allen.

The Blues boast the best goaltending in the NHL in Vezina Trophy winners Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall but their defense will be without 44-year-old Doug Harvey, who suffered a slight head injury in an auto accident Sunday. Jim Roberts will replace Harvey, who is expected to miss at least two games.

Oakland, the Cinderella team that moved from a last place finish in 1967-68 to second place this season, figures to have its hands full with Los Angeles. It wasn't until the last two games of the regular season that the Seals managed to beat the Kings.

"We have to work hard all the time against L.A.," said Fred Glover, freshman coach of the Seals. "They're a skating team all the time and keep moving. If we work hard it's no problem, but it has got to be for 60 minutes."

Cardinals Favorites To Win Flag Again

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP) — Take it from the man who foots the bill of a record $950,000 payroll, the St. Louis Cardinals are expected to win a third straight National League pennant this year.

Gussie Busch, rich brewer who owns the Cardinals, made it crystal clear to the hired hands in an unusual clubhouse meeting with the players.

Busch warned that some fans are saying "our players are getting fat" and money-crazy. He chewed out those who reportedly ignore the fans, refuse to sign autographs and fail to show up for appointments.

"Last year a lot of people were saying that you were an accident," he said, "and that you couldn't repeat again. Many are saying the same things this year. Only you can prove whether they are right or wrong .... Let's show the world that we are the real champions."

Busch's session with the players was only one of a number of unusual events in a camp that usually is quiet. The trade that sent Orlando Cepeda to Atlanta for Joe Torre surprised many. The holdouts, following the boycott in the pension dispute, resulted in a late start for key personnel.

To top it off Manager Red Schoendienst spent a couple of days in the hospital with abdominal pains.

Bing Devine, general manager, started making changes before the last out in the losing World Series with Detroit. He brought in Vada Pinson from Cincinnati to take over right field from Roger Maris, who retired, and engineered two deals to get Dave Giusti, first from Houston and later from San Diego after he had been lost in the expansion draft.

The trade for Torre was a surprise although Cepeda had dropped off to .248 last season after hitting .325 and winning the Most Valuable Player award in 1967. Torre, primarily a catcher and an All-Star at that, played first base at times for the Braves and will become the Cards' regular.

However, Torre may see plenty of work as a catcher if Tim McCarver's .253 slump of 1968 continues. Joe Hague, a rookie first baseman, comes up with fine minor league credentials as a slugger.

The infield lineup is set at the other positions with Julian Javier, who has been troubled by a back condition, at second, Dal Maxvill at short and Mike Shannon at third.

The outfield probably is the fastest, and possibly the best, in baseball. Lou Brock in left, Curt Flood in center and Pinson in right are formidable. Pinson has been hitting at a .500 clip during the spring games. Jim Hicks, who hit .366 at Tulsa, may stick as an extra despite his age, 29, and past failures with the Chicago White Sox.

Schoendienst's main problem has been to come up with the proper reserves. Steve Huntz, up from Tulsa, may make it as insurance for Maxvill since Dick Schofield was traded to Boston for relief pitcher Gary Waslewski. Phil Gagliano and Jerry Buchek, back from the Mets, also are fighting for extra jobs. Now Bob Johnson has been added.

Bob Gibson is the big man of the pitching staff off his 22-9 season and fabulous record 1.12 ERA. Gibson, who held out and reportedly received $125,000, got a late start but will be ready.

Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton and Ray Washburn are the other proven starters. Giusti, an 11-game winner for the Astros, was bombed in his early starts for the Cards. He is battling with rookie Mike Torrez for the No. 5 job.

Officer Hurt By LBJ Car Awarded $15,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland policeman who said he was injured by the open door of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's car in Cleveland in 1964 was awarded $15,000 in damages Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green ruled that the mishap accelerated a chronic back disorder suffered by Patrolman Joseph A. Mazzarella, 48.

Mazzarella was helping to control crowds at a downtown intersection during a Johnson campaign visit in October, 1964, when he was allegedly struck by the open door of the presidential vehicle.

Convention Center Slated In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The City of Pittsburgh has announced plans for construction of a center to spur the city's dwindling convention business.

A major hotel may be built on top of the sprawling one story structure that will cost $11.5 million.

Mayor Joseph M. Barr said Tuesday the Penn Central railroad has offered to give the city a five - acre track of land to get the project started.

Welfare Workers Press Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — State welfare workers, back on the job in Allegheny County after a 20-day boycott, have voted to march on the state capital April 15 to press demands for increased salary and fringe benefits.

The action was spurred by leaders claims that state officials have gone back on promises to meet some demands. Only about 50 of 400 workers at a meeting Tuesday night voted against the march.

"We're going to bury their integrity that they have killed," said John McIlvaine, attorney for the United Welfare Workers union.

About 500 workers went back to work last week after union leaders met in Harrisburg with state officials.

Lawrence Collura, president of the newly-formed union, said he recommended the return-to-work after Dr. Thomas W. Georges, state welfare secretary, telephoned him and promised to write a letter agreeing to some demands outlined at the Harrisburg meeting. Collura said the letter never arrived.

John McCarrell, of the United Auto Workers, told the welfare workers Georges is being used as a "patsy" by the administration.

Auto Wreckers File Appeal In Fencing Action

LISBON — The Northeastern Ohio Auto Wreckers Association is appealing a reversal in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court to protect a member, A. & N. Auto Wrecking at Routes 7 and 14 east of Columbiana, from application of the junkyard fencing law.

The association appealed Tuesday to the Seventh District Court of Appals from Judge Raymond S. Buzzard's March 12 order dismissing its case against the sheriff, county auditor and prosecuting attorney.

The case was filed in November 1964. Judge Buzzard granted NOAWA's motion for a temporary injunction restraining the county officials from applying the new law until its constitutionality was decided.

After the Ohio Supreme Court last Dec. 31 upheld the constitutionally of the law, Prosecuting Atty J. Warren Bettis filed a motion for removal of the restraining order and Judge Buzzard dissolved it and dismissed the case.

With the notice of appeal yesterday, the appellant's counsel also filed an Appellate Court entry dated April 1 granting a stay of execution of the Common Pleas Court order pending final determination of the case.

The entry stops the sheriff's inspection of junkyards which began after the injunction was removed.

Rowing is the oldest organized college sport. Since 1841, Oxford and Cambridge Universities have competed in annual contests over a 4¼-mile course.

Group Will Hold Dinner April 10

LISBON — Sheep producers of Columbiana, Mahoning and Carroll counties will hold their annual lamb banquet at 7 p. m. April 10 in the Reformed Church at Carrollton.

Carl Bradford, technical assistant in sheep research at the Ohio agricultural research and development center in Wooster, will speak.

Directors will be elected.

Day Care Center Planned For Wellsville Residents

Plans have been made to establish a Day Care Center in Wellsville, tentatively on May 10.

A committee to set up the program and obtain a place was appointed during a meeting of the Board of United Church Women at the First United Methodist Church in Wellsville.

Mrs. Betty Wilson, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Pulliam, Mrs. Almetta Fieldings, Mrs. Syvella Travers and Mrs. Gloria Kennedy.

The Day Care Center, predominately for low - income families, will be federally supported. It would be open from 8:30 to 4 p.m., with the cost approximately $2.50 a child per week depending upon operating expenses.

Any child between 4 and 7 will be eligible to be enrolled, but they must have had all "shots" for the prevention of communicable diseases, Mrs. Wilson said. Milk will be provided by the center and the child must bring a sack lunch.

The services of Mrs. Norma Scott, a registered nurse at the Community Resource Center in East Liverpool, will be available for two and a half days a week. Volunteers are needed to help at the center. Anyone interested in serving may call Mrs. H. F. Banfield. Mothers interested in enrolling their children also are to call Mrs. Banfield as soon as possible.

Some supplies, including refrigeration, have been donated, but others are needed.

23 Bodies Are Recovered In Mexican Mine Blast

BARROTERAN, Mexico (AP) — Rescue workers braved cave-ins, 100-degree heat and poison gas as they dug deep today in a soft-coal mine in which officials said between 151 and 155 Mexican miners were buried by an explosion two days ago.

Before dawn 23 bodies had been recovered. Mine officials said another 128 to 132 men were still trapped 450 feet underground. It was generally believed all were dead.

Seven experts of the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Washington are to reach this small mining town later today to advise Mexican authorities on faster removal of the dead and restoration of the shattered mine.

Juan Heitz, managing director of the Altos Hornos de Mexico S.A. mining concern that owns the diggings, said hours of checking assignment sheets still left the whreabouts of four men in doubt. This produced the uncertainty about the number of victims.

Heitz spoke of them all as "bodies" but emphasized: "We are changing nothing in our efforts. We are not stopping for a minute, even though there is no life, until every man is out."

The disaster was described by Gomez Sada, secretary of mining, as the worst in Mexico's mining history.

When methane gas exploded and set off a two-hour fire in the underground tunnels Monday afternoon, most of Barroteran's 8,000 population converged on the mine entrances. Troops had to hold them back.

By Tuesday grim resignation had set in.

"No one would be able to live through those explosions and gas," said Fortunato Salinas, one of the oldest miners here. "This is the worst of them all."

Asked what might have caused the blast, Heitz said: "It seems now that the equipment was functioning perfectly. That could mean human error, but this is only a supposition."

There are five interlaced mines at Barroteran, 75 miles south of the Texas border town of Eagle Pass. All are at the foot of Santa Rosa Mountain in the Sierra Madre range. The No. 2 and 3 mines, connected by 2,000-foot tunnels, were worst hit.

Officials said all the bodies recovered so far were badly scorched, bruised and broken, but it had not been determined whether the men died of suffocation or were crushed by cave-ins.

About 150 miners were working around the clock to clear the rock and rubble in the No. 2 and 3 mines. Every hour they were rotated in groups of 20.

ANN LANDERS

Back In Living Room!

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every morning over my second cup of coffee. My husband reads it over his first cup. I'm sure your answer would clear the air in our house.

Is it perfectly all right for a boy, age 15, to bring his 14-year-old girl friend home after school and take her immediately to the bedroom and close the door — not to be seen or heard from until dinner time, three hours later.

After dinner they go right back to the bedroom and close the door again. I say if it's studying that keeps them so busily occupied, they can do that in the den or the sun parlor.

My husband says to keep quiet and not give them any ideas. What do you say? — ROCHESTER.

Dear Roch: I doubt that anyone could give those two any ideas they don't already have.

And now I'll answer your question by asking one — of your husband. If you had a 14-year-old daughter, Sir, would you approve of her being closeted with a 15-year-old boy — in his bedroom, with the door closed for three hours?

I strongly suspect somebody is getting a few vicarious kicks imagining what goes on behind that closed door. Get those kids out of the bedroom and into the living room at once.

Is It Necessary?

Dear Ann: Several months ago a preacher's wife stated the case for her hard-working husband. May a doctor's wife have equal time?

The doctor is on call 24 hours a day for emergencies. The dictionary defines an emergency as "sudden need for immediate action." This means the individual needs help at once in order to live.

Some people think one call won't bother him because "it will only take a few minutes to answer a question or order a prescription." They don't realize the doctor may have received 10 other such calls during the evening.

So next time you reach for the phone to call your doctor at home, ask yourself, "Is this call necessary?" Remember the poor fellow already has worked 12 hours that day and he gets tired like everyone else.

Remember, too that we ALL need him — and this means his wife and children. So let's not kill the wonderful guy. — A.B.A.

Dear A.B.A.: It takes a special kind of woman to be married to a doctor and your letter indicates that you qualify.

Ignorance No Bliss

Dear Ann: Please see what you can do to make it a law that before people marry they have to sign a sworn statement that they understand their legal rights.

I supported a slob through college. After three children he decided I wasn't intellectual enough for him. Like a fool I gave him a divorce because I thought I had to. He remarried within 13 months then decided the children needed both a father and a mother. He succeeded in getting the two boys away from me.

All this happened 10 years ago because I was ignorant. Is there some way other ignorant women can be protected? — SMART TOO LATE.

Dear Too Late: Yes. An ignorant woman should have a smart lawyer.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Goldwater's Son Wins GOP Bid

Yorty Forced Into Runoff Election At Los Angeles

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro who apparently drew heavy support from white voters, has forced incumbent Samuel W. Yorty into a runoff election for mayor.

Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Republican senator from Arizona, launched his own political career in nearby San Fernando Valley in Tuesday's elections by easily winning the GOP nomination for a seat in Congress.

Goldwater, a stockbroker, will face Democrat John Van De-Kamp, a former Justice Department lawyer, in a runoff April 29 for the seat vacated by Ed Reinecke, who became California lieutenant governor.

With about 65 per cent of the precincts counted, Goldwater had more than twice as many votes as his Democratic opponent in the 15-man race.

Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris cheered the victory in what he called "the very region of the country which elected Richard Nixon president last November." He said it's the first time a Democrat has won the seat in the 7th District.

Virtually complete returns gave the Democrat about a 2,000-vote edge.

In a city with an estimated 15 per cent Negro population, he had almost 42 per cent of the vote with half the precincts in. Yorty had 26 per cent and the other candidates were far behind.

Bradley had the backing of Democratic party leaders in the nonpartisan election, and Yorty was in his familiar role as a party maverick.

County OK's Blacktop Plans For Highways

LISBON — Columbiana County Commissioners Tuesday approved the 1969 liquid bituminous program laid out by County Engineer Bert A. Dawson Jr. for county and township roads.

He estimates 1,054,649 gallons of liquid asphalt will be used on 221.10 miles of road. He will advertise for bids to be opened late this month or early in May.

The commissioners yesterday purchased for the county engineer a $6,401 line striper from J. J. Turner Co., Cleveland, and a $4,567 portable compressor from Dearing Air Compressor & Pump Co., Youngstown.

Dawson said a standard allowance of $125 a mile for each township has been granted from the engineer's funds for the combined bituminous and chloride programs.

Townships, villages and parks will furnish $53,138 toward the total estimated cost of $197,754 for bituminous material, leaving $144,616 as the county's share.

The county will also furnish 5,730 cubic yards of aggregate. Political subdivisions are to furnish and stockpile approximately 28,698 cubic yards of aggregate for their projects.

Villages — Summitville, $563; Hanoverton, $304; Lisbon, $277; Leetonia, $1,665; New Waterford, $629; Rogers, $592; Salineville, $2,011. East Palestine City Park—$352.

Money, Whisky Stolen At Store

Intruders broke into the Pennsylvania state liquor store in the Big Beaver Borough Shopping Center some time between 9 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday and made off with an undetermined amount of cash and 140 cases of whisky.

Pennsylvania state police at Chippewa said entrance was gained through the roof. A safe was then burned open and the money taken. Authorities later recovered 128 cases of the stolen whisky in a truck parked near by.

LISBON — Five East Liverpool residents were among 18 from Columbiana County who left Lisbon this morning for induction in the armed forces at Cleveland.

Also boarding the three special buses at the VFW post in response to the April call of Selective Service Board 16 were 71 youths for pre-induction physical examinations.

Mrs. Elane Griffith, executive secretary of Board 16, said induction notices were mailed to 30 youths. Two transferred to other boards and 10 enlisted.

The prospective inductees follow by communities:

Applegate Quits County Road Job In Work Dispute

Lawrence C. Applegate of 1119 St. George St. has announced his resignation effective Monday from the Columbiana County Highway Department, citing "harassment" by County Engineer Bert Dawson Jr. and Supt. Eiler Hinchcliffe.

Applegate, former city auditor, had been serving as assistant superintendent for the highway department.

Dawson today denied any harassment, saying Applegate had resigned March 16 but had two weeks vacation coming to him.

Applegate, 62, said he was first advised there was no work for him when he returned to his job after Dawson succeeded County Engineer John Ursu in January. He said he continued to report for work, and later was assigned "menial chores" such as painting stone walls, hauling refuse and scraping floors.

Later he said, he was asked to sign a paper that his work as "highway maintenance foreman" was unsatisfactory, and he was designated as assistant superintendent of highways, but he still had to cut brush, carry bridge planks and dig post holes.

Dawson said Applegate continued to receive pay at an assistant engineer's rate and was not asked to do more or less than others in the department.

"Applegate's main duty under the former administration was supervising the blacktop program. The department doesn't do this work in during cold weather," Dawson stated.

Courthouse To Close On Friday Afternoon

LISBON — The Columbiana County commissioners announced Tuesday that the Courthouse will be closed Friday afternoon and Saturday this week.

The community Good Friday service will be held from noon to 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church.

Car Knocked 90 Feet After Crash Impact

A 23-year-old woman escaped injury although her auto was knocked 90 feet when struck from the rear by a truck this morning at 7:21 on Pennsylvania Ave. at Martin St.

The halted 1963 model sports car operated by Darlene F. Aguire of 1503 Pennsylvania Ave. was hit by a 1967 model two-door van driven by Harold R. Leggett, 54, of West Point, police said.

Miss Aguire's auto was termed a total loss by Patrolman Orin C. Smith, the investigating officer. The rear was smashed and the rear window was shattered.

The young woman said she halted her westbound car to make a left turn into Martin St. Leggett was westbound about 25 miles an hour, he told officers.

Leggett was cited on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance. Pleading guilty, he was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Queried by the court, Leggett said he was hauling a truck load of plants for Riverview Orchids of Anderson Blvd. The accident report showed the truck is owned by the U-Haul Co. of Pompano Beach, Fla., and was rented from a local agency. The crash damaged the left front fender, bumper and grill of the truck.

Driver's Hearing Set On Tuesday

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today set a hearing Tuesday at 9 a.m. for James R. Hager, 27, of 1854 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., who pleaded innocent on a charge of crashing a stop sign at State St. and the River Rd.

Hager was cited at 2:31 this morning by Patrolman H. Clyde Dillon.

Meanwhile, Roy F. Cline, 28, of Martha St. was fined $10 and costs on a charge of crashing a traffic light at 1:13 a.m. today at Mulberry St. and Pennsylvania Ave. He also was cited by Dillon.

The court decreed a fine of $10 and costs for William R. Moore, 19, of Wellsville RD 1, who pleaded guilty to a charge of crashing a stop sign on the Campground Rd. He was cited Tuesday at 9:35 p.m. by Constable Thomas Edgell of Liverpool Township.

2 Are Treated At Osteopathic

Miss Catherine Sue Slager, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slager of 425 May St., suffered a fractured finger in the fall.

Daniel Stockdale Jr. of the Y. & O. Rd. was treated for a laceration of the scalp suffered when a chain block struck him as he lifted a motor onto a truck.

Will Present Talk

LISBON — Jay Carter of W. Lincoln Way will present an illustrated talk on sail planes during the Mid - County Republican Club meeting at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in GOP headquarters on E. Lincoln Way. Mrs. Velma Cope of Lisbon, president, will be in charge.

Committee Receives Award From Chester Kiwanis Club

The public relations and finance committee received a monthly award for outstanding service Tuesday night during a meeting of the Chester Kiwanis Club at City hall.

The club began making the award with last night's meeting to one of its committees doing for most outstanding work and reporting.

Boyd pointed out that for two months the club has had 100 per cent reporting from committees.

The education and attendance committee reported two members attended the officers' conference held by the state Kiwanis governor at Wheeling for First District clubs. The committee also is contacting members absent from the previous meeting with the aim, "first place in the first district."

Pillo urged members to support the forthcoming Pottery Festival in East Liverpool.

Since Chester, Newell, Wellsville and East Liverpool, he said, all are part of the tri-state pottery district and are visited by those attending the annual event, it is a part of the club's community service activities to be represented.

Pillo said the final result of such cooperation "could be a more widely known community, a more active business area and a better place in which to live."

He concluded, "The pottery festival is to all of us a tri-state community project." He also urged a "good neighbor" policy within the area.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Cheese Worries Solved

DEAR HELOISE: Can you freeze cheese? Check on that for us, will you? Sure would appreciate it.

BACHELOR ROW.

Heloise

Sirs, here's the best information I can find after contacting two cheese manufacturers:

Most aged cheeses may be kept in your deep freezer IF the temperature in the freezer is zero degrees or lower.

They do not recommend freezing over one pound at a time though, and tell us that it should be tightly wrapped in foil. They also recommend that it not be stored over six months.

When you take it out of your feezer to use, do so three or four days ahead of time and just leave it on your refrigerator shelf so that it may thaw slowly.

And here's some more little tidbits that you might be interested in:

They say that if any mold should form when you keep cheese on your refrigerator shelf, either scrape or whack it off a bit and throw it away.

Don't ever waste it if it's dry and hard, just grate it on your grater and use it for such things as casseroles and spaghetti.

Now I've eaten cheese many years and though they say you cannot freeze all kinds of cheeses. . .I have!

Some of them, especially Roquefort, will crumble when frozen, but this I like for many different reasons.

Did you ever try to crumble fresh Roquefort to dump in a good lettuce and tomato salad? Or that sour cream dressing you make? It's far easier to crumble after it's frozen and while still partially frozen.

So enjoy your frozen cheese, my friends! Bet you have some wonderful recipes!

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: In regard to "NERVOUS WRECK" who was bothered with too much company in her kitchen, let me tell you my solution.

When dinner is over I produce a couple of aprons and offer the following:

"One of you wash, one wipe and the other stack things on the table, so I can put them in their rightful places later."

Then I pour myself a cup of coffee and go into the living room and find an easy chair!

MEANY.

DEAR HELOISE: I use nylon net as "end papers" when setting my hair.

I cut the net the width of my curlers and two inches in length.

If I set my hair wet, the net will also get damp and is easy to wrap around the ends. If I roll it while dry, I wet the net just a little.

The net is light enough so it won't weigh the hair down and is so airy and thin that it dries in minutes.

N.J.B.

You're a wonderful pal to clue us in on that dilly.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To apply paste wax to my kitchen floor, I simply put a "glob" of the wax inside a folded down (double thickness) nylon stocking (one with runs, of course) and just rub it on. Works great!

R.H.

DEAR HELOISE: This is for anyone who wears pierced earrings.

If you happen to lose the little screw back as I did, make a replacement from a plastic coffee-can lid. Cut a small circle of plastic about the size of a pencil and punch a tiny hole in it so it will fit the back of the earring.

MRS. M. SYLVESTER.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently read the hint about putting on those button-down-the-back blouses. It's good, but this is the way I do mine and it works better for me:

I just lay the blouse down and button the three middle buttons, then slip it over my head. I have no problem then buttoning the top and bottom ones. Real easy.

Advancing cities in the United States are gobbling up the nation's farmlands at a rate of a million acres a year.

The swastika, symbol of the Nazi party during World War II, was originally symbolic of the sun in the nature religions of the ancient Near East. Similar designs appear in the remains of ancient Mexican and Peruvian civilizations, and it was widely used by North American Indians as well.

The DOCTOR Says

Take High Blood Pressure Seriously

Q—My nephew, 22, has a blood pressure of 166/100. He takes this very lightly, saying that the idea that the normal blood pressure is 100 plus your age has been exploded. What do you think?

Dr. Brandstadt

A—A systolic pressure of 100 plus your age is no longer regarded as normal — 100 plus half your age gives a closer approach but even that may be too high. A pressure of 166/100 is high for a person of any age and a lower reading of 100 is a definite sign of potential trouble. The sooner your nephew gets his head out of the sand and seeks aid in bringing his pressure down the better.

Q—What are the dangers of lowering the blood pressure too fast?

A—It is advisable to allow three or four weeks to bring a very high blood pressure down to normal. Bringing the pressure down too fast may cause lightheadedness or fainting.

Q—Is an altitude of 5,280 feet above sea level beneficial for a person who has high blood pressure?

A—When a person who is living near sea level moves to a high altitude, his blood pressure goes up for a day or two, then gradually returns to its former level. In the long run, altitude would niether help nor aggravate your high blood pressure.

Q.—Our doctor is treating my husband for high blood pressure. He says an occasional cocktail will not affect the pressure. What do you think?

A—Your doctor is right. If a cocktail helps your husband to relax, it may even help to lower his blood pressure.

Q—Are eggs, milk, bacon, mayonnaise and butter harmful for persons with high blood pressure?

A—No, but foods high in cholesterol may cause hardening of the arteries and this is one cause of high blood pressure.

Q—Will Epsom salts lower the blood pressure?

A—Epsom salts are not recommended for this purpose. There are several drugs that will lower your blood pressure without upsetting your digestive tract.

Q—I take Butisol for hypertension. Does this drug have any bad side effects?

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstandt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

A.—First use an ice cube on the gum to harden it, then pick out as much of it as possible. Then apply egg white or peanut butter, which will soften the gum. Wipe the hair between the fingers, using a facial tissue or a clean cloth.

Q. — How can I improvise some inexpensive metal legs for work tables or picnic tables?

A. — An ordinary pipe threaded at one end and a standard pipe flange can be called to the rescue for this purpose. Screw the flange to the underside of the able top, then twist the threaded end of the pipe into the flange. To protect finished floors, rubber crutch tips can be slipped over the bottom end of the pipe.

Q. — How can I remove old bloodstains from handkerchiefs?

A. — You can usually soak thes stains out in a solution of two tablespoons of ammonia to a quart of cold water.

Q. — What can I do about light scorch stains on linens?

A. — Sometimes the rubbing of a cut onion over these stains will solve the problem, following this with a soaking in cold water, then laundering.

Q. — Please suggest a recipe for an "unusual" kind of dessert.

A. — Try this: Put a spoonful of heated, prepared mincemeat on top of vanilla or coffee ice cream. Top this with a cube of sugar which has been dipped into lemon or rum extract, light a match to it, and you have a flaming dessert.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

Berry Benefits From 'Rube Tube'

Since last Jan. 16, when "Mayberry RFD" went on hiatus (a generic term meaning unpaid vacation and regarded generally among television people like an annual visit of the bubonic plague), one of the busiest actors in town has been "Mayberry's" star, Ken Berry.

Cecil Smith

Ken has done the Carol Burnett Show, the Glen Campbell "Goodtime Hour"; he's flying to New York to do the Ed Sullivan Show, and he's just begun work as the star of a TV movie produced by Aaron Spelling and Danny Thomas for ABC's forthcoming 90-minute Movie of the Week.

THE MOVIE is a World War II comedy called "Wake Me When the War Is Over" and Eva Gabor and Werner Klemperer are among those involved. I asked Ken what he was trying to do, "change your image?"

"No," said Ken, "there's not much image to change. When Andy Griffith called me in to do 'Mayberry,' I told him I was no good with accents, I couldn't do country talk the way Jim Nabors or George Lindsey or Andy himself does.

"Andy said the show has never gone in for accents, that everybody talks the way he talks naturally. I play it very straight."

When Don Knotts left the show some years ago, the word was it was doomed. But it went on stronger than ever. When Nabors departed, again there was shaking of heads. But again, it prospered. And when Andy Griffith himself bowed out after eight seasons, there was a real tolling of bells.

However, with Ken Berry, ably abetted by Arlene Golonka as Millie, Paul Hartman as Emmett, Lindsey as Goober and the indefatigable Frances Bavier as Aunt Bee, "Mayberry" has sailed through this season consistently near the top of the popularity polls.

THIS IS ONE of a number of series concentrating on yokel or country humor ("Gomer Pyle," "Green Acres," "Beverly Hillbillies," "Petticoat Junction") that consistently holds such lofty spots on the rating polls that TV is being referred to as the rube tube.

Ken feels the popularity of such shows may represent an escape from the problems of ghettos and hippies and moral-racial upheaval of the cities toward a more innocent small-town world.

There may be something in this. When the back-alley gossip of "Coronation Street" ruled British TV, it was felt this showed nostalgia for the old ways of English life rather than the modern supermarket-suburbia existence.

Here where the move from rural to urban life in the last 30 years has been one of the greatest migrations in history, this again may represent nostalgia for the old ways.

THE TROUBLE with this theory, Ken says, is that rating polls show such programs are more popular among rural than city dwellers.

Whatever the theory, Ken is delighted that the "rube tube" has so enhanced his career. The one-time song-and-dance man, whose routines with his wife, Jackie Joseph, were highlights of a long series of "Billy Barnes Revues" in Hollywood, has known periods when you scratched for work and didn't have it thrust upon you as it is today.

Jackie is currently hostess of a morning movie on a Hollywood ABC outlet. They have two children, John, 4, and Terry, 3. Most of their friends are out of the old Barnes revues, including Billy, now a "Laugh-In" writer.

KEN BECAME nationally know as the bumbling lieutenant of "F Troop," which, despite much board slapstick, was a sophisticated comedy in which some barbed satire in Art Julian's scripts underlay the horseplay. "Mayberry" is much more relaxed and gentler in manner.

One thing bothers him — TV seasons grow shorter and shorter. This season, 26 episodes of "Mayberry", next season, there reportedly will be only 24. The hiatus grows longer.

"The way things are going," Ken said, "you may have to do two series a year to make out."

The oldest "field sport" of which there is any record is falconry, which is estimated to have been practiced in China approximately 4,000 years ago.

Drivers Of Cars To Bear Brunt Of Pike Toll Boost

HARRISBURG (AP) — Automobile drivers will bear the brunt of a $13 million toll increase which goes into effect on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sept. 1.

The increase, formally authorized Tuesday, will average 75 per cent for cars and 15 per cent for trucks and buses, which are assessed according to weight.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission unanimously approved the new schedule of tolls and defended the sharper rise for private vehicles as opposed to commercial types.

The commission noted that currently the heavier vehicles account for 53 per cent of the turnpike's annual $56 million in revenue and only 13 per cent of traffic volume.

The toll increase is the first in the history of the turnpike, whose first 160-mile section between Carlisle and Irwin was opened 29 years ago.

Five More Ohioans Viet War Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Ohio servicemen are among the latest Vietnam War casualties, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

They were Army Spec. 4 Dennis R. Richards of Marion, Army Spec. 4 Robert V. Shrack Jr. of New Burlington, Marine Lance Cpl. Dennis G. Johnson of Milford, Marine Lance Cpl. Samuel V. Ramsey Jr. of Canton, and Marine Pfc. Jerry Dishman of Akron.

Marine Cpl. Mark D. Marshall of South Euclid was listed as having died not as a result of hostile action.

State Workers Seek Pay Boost In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislative representative of the Pennsylvania State Employes Council, AFL-CIO, today asked the General Assembly for an immediate 10 per cent pay increase and three 10 per cent raises mandated by the legislature on an annual basis.

Otherwise, Reuben H. Miller told a House Appropriations Committee in a prepared statement, the only recourse could be a demonstration by state employes.

Miller said the overall increase was necessary to bring state salaries in line with those paid by private industry, the federal government and other industrial states as well as to keep pace with the cost of living.

He said Pennsylvania now ranks 30th among the states in salaries paid its employes. The last pay boost for state employes was 5 per cent in 1967.

"It's the 110,000state employes who carry out the mandates of this legislature," Miller said. "You, the members of the legislature, are our responsible employers."

Dayton Sports Arena Work Due To Resume

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Work is expected to be resumed soon on construction of the University of Dayton's new sports arena.

Tennessee's In Dilemma In Ray Case

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two prison cell letters from James Earl Ray and the death of the judge who received them have placed the state of Tennessee in an apparent legal dilemma.

The problem is whether the circumstances may force authorities to give the admitted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the trial by jury he has been quoted as saying he wants.

Faced by seemingly conflicting opinions from higher judicial authority, four judges of the Shelby County Criminal Court huddled with prosecution officials Tuesday. None of those at the meeting would say what, if any, conclusion was reached.

Judge W. Preston Battle, who accepted Ray's guity plea in Criminal Court March 10 and sentenced him to 99 years, disclosed nine days later that he had received a letter from Ray saying he intended to "file for a postconviction hearing."

Associates who searched his official effects said Tuesday they found a second letter which Ray asked the judge to treat "as a legal notice of an intent to ask for a reversal of the 99 year sentence."

Existence of the second letter written from the state penitentiary in Nashville, had not been made public by the judge. Its wording raised the question whether it was the valid equivalent of a motion for a new trial, or perhaps a writ of habeas corpus.

State Criminal Appeals Court Judge Charles Galbreath says a motion for a new trial filed within the 30-day review period is automatically granted when the judge who presided over the case dies before acting on it.

But Chief Justice Hamilton Burnett of the Tennessee Supreme Court said Ray's letters' even if construed as motions, do not automatically guarantee a new trial.

The justice said any petition filed by Ray would have to be ruled upon as a habeas corpus writ, in which a prisoner contends his rights were violated.

Rotarians Hear Historian Speak Of Canal Project

Clyde Gainey of Canal Fulton, guest speaker for the Rotary Club meeting at the Travelers Hotel Tuesday, told the members of a canal restoration between Canal Fulton and Massillon and about a boat the Rotary Club there is building.

Gainey described Lock 4, the only operative lock in existence on the Ohio - Erie Canal. He said it was Al Simpson of the Canton Repository who suggested a boat be built that would operate from Canal Fulton to as far as possible on the canal.

The boat is being constructed upside down, and will be turned over into the canal this summer for completion of the cabins. The men have been working on it for two years.

The boat will be 60 feet long, 14 feet wide and 12 feet high.

He told the East Liverpool Rotary members that if they want to restore the Sandy - Beaver canal and build a boat, his group would be glad to offer help. "It just takes a strong back, fellows who don't demand wages and some money to restore a canal," he told them.

County Commissioners James Boyd, Max Gard and Charles Gause, Prosecutting Attorney Warren Bettis, Vincent LaNeve and Robert Boyce were guests.

Jurors Quizzed In Evans' Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Cleveland Black Nationalist leader Fred "Ahmed" Evans was to resume today with a pool of prospective criminal court jurors scheduled for questioning.

A venire of 69 prospective jurors called for the trial was exhausted Tuesday in Common Pleas Court and a defense motion for declaration of a mistrial was overruled by Judge George J. McMonagle.

At the close of Tuesday's session, 10 jurors had been tentatively seated, leaving two jurors and three alternates to be selected.

Evans, 37, is charged with the shooting deaths of three Cleveland policemen and a civilian during an outbreak of racial violence the night of July 23 last year in Cleveland's Glenville area.

Plans were being made to call a fresh venire of 30 jurors to the court Thursday.

Junior Editors Quiz on MICHELANGELO

QUESTION: Why is Michelangelo so famous?

* * * *

ANSWER: Unlike some artists of our time, who present broken up or highly distorted pictures of the human figure, the artists of the Italian Renaissance took delight in showing human beings in as majestic and beautiful a manner as possible. It is because Michelangelo achieved a power and glory in his figures greater than any other artist, that his name is world famous and will always remain so. He himself wrote: "Nor hath God deigned to show Himself elsewhere, More clearly then in human forms sublime, Which, since they image him, compel my love." This artist, both sculptor and painter, lived between 1475 and 1564. The figure shown is from Michelangelo's great fresco on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in Rome. Compare the hand — also from this fresco — to the branch of a tree below. All living things have rhythm. Michelangelo has expressed this life quality with tremendous force. This artist's favorite medium was sculpture. He seemed to enjoy overcoming the resistance of the hard stone. His great figures in marble, such as the David and the Moses, are among the most glorious triumphs of Italian art.

(Barbara Lantz of Cranford, N. J., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 2, the 92nd day of 1969. There are 273 days left in the year.

On this date in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson asked Congress to declare war on Germany.

In 1932, Charles A. Lindbergh turned $50,000 over to an unidentified man in a Bronx, N.Y. cemetery—in the hope his kidnaped son would be returned.

In 1945, American troops were pushing inland on Okinawa after the largest amphibious operation of the Pacific war.

Like A 2-Career Life?

By HAL BOYLE

Would you like to live a two-career life? In another generation it may be commonplace.

One of anything no longer seems to satisfy us. In an age of abundance we crave at least two of everything—and sometimes more than two.

There was a time in American life, and not too long ago, when a family took pride in the fact that it had finally moved into a house with an indoor bathroom. Now if we don't have a bath for every bedroom we feel underprivileged because we are not keeping up with the Joneses, that mythical, live-it-up family that sets the standards of status.

It is the same way with automobiles, radios and television sets. Once we counted ourselves fortunate if we had one of these mechanical symbols of plenty.

Today these one time luxuries have become necessities, and many a family feels like it is living on Tobacco Road if it can afford but one of each of them.

A suburban wife whose husband drives his car to work thinks her existence unbearable if she doesn't have a runabout chariot for her own needs also. Two teen-agers in the same house find it impossible to listen to the same radio, and each would be sure his growth would be stunted if he had to watch the same television programs as his parents. Thus a minimum of two sets is imperative.

The same trend is taking place in homes. More and more families with a house or apartment in the city are finding it difficult to hold their heads up in the neighborhood if they don't also own a small place in the country.

Since the two-of-everything philosophy has spread so widely, how long will men stay happy having only one career in their lifetime? Why should a man labor at the same task, sinking ever deeper in its dull routine, from the age of 20 or 25 until he retires at 65?

Well, as a matter of fact, millions of Americans already are enjoying second careers or planning them.

Many government employes across the nation, ranging from bus drivers, firemen and cops to military personnel and FBI agents, can retire at half-pay after a stated period, usually 20 years, leaving them free to start fresh careers. A growing number of business firms are also offering inducements for early retirement.

Often those who have a chance at a second career do better than they did in the first one. Their lives are happier and more interesting. They regret only that they didn't make the change sooner.

One wonders, however, where this appetite for two or more of everything will end.

The first U.S. president to appear on television was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke on April 30, 1939, at the opening ceremonies of the New York World's Fair, the proceedings of which were telecast.

Bourbon whisky is the first American liquor to obtain recognition abroad as a unique product that can be made only in the U.S.

The average automobile travels 100 miles forward for every 100 feet that is backed up. Paradoxically, however, the number of accidents that occur while a car is in reverse almost equals the number going forward.

Strike At Hotels In Cincinnati Is In Second Day

CINCINNATI (AP) — A strike that has crippled four downtown hotels entered its second day today, forcing many guests to carry their own luggage and causing a shutdown of several dining rooms and lounges.

Demanding a 90-cent hourly pay raise over the next two years, 60 maintenance workers walked out at midnight Monday. Hours later, approximately 500 other hotel employes of various unions agreed to honor picket lines.

The strikers are members of either the Firemen and Oilers Local 49 or Operating Engineers Local 20.

Hotel management and non-union employes manned the desks and fired the boilers, one of the lifelines of the hotels.

Bellboys were noticeably absent from all the hotels except the Metropole where management said its boiler plant is mostly automated and requires only periodic checks and maintenance.
